Lawsuit Against Quebec

Redel Seeks $24,750

QUEBEC (CP) — Walter Redel, the British Columbia government official mistakenly arrested by Quebec Provincial Police last February, will sue the Quebec government for $24,750 damages, it was learned Friday.

Jacques de Billy, Redel's Quebec City lawyer, said in an interview the suit claims the B.C. official was "savagely beaten and injured" when he was arrested.

Detectives Gilles Lemieux and Gilles Doucet arrested the director of B.C.'s lands department Feb. 1 in connection with an attempted bank robbery the same day.

De Billy said his client is asking $20,000 for damages against his reputation arising from his arrest and $4,750 medical bills, torn clothing and salary lost while Redel was recovering from his injuries.

Can't Afford More—FIR

IWA Rejects Half-Year Pause in Pay

VANCOUVER (CP) — The bargaining agent for 116 forest companies on the British Columbia Coast proposed Friday that 28,000 employees go without a pay increase in current negotiations.

The International Woodworkers of America replied that it is not taking the proposal seriously. It was made by John Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations.

Billings proposed that the IWA agree to extend for one year the Coast contract that expired June 15. He offered to make any wage increase after that retroactive to Dec. 15, 1970.

* * *

"Any pay increases granted now," he said, "could force the immediate closure of many independent mills and the loss of thousands of jobs in B.C.'s No. 1 industry."

The IWA is seeking an increase of $1 an hour in one year on wage scales that range from $3.12 to $4.80 an hour and, among other things, free room and board for logging camp personnel.

Billings said the industry "is not able to make a wage offer at this time."

* * *

In a news release, he gave these reasons:

"The demand for our wood products is at its lowest point in years.

"Prices of our wood products have dropped to their lowest level in years, while operating costs of all kinds have continued to increase.

"Company profits are at a precariously low level and continue to decline.

"The freeing of the Canadian dollar is robbing the B.C. forest industry of $1,000,000 a week. No other Canadian industry has been hit this hard.

"Home construction in the U.S.A. — our principal market — and Canada is down drastically.

"Ocean freight rates to offshore markets have risen 26 per cent since the first of the year.

"The six-week towboat strike in B.C. has placed many lumber operators and their employees in serious financial difficulties."

Murray Drew, president of the Victoria local of the IWA, said that what Billings says "doesn't hold water when you look at the books of the companies he represents."

"He does this every time in negotiation — if we wait a while he'll come up with something more sensible," said Drew.

Break for Breath-Test Cases

'Clean Slate' Here

By BRUCE LOWTHER

● Cabinet acted within its powers, says court. Page 3

The prosecution at Victoria Provincial Court plans to "start with a clean slate" now that drinking-driving laws that were thrown out March 31 by a B.C. court have been upheld by the Supreme Court of Canada.

But elsewhere across Canada, judges and magistrates brace themselves to handle the backlog of cases while the high court examined the law.

* * *

The Victoria clean-slate policy, announced by chief prosecutor J. W. Anderson after the high court's ruling Friday in Ottawa, means an undetermined — but small — number of drivers in Greater Victoria probably can stop worrying.

The B.C. ruling had eliminated a Criminal Code section that went into effect last Nov. 1 and included laws against impaired driving, refusing to take a breath-analysis test and driving with a blood-alcohol reading of more than .08 per cent.

That reinstated the section that the Nov. 1 one replaced, and it included laws against impaired and intoxicated driving.

* * *

After March 31, Anderson's office asked the judges of the Victoria court to adjourn action on cases involving the Nov. 1 laws until the high court had made its decision. But the judges decided instead to withdraw or quash the charges.

Asked if test-refusal or .08 charges that had been thrown out would be placed again, Anderson replied:

* * *

"Having regard to the relatively small number, the length of time that has passed in respect to most of them and the different types of disposition that arose, it strikes me that those still in the system are entitled to a little consideration and may enjoy a happy situation. We propose to start with a clean slate as of the effective date of this judgment."

He said about a dozen cases might be involved and added

Tree Chopping 'Sounds Like Doublecross'

By HUBERT BEYER

Twenty-five tall red oak trees were cut down this week in the 2500-block Shelbourne to make room for the widening of Shelbourne by "a few feet."

Victoria aldermen are outraged because they were assured at Thursday's council meeting no trees would come down.

* * *

Shelbourne Street residents say they don't know what's going on. Nobody had warned them the trees would be felled.

Tuesday morning, city work crews moved in with chain saws and axes and started to cut down the 25-year-old trees on both sides of Shelbourne between Haultain and Bay.

Friday afternoon, the last oak tree toppled, and all that's left now is a row of one-foot stumps surrounded by sawdust on a naked boulevard.

* * *

At Thursday's council meeting, Ald. Peter Pollen asked if "any desecration of the landscape" was involved in the city's street construction program. He enquired particularly about a number of trees in Stadacona Park.

He was told by City Manager Dennis Young no trees would come down before council had a chance to review the situation.

When told about the removal of trees on Shelbourne,

Kierans Plea: Get Back On the Team

● Foul-up objective being met. Page 9

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Eric Kierans issued a plea in the Commons Friday to 27,000 postal workers to get back on the team to win back public confidence in the post office and drive private competitors out of business.

Kierans' speech in special debate on the postal dispute carried a threat as well: That the decreased volumes of mail resulting from a loss of public confidence could lead to layoffs in the coming year.

Kierans warned the Council of Postal Unions that its present rotating strike tactics could lead the entire post office into greater difficulties than a strike.

"I've probably got the least security of all," he added in reference to the issue of job security in the dispute.

Post office volume has slipped to the 1966 rate of Present Controls Too Little, Too Late?

Land Grab Ruining Islands

By DON GAIN

Second of three parts

It isn't often that the word "emergency" is used in conjunction with land-use planning.

But the Capital Region Board has called for just that kind of planning for the Gulf Islands.

What is the emergency?

Last November the director of the UBC Institute of Research Ecology announced the findings of a computer study of the Gulf Islands.

* * *

"We have fed into the computer all the information we could on the trends of the past 69 years in the Gulf Islands," Dr. C. S. Holling said. "Based on those known facts we can ask the computer to tell us what will be happening 10, 20 or 30 years from now if those trends continue."

The answer, which he said is an accurate one, is appalling.

"Based on past and present land developments and anticipating that those trends will not diminish, 80 per cent of all the first-class recreational land in the Gulf Islands will be intensively developed by 1980," he said.

"By 1990 the whole damn thing blows up. There will be no land left for recreation. I mean no land. It will all be gone to private owners."

He recommended "rigid land use policy to control the demand for land" and predicted that if such controls were not introduced in the immediate future the islands would, in 10 or 20 years, become "a vast dormitory suburb for Vancouver, Seattle, Victoria and Nanaimo."

"It's already happening," he warned, "and even now may be too late to stop the skid. It will certainly be too late two years from now. If the present trend continues we can forget our efforts to find a solution."

When the provincial government introduced the 10-acre minimum regulation, Holling said it was a "promising" step but suggested tougher

Ton-for-Ton Freeze On B.C. Salmoners

VANCOUVER (CP) — New restrictions on British Columbia's commercial salmon fishing fleet were announced Friday by Fisheries Minister Jack Davis.

Davis said total tonnage of the fleet is being frozen, effective immediately, and licence fees for large vessels will be doubled next year.

The minister hinted at the new restrictions last week, when he noted that freezing of the number of vessels in the fleet two years ago had produced a trend to increased tonnage.

The total tonnage of the fleet will now be frozen by a ton-for-ton replacement rule.

This means that a fisherman planning on bringing a new boat into the fleet must have one with matching tonnage—or a collection of boats to equal that tonnage—to take out.

If a large vessel is retired, however, only one new vessel

24-Year Trance Ends with Dirty Jokes

Can You Top This?

LONDON (Reuters) — A 63-year-old woman, a Parkinson's disease sufferer who was treated with the drug L-dopa, awoke from a 24-year trance and began telling risque jokes and singing dirty songs.

This bedside performance at New York's Beth Abraham hospital is described in a letter in Lancet, the weekly magazine of the British Medical Association.

But after treatment with L-dopa she regained almost normal speech and movement and requested a tape recorder.

The authors say that in a few days she sang "innumerable salacious songs, dirty jokes and limericks — all derived from party gossip, smutty comics, nightclubs and music halls of the middle and late 1920s."

Then the doctors decided to reduce the drug dosage because of her increasing excitement and the woman forgot all the early memories but remained articulate.

Tree-Chop Angers Aldermen

Pollen said he couldn't believe it.

"That's impossible ... that's disgusting. This is the action of an irresponsible civil service that doesn't respect the elected officials," he said.

"It's a case of engineers trampling on the values of the community. I'm simply dumbfounded, especially since I was assured in council yesterday that there would be no trees felled," he said.

"They are mandarins gone mad. Even if the trees had to come down, it should have been brought to the attention of council. These people should have the courage to say what they think is necessary instead of just mowing 25 trees down while nobody knows anything about it."

Pollen said he wasn't one to protect trees at any cost, but "almost at any cost." Aldermen couldn't possibly have known about this even though the over-all street program was outlined in the city's five-year capital budget approved by Victoria ratepayers two months ago.

"We are only part-time officials. Things like this must be brought to council's attention. I wonder who is responsible to whom. When an alderman cannot rely on a responsible civil service, things are very bad," Pollen said.

★ ★ ★

Ald. Tom Christie said he was very surprised by the matter.

"What the hell is going on?" he asked.

"Just the other day, we were told nothing would happen to the trees. This whole thing sounds like a double-cross to me," Christie said.

"I'll certainly look into this, but what can you do now? You can't glue the trees together again," he said.

Ald. Ove Witt said he had enough faith in the city's traffic engineer to believe that he would have saved the trees had there been a way.

But he added that, in future, he wants to be part of any decision involving the cutting down of more than one tree.

Ald. Harold Olafson said he had no idea the trees would be removed.

Ald. Cecil Parrott said he knew that "some trees were coming down." He didn't want to say anything at Thursday's council meeting because there was "no use to open your mouth unless you're absolutely sure of what you're talking about."

City Parks Director Herb Warren said he was aware of the tree removal.

"There's nothing I could do about it. There's nothing anyone can do about it as long as we want street widenings and traffic alignments," he said.

Warren added there were more trees coming down on Begbie. He didn't know how many, but he said it was "quite a number."

★ ★ ★

D. J. Rigby of 2514 Shelbourne told the Colonist he was very annoyed because the city hadn't informed anyone that the trees would be cut down.

City Enginer Jim Garnett said the trees had to come down because Shelbourne would be widened "by a few feet" at that point.

It was part of the connection between Johnson and Shelbourne via Begbie. The aldermen had been aware of the project, he said.

'Clean Slate'—Prosecutor

there would be one exception — "If a member of a police department feels strongly about an individual case, he can resubmit it to this office."

★ ★ ★

Anderson also was asked the fate of intoxicated-driving charges laid between March 31 and Friday, when police were instructed by Attorney-General Leslie Peterson to revert to the pre-Nov. 1 laws.

He said those which had already been disposed of in the courts would not be changed since the law was a good one at the time.

But he added: "We may well have to reassess the few intoxicated-driving cases outstanding to determine what to do with them. They might be withdrawn."

The chief prosecutor anticipated no trouble in connection with impaired-driving charges. He said the "impaired" law had different section numbers in the old and new codes but the number is not an integral part of the charge.

Indications were that police forces in Greater Victoria would revert to laying charges under the Nov. 1 drinking-driving laws after official word was received some time during the week-end.

In the Metropolitan Toronto area, judges face a backlog of about 1,200 cases which were adjourned last April pending the Supreme Court decision.

Richard Anderson, the Vancouve lawyer who successfully argued a case under the law before the B.C. Supreme Court, said he was disappointed.

The B.C. Supreme Court had ruled the law invalid and the federal government then took it to the Supreme Court of Canada for a ruling.

will be licensed as a replacement.

Boats already under construction will not be subject to the new regulations.

Davis said salmon fishing licence fees will be increased by 100 per cent next year for all category A vessels over 29 feet, those with salmon production equivalent to $1,250 in 1967 or 1968, before the size of the fleet was frozen.

Fees for boats over 30 feet and less than 15 tons will double from $100 to $200 and those over 15 tons from $200 to $400.

Staghorn Stones Cause Kidney Injury

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you tell me something about a staghorn kidney and if anything could be done for it? I would also like to get an acid-ash diet, so I will know what to eat and what not to. — Mrs. H.D.

I suspect that you mean a staghorn kidney stone — not a staghorn kidney. That is a large stone which has been shaped by the inner contours of the kidney. Being large, it can be a factor in bleeding and infection (pyelonephritis). If that occurs, surgical removal may be necessary.

As to the acid-ash diet: All kinds of meat, including fish and fowl, cereals including breakfast foods, macaroni, noodles, etc., and most vegetables have an acid ash. Fruits of certain sorts — prunes, plums, and cranberries, and their joices — have a particularly acid ash, hence are good to include in your diet.

□

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What do you think about kidney transplants? My granddaughter, 10, must sooner or later have that done, the doctors say.

Her kidneys are not functioning right and she won't live to grow up, they say. What do you think? She is on a strict diet. — Mrs. E.R.

I'd certainly keep her on the diet — foods chosen to put the least strain on the damaged kidneys. Kidney transplants are performed when it is clear that otherwise the patient cannot live.

Yes, there are risks — but there have been successful transplants, too, saving patients, lives. And year by year more is being learned about how to do it successfully. Kidney transplants have been the most successful of the organ transplants.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently had my uterus removed but was told to discontinue taking birth control pills. My doctor led me to believe that I could still become pregnant as I still have my ovaries — Mrs. G.

Some mixup here. With the uterus gone, you cannot become pregnant. Still having your ovaries, you still produce natural hormones, so you don't need either birth control pills or other hormones.

Nova Scotia Labor Hints General Strike

TRENTON, N.S. (CP) — John Lynk, president of the Nova Scotia Federation of Labor, posed the threat of a province-wide general strike Friday if the Nova Scotia government does not give striking Strait of Canso fishermen collective-bargaining rights.

The possibility of such a strike is "very strong," he said after leaving a closed meeting here of about 150 labor leaders. The meeting discussed ways of helping more than 250 trawler fishermen who have been on strike against two fish companies almost three months.

Lynk said the federation will seek a meeting with Premier G. I. Smith early next week to discuss the situation.

★ ★ ★

Acadia Fisheries Ltd. at Canso and Mulgrave and Booth Fisheries Canadian Co. Ltd. at Petit de Grat have refused to deal with the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, to which the men belong. Nova Scotia's trade union law classes fishermen as "co-adventurers" with ship owners, rather than as employees.

Judge Nathan Green of Halifax, appointed commissioner by the federal and provincial labor ministers, told hearings into the strike the union would eventually be certified. He said it was the right of the men to be represented by the union of their choice.

Green said the choice of a union was the fishermen's not the companies'. He said there were two ways to accomplish their goal: voluntary recognition or by rule of law.

If the board ruled against certification, then the provincial Trade Union Act would have to be changed to include fishermen under the term employees.

"I have no doubt that amendments to the act will be made within 12 months," he said.

But the fishermen at the three hearings said they were not willing to wait that long.

Judges on Breath Test Law

'Cabinet Had Right To Make Deletions'

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet acted within its powers when it proclaimed only parts of stiff new laws against drinking drivers, a majority of the nine Supreme Court of Canada justices said Friday.

If the Trudeau cabinet abused these powers by deleting a section of the law stripping an accused of a possible defence against charges of impaired driving, then it is up to Parliament alone to remedy this, they said.

Said Mr. Justice Wilfred Judson, one of the five voting to uphold the breath test law:

"If we accept, as I do, that section 120 of the Criminal Code gives the Privy Council the power to proclaim or not proclaim various subsections and sub-subsections, then that is the end of the matter; this court cannot examine the way in which this power is exercised."

The Criminal Code amendments were passed by Parliament in 1969 and proclaimed law Dec. 1 that year.

But validity of the legislation was questioned April 23 this year when Mr. Justice Craig Munroe of the British Columbia Supreme Court ruled the law not in operation because of cabinet deletions.

The law makes it mandatory for motorists to give police a sample of their breath on request. It created two new offences — one for having an alcohol percentage of .08 in the blood and another for refusing to take a breath test on demand.

Justice Minister John Turner has said that the section of the law which says police also must give the accused a sample of his breath for defence purposes was not enacted because no suitable container has been found.

In his B.C. decision Munroe said the cabinet had in effect amended the law passed by Parliament in deleting this section. This was beyond its powers and rendered the bill inoperative, he ruled.

Normally the case would have gone to the B.C. Court of Appeal and not reach the Supreme Court for many months.

But because magistrates and judges in lower courts were thrown into uncertainty because of the decision, the cabinet decided to take a short cut and ordered the high court to consider the law's validity.

Wet Feet

In this case water and Whisky — a seven-week-old kitten from Edmonton — just don't mix. Whisky is attracted each day by guppies in bowl but is quickly discouraged by getting her paw wet. Discouragement doesn't last long, however. She's back at bowl next day to try her luck again. — (CP)

Order to CBC: It's Canada Day

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker said Friday he has been informed by a CBC official that State Secretary Gerard Pelletier's department has instructed the CBC to refer to July 1 as Canada Day.

The former Conservative prime minister said in the Commons that under the law July 1 is still Dominion Day and that the Liberals did not have the backbone to support a bill changing the name to Canada Day and withdrew it.

Liberals applauded loudly when Diefenbaker said the head of the news department at the CBC had stated that specific orders had been given by Pelletier's department to call July 1 Canada Day.

Diefenbaker described Mr. Pelletier as a "self-glorified Caesar."

Credit To People

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Friday he will make sure the Canadian taxpayer gets proper credit for Ottawa's $10,000,000 centennial gift to British Columbia.

He said in a Commons reply to Robert Borrie (L—Prince George-Peace River), that no specific conditions are attached to the grant, though State Secretary Gerard Pelletier would discuss with his B.C. counterpart how the money would be spent.

Gerald Baldwin (PC—Peace River) suggested part of the grant be used to lower water levels in the Bennett dam and thus increase the flow in the Peace River.

Unconstitutional Action

IT WILL BE INTERESTING to note if the Trudeau government's announced decision to completely restructure the federal civil service along language lines will engender any major opposition on the grounds that such a move is in direct conflict with the British North America Act and is thus unconstitutional.

According to the prime minister the federal government will now set about implementing the most controversial of the 57 recommendations contained in the third report submitted by the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism which calls for the creation of unilingual French units within all branches of the federal government.

The British North America Act — which is Canada's constitution — specifically deals with the use of both languages in the government of Canada. It says: "Either the English or French languages may be used by any person in the debates of the Houses of Parliament of Canada and of the Houses of the Legislature of Quebec; and both these languages shall be used in the respective records and journals of those Houses: and either of those languages may be used by any person or in any pleading or process in or issuing from any court of Canada established under this act, and in or from all or any of the courts of Quebec." The courts of Canada as here described are held to be the Supreme Court and the Exchequer Court.

To be additionally noted at this time is the fact that under the BNA Act amendment of 1949 the federal government was empowered to amend the constitution of Canada from time to time with several exceptions, one of which being "as regards the use of the English or the French language."

Certainly there is sufficient reason here to justify the Ottawa opposition parties making a serious attempt to stop the Trudeau government on this issue. Even if Opposition leader Robert Stanfield feels Mr. Trudeau's contemplated action would be a valuable contribution toward national unity, he would be ill-advised at this time to place his party in a position of condoning a deliberate breach of the constitution.

It may also be recalled at this time that the Official Languages Act of last year was and still is considered by many responsible Canadians — among them some leading experts in constitutional law — to have gone far beyond the terms of the BNA Act.

Surely the time has come for the vast silent majority of Canadians to begin to fight for their constitutional rights: to put an end to this continual flouting of the BNA Act by the Trudeau government.

Stop Kicking the Dynamite

THE WORLD MAY WONDER, with some reason, whether President Gamal Abdel Nasser is deliberately inviting attack by Israel and if so whether his confidence in the Arab ability to smash such an offensive is more bravado than conviction.

It may be, of course, that he has fuller and firmer guarantees from the Soviet Union than would seem to be warranted by the risk of American intervention. He speaks of new and massive aircraft shipments promised — "hundreds of new planes from the Soviet Union."

If there is any chance that President Nixon can be hurried into a decision to deliver Phantoms and Skyhawks to the Israelis this sort of boasting will surely accomplish it.

It is hardly conceivable that Nasser's Russian friends want to encourage such deliveries in view of the fact that Soviet pilots and crews are manning Egyptian aircraft and anti-aircraft batteries.

But if Moscow does not approve of the Egyptian's wild jingoism it is hard to believe that Nasser would so offend his backers without whose enormous arms credits and training programs, and now active co-operation in the field, he would be so vulnerable.

It is barely possible that President Nasser was carried away by his audience's enthusiam when he shouted to 100,000 in a Benghazi stadium that his armies at last were ready to cross the Suez and engage the Israelis in the occupied territories. At the same time he spurned the latest United States peace plan. He was cheered deliriously, and this enthusiasm may have accounted, at least in part, for his confident truculence. It's a funny thing about some tyrants and egocentrics. They can rouse a rabble or inflame a crowd and in the process intoxicate themselves.

But he would not have been so far excited that he would dare fly in the face of Soviet policy. It must be concluded, then, that for reasons beyond comprehension President Nasser has made these threats and offered this invitation to instant Israel reprisal on the pattern of 1967 with the concurrence of the masters in the Kremlin.

What significance there may be in the president's unexpected return to Cairo from his Libyan conference presently may be disclosed. It may be that the American peace plan and the discussions at high diplomatic levels in Cairo—through the good offices of the Spanish embassy — have been more interesting to the president than he pretended at Benghazi. Could he have had new orders from Moscow?

That will be the hope nourished in the world's capitals.

In the meantime they will wish he would stop kicking the dynamite around.

Canada Abandoning Collective Security As West's Best Guarantee of Peace

SHOULD foreign policy be formulated primarily by collective security requirements or by domestic needs and interests?

There was a time when this question, which now agitates the democratic countries, did not arise. When the threat of conquest was limited to armies marching across borders, large nations took care of their own security and the ensuing system of balance of power provided a degree of protection for the smaller countries sandwiched between the potential antagonists. Some lucky corners of the earth, like Canada and Australia, were virtually beyond the reach of any hostile military force.

* * *

In those irretrievably lost days the foreign policy of all the major sovereign states clearly reflected national interests; wars, when they did occur, were clashes of those interests. Alliances represented little more than combinations of national objectives.

This pattern endured, with some modification and half-hearted attempts at marginal subordination of national interests to idealistic concepts of international law, until the Second World War. It was that tragic experience with the amalgam of aggressive chauvinism and rapid advances in military technology which convinced the democracies that foreign policy based primarily on domestic needs and interests could no longer provide a reasonable degree of security even in a system of traditional alliances.

Then the experiment with the supra-national structure of the United Nations (which in theory seemed to solve the problem) proved ineffective during the post-war Soviet expansion into Eastern and Central Europe. The need for a new approach became self-evident at the time of the Russian Berlin blockade and grab of Czechoslovakia.

* * *

The emergence of the Atlantic Alliance, which was forced on the democracies by these Soviet moves, marked a turning point in the Western concept of foreign policy. It became obvious that mere co-ordination of national foreign policies would no longer suffice for dealing with the new totalitarian challenge. The imperative of collective security, which could only be served by an integrated joint effort in the face of the all-encompassing nature of the challenge, necessitated a reversal of the priorities in the foreign policies of the member-states of the alliance.

Henceforth, instead of projecting domestic political, economic and other national considerations, their foreign policies were to be shaped primarily by the overriding consideration of collective security. In other words, internal affairs were to be worked out within the framework of a common foreign and defence policy.

While this concept was not entirely new (it was the guiding principle of the wartime effort), its application to what passed for peacetime conditions was truly revolutionary. Its implementation and maintenance over a long period of time demanded high public awareness of the need for subordination of narrow national interests to the unprecedented joint prevention of a major war and of piecemeal subversion and destruction of freedom.

* * *

By and large, the wartime generation in the democracies understood the need for the primacy of the collective security effort. Its support of the whole concept, which required self-disciplined moderation of purely national interests, enabled the Atlantic Alliance in the 1950s to come close to forging a joint Western foreign and defence policy.

The first serious breach of the common front was France's withdrawal from NATO's integrated military structure and her futile attempt to break the stalemate in Europe by negotiating a French-Soviet detente. This French return to the national base in foreign and defence policy coincided with a growing weariness throughout the alliance, especially among the young people, with the common effort which, due to its success in preventing a major conflict, seemed no longer necessary.

Though the crack in the alliance may have been motivated chiefly by Charles de Gaulle's dreams of personal and national grandeur, it set in motion a revival of nationalistic particularism in all the democracies.

Canada chipped in early when the Diefenbaker government, perhaps also due to personal views and aspirations of its leader, chose to weaken the common front during the tensest moments of the Cuban missile crisis.

* * *

From then on a gradual, predominantly nationalistic, isolationist and unilaterally pacifist disintegration of the concept of a common Western policy set in. By now the process of return to the old, inward-looking national priorities in foreign policy, while still in doubt in the U.S., West Germany and Britain, is virtually complete in Canada.

Poison Parade On Battery St.

MEN, looking like extras from a moon landing film, came down our street today and sprayed everything on the boulevard with a pesticide named "Phosphamidon." The men were well protected, and when I had read the pamphlet put out by the Ortho Agricultural Chemicals Ltd. I was glad that they were.

It's a large pamphlet, printed in red and with many instructions. May I quote directly and at random. "Keep all persons out of the operating area where there may be dangers of drift. Vacated areas should not be re-entered until Phosphamidon residues have dissipated." (I wonder about the people and animals who use the street.)

"The symptoms of Phosphamidon poisoning include headache, blurred vision, weakness, nausea, cramps, diarrhea and discomfort in the chest." There then follows a lengthy instruction for the benefit of physicians in their treatment of casualties.

I am sick when I digest the implications and facts involved in this pesticide trip down Battery Street. I'm told this is done all over Victoria, but we are instructed not to use poisons on our lawns and gardens. I seem to remember university students gathering them up from householders. By using them we could well be playing our individual parts in the extermination of life on this earth. Since this information is featured in every type of communication, it makes thinking people feel completely helpless when with all the facts before them, our local authorities still sanction the spraying of our streets and parks.

Wake up, you people! The Bible says something about not letting one hand know what the other hand is doing, but surely this is too literal an interpretation.

We who live here are proud of Battery Street. How dare they poison it before our very eyes? We are proud of the trees and the count the birds' nests. Wonder how they fared when the spray hit them?

A little boy cries when he finds a robin with a broken wing. Wonder how long we will have robins, or, for that matter little boys.

Yesterday I saw a baby raccoon that was completely blind. You know, both eyes festered shut. Not a pretty sight. A man found it in Beacon Hill Park. Has anybody ever investigated the part pesticides just might play in this sort of thing? My pamphlet quotes as a symptom, blurred vision. Wonder what would happen to human eyes if they moved at grass level, when this pamphlet says: "Never handle Phosphamidon with bare hands. Wear waterproof or protective clothing, gloves and hat. When handling Phosphamidon, and while spraying or entering sprayed areas, wear a respirator."

Think about it, you public out there, and speak loud and clear, or we will emulate the sorry lemming. Are we so spineless and gutless that we will sit patiently and submissively while our tax money is used to pay men to help perpetrate the very thing that ecologists and geologists and biologists and entomologists agree will, if not halted, wipe out all existence? Are we?

(Mrs.) MALLA VENNBERG,
648 Battery St.

Needless Unrest

As one who has been in the position of both employer and employee over the past 55 years, there is no need for all this labor unrest in B.C. First of all, the labor unions have lifted the worker from slavery, in which I participated in 1913, working as an apprentice engineer from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. for roughly 25 cents daily, not hourly: but on the whole, the workers were happy as there was little to buy, except food and beer.

No radios, TV, motor cars, telephones, boats, fancy homes, fridges, although we were beginning to see how other people lived by the old silent movies, especially in the U.S. where the standard of living was little better than ours.

The politicians and leaders have never succeeded in welding the country together in times of peace as they can do in times of war.

In the thirties, the writer homesteaded in Saskatchewan when the owner of a $20 bill had a crowd around to take a look at it.

But on the outbreak of war, the clever men in Ottawa turned the switch of prosperity and full employment. Where do their brains go in "peacetime?"

They say they have found no solution to "profit-sharing schemes." I believe a start could be made in this direction by contributions of the workers themselves, in this way: deductible union dues to be invested in the company the worker gives his services to, at the year's end the interest be divided amongst the workers as a tax free bonus. The union officers to be dedicated workers from the ranks who are elected by secret ballot, and paid only out-of-pocket expenses. This will eliminate the leakage of union funds, where it has been known for "union men" to build $50,000 homes, but few funds available when a strike is forced upon the "sheep."

As a "union man" I have gone to meetings where the individual was against striking but went along "because the union said so." Not one man would have guts enough to get up and protest, because he would say "It is no use, I dare not protest, in fear of what may happen to me, or my family." Truly a "bunch of sheep."

As a pensioner, told to live on $108 a month, I think this should be taken as a base for wage demands, not the salaries of members of Parliament (or their pension scheme) and to face continued competition from Japan, Germany and other countries with high productivity and low wages, we must remove the waste deadwood and featherbedding, starting with the federal government, then right down through the railway companies, post office, income tax department, CBC, etc.

As I see it, there must be an increase in production workers and fewer drones, if we hope to survive the aggressiveness of Japan and other countries.

VETERAN-PENSIONER.

Degrading Custom

Perhaps the tourist authorities and agencies of Canada, the U.S.A. and the U.K. could be persuaded to arrive at some international agreement to discourage, if not prohibit, tipping in the tourist trade. In hotels and restaurants, on ships and trains, etc., one of the greatest annoyances is the recognized "cash obligation" to tip union-wage employees to whom, incidentally, it should be considered as a degrading custom in the final analysis.

Store clerks, airline stewardesses, fuel station attendants and others render efficient services without "obligatory" tips. If a widely publicized agreement could be reached for the abolition of tipping, tourists would undoubtedly gratefully respond, and with a greater incentive to travel. Any union-wage employee who would "protest" or be dissatisfied could quit his or her non-tipping job and be quickly replaced.

RELUCTANT TIPPER.

Communists Have Initiative in Cambodia

By MARK FRANKLAND from Phnom Penh

THE Viet Cong and North Vietnamese now seem intent on isolating Phnom Penh from the rest of Cambodia and without sizeable help from abroad there is little the hard-pressed Cambodians can do to stop them.

By June 20 the two railway lines and all the roads into the capital were either potentially impassable or very dangerous. A Viet Cong commando or shelling attack against Phnom Penh airport was widely expected.

As long as the South Vietnamese navy holds the Mekong River corridor up to Phnom Penh —and Saigon has every intention of keeping it open — emergency supplies of food and fuel can be brought to the capital. What Hanoi appears to be aiming at is rather the destruction of Phnom Penh's natural economic and political relationship with the countryside.

* * *

The capital may have rice, but it will no longer be from the rich fields around Battambang from where a train bringing 1,200 tons of rice to the capital was seized by the Viet Cong June 15. It will have oil, but not from Cambodia's own refinery at the seaport of Kompong Som (formerly Sihanoukville).

Thus, Cambodia will become increasingly dependent on air support from South Vietnam and America and the cost of the war to its allies will be increasingly high.

Observers here are alarmed by the efficiency Hanoi's forces have shown in preparing this new stage of the Cambodian war. Their major new base area in the northeast is now a going concern.

Supplies are coming down the Mekong and its tributaries from Laos and in some places are distributed inside Cambodia by lorries. The Cambodian army, forced into defensive positions around towns and along roads, is unable to prevent the communist troops from moving across the countryside and picking its targets around Phnom Penh at will.

The American and South Vietnamese operations in the old communist sanctuary areas along the border have little impact on this new war. The best the South Vietnamese can do is send in relief forces if an important and not too distant town is threatened, as they did last week at Kompong Speu, southwest of Phnom Penh.

* * *

But they cannot do this everywhere and since they arrive after the Viet Cong have entered a town, getting them out inevitably causes destruction and loss and injury to the local Cambodian population.

If spirits in Phnom Penh are still surprisingly high it is because the Cambodian leadership and their supporters are convinced of the rightness of their cause as victims of a foreign invasion. But what worries military experts here is that patriotism and willingness to fight are not enough against a powerful enemy unless they are underpinned by military effectiveness.

To be militarily effective, these experts say, the Cambodian army needs to have training, confidence in its weapons, knowledge that it is properly supported by medical services, supplies and decent firepower.

None of these things exist, because for years Sihanouk intentionally kept the army weak. It is felt that there is now simply not time to train and equip the Cambodian army so that it could become a balanced, modern fighting force.

The best estimates are that it would take a year to get the equipment in and another year before it could be properly used. The only other effective solution would be to bring in foreign troops with their own heavy equipment, as the Americans did in South Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese intervention, limited by Saigon's own resources and the primary need to fight the war in South Vietnam, is not the same thing. The promised force of a few thousand Thai volunteers will only be a drop in the bucket.

The feeling here, therefore, is that the only solution, however unsatisfactory, is to supply the Cambodians with as much of the type of light equipment they already possess as they have men to use it. But the appalling fact is that while the Western nations are encouraging Cambodia to fight on they are showing great reluctance to provide her rapidly with the means to do so.

* * *

Senior Cambodian officers cannot understand why Washington is being so slow to deliver small arms aid for which President Nixon has already set aside nearly $8 million. The Cambodians have been discussing with the American mission here for nearly a month the delivery of 10,000 rifles, but they have still not been delivered.

It was thought that the arms captured in the Viet Cong sanctuaries — identical with the Soviet and Chinese weapons used by much of the Cambodian army — were to be shipped here. But as far as is known none has arrived.

Saigon and Washington are believed to have sent some 20,000 rifles to Phnom Penh in April, a mixture of captured communist weapons and American carbines, but the Cambodian army has now a strength of nearly 130,000 men, and perhaps a quarter or more of these are without guns.

For example, of some nine Cambodian battalions defending the important town of Kompong Cham, there are three newly-formed battalions with few if any rifles among them. There are disquieting rumors that both Washington and Saigon are afraid that if they do send large arms shipments the communists may eventually get hold of them.

* * *

And while the need for military aid is the most obvious, the time is soon coming when Cambodia is going to need sizeable economic aid even if only to pay her troops. For the moment Phnom Penh can live on fortunately quite large reserves, but the economy is at a halt and exports finished.

Yet there is not a single diplomat here who can promise the Cambodians that his government is going to step into the breach. An American diplomat turned my question about Washington's intentions and said: "Perhaps London will chip in with £10 million." It was a good point, and could have been made equally about Canberra or any other capital of the Western world which is generous with little but moral support.

For unless support is forthcoming time is on the side of Hanoi. With time the North Vietnamese can probably organize, through force if need be, at least a facade of a pro-Sihanouk Cambodian army hung around the few thousand communist Cambodian guerrillas who have existed since Sihanouk's time.

Then they can move on to what the shrewdest people here believe must be their next phase: either an attempt to destroy the Cambodian government by an attack on Phnom Penh or a bid to demoralize it more gradually by tightening their noose around the capital.

Talks Adjourn with No Progress

Postal Strikes in Most of B.C.

From CP

Rotating postal strikes were concentrated in Ontario and British Columbia Friday as federal government and union negotiators adjourned talks in the dispute until next week.

The two sides met for only an hour at Ottawa, then adjourned until Tuesday, apparently without progress.

★ ★ ★

Residents in some suburbs of Toronto, in parts of southern Ontario and in most parts of British Columbia will be without mail at least until Monday as postal workers in those areas stayed off their jobs.

In B.C., walkouts occurred virtually everywhere except in Vancouver and Prince George. Whitehorse in the Yukon Territory was also affected by a walkout.

The post office said a total of 5,200 workers stayed off their jobs in 102 offices across Canada.

About 800 workers in Edmonton meanwhile returned to work after a 48-hour strike, the second in the city. About 1,100 workers also returned in Winnipeg.

In other developments Friday, the Alberta Civil Service Association voted to support the Council of Postal Unions to the tune of $10,000 in the event of a national strike.

"Battle over wage guidelines is being fought for all of us by the postal workers," said R. C. Smith, the association president. "This battle must be won."

"If the federal government is successful in imposing a six-per cent limit on its employees, the Alberta government will probably attempt to do the same thing in our next round of negotiations in 1971," said Smith.

The association is the bargaining agent for 18,000 provincial government employees.

Smith said he hoped the association's action of financially supporting the postal workers would serve notice on the provincial government that guidelines of any sort would be unacceptable to the association in future wage negotiations.

★ ★ ★

Post offices hit in the Toronto area were the boroughs of Scarborough, North York and Etobicoke and the nearby communities of Mississauga, Milton, Oakville, Malton, Woodbridge, Thornhill, Richmond Hill, Pickering, Markham, Stouffville and Ajax.

In other parts of Ontario, postal workers walked out in Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, Fort Erie, Welland, Port Colbourne, Kitchener, Waterloo, Guelph, Preston, Owen Sound, Thunder Bay and many other smaller centres.

Bernadette Devlin Jailed, Violence Rips Bogside

LONDONDERRY (AP) — Bernadette Devlin was taken to prison amid outbreaks of violence Friday only hours after an Irish judge rejected an appeal of her riot conviction.

The 23-year-old civil rights leader was arrested shortly before she was scheduled to address a meeting of her Roman Catholic supporters in Londonderry.

Youths throwing stones and bottles fought helmeted British troops in the Catholic Bogside district where 2,000 people had gathered to hear Miss Devlin, who is also a Member of Parliament.

Police earlier had agreed to let Miss Devlin address Bogside residents and then surrender at police headquarters to begin the six-month prison term, imposed for her activities during last summer's battles between Catholics and Protestants.

But an army spokesman said police set up roadblocks around Londonderry to intercept Miss Devlin and prevent her from making a dramatic speech that would arouse her followers.

Natives May Sue Hydro

EDMONTON (CP) — Stan Daniels, president of the Metis association of Alberta, said Friday the association is looking into the possibility of legal action against British Columbia Hydro for damage to the Peace-Athabasca rivers delta area. Daniels called the damage "criminal."

A report, Death of a Delta, submitted by a group of Alberta scientists to the provincial and federal governments, says life in the delta is being destroyed by flow regulation imposed on the Peace River by B.C. Hydro's Bennett Dam at Hudson's Hope.

Defence: More Emphasis On Non-Military Threats

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons defence committee recommended Friday a redirection of Canadian maritime forces away from the present collective security roles toward greater emphasis on non-military threats to roles toward greater emphasis on non-military threats to Canadian sovereignty.

The recommendation is in a report tabled in the Commons by committee chairman Ian Wahn (L — Toronto St. Paul's). The report was prepared by a subcommittee led by Keith Penner (L — Thunder Bay).

The report rejects the traditional roles of Canadian naval forces — convoy protection, accommodation of a limited nuclear war at sea, support facilities for peacekeeping and surface military tasks in the Arctic.

They were rejected because they involve situations "that the subcommittee considered most improbable or because they were of such marginal nature as to be relatively insignificant in determining the over-all capabilities of maritime forces."

"With the sudden appreciation in the potential value of seabed resources and the need for new kinds of measures to protect fisheries resources, Canadian sovereignty and extra-territorial jurisdiction may be subjected to new challenges. An appropriate police capability is therefore increasingly necessary," the report said.

Mafia Intrigue Being Probed

TORONTO (CP) — Two provincial police superintendents who associated with George Clinton Duke, an Oakville, Ont., businessman with a criminal record, were suspended Friday from the force by Commissioner Eric Silk.

They will be tried on charges under the Ontario Police Act.

Earlier this month, Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP member for Toronto High Park, charged in the legislature that senior OPP officers met socially with Duke who was departed to Canada from the United States in 1942 after serving a prison term in connection with a $400,000 jewel robbery in New York state. Shulman said Duke has Mafia connections.

Commissioner Silk said he had ordered a halt to social contacts with Duke after he became aware of the businessman's criminal record.

Attorney-General Arthur Wishart has promised further investigations into alleged Mafia influence in Ontario as opposition politicians charged the provincial police had been drawn into a calculated web of Mafia intrigue.

Reds Talk Pullback

BUDAPEST (UPI) — The Soviet Union and her European allies have agreed to discuss a mutual pullback of troops in Europe with NATO nations. However, a memorandum issued after a meeting of Warsaw Pact nations here Saturday sought a dialogue within a framework of an "organ" to be set up by an all-European security conference.

Vienna Government Teeters

Tiny Election Fraud, Giant Mess

VIENNA (UPI) — Voting fraud by supporters of some extreme right-wing candidates has forced 16 members of parliament into a new election and threatened the stability of Austria's minority socialist government.

The constitutional court ruled that results in the March 1 general election are null and void in three Vienna constituencies with 16 parliamentary seats. It ordered new elections in these constituencies in September.

The court said workers for the National Democrats, a right-wing splinter party, forged 100 petition signatures to get their candidates on the official ballots. The party polled only 823 votes in the three constituencies — a minute fraction of the total vote.

But the issue threw Austrian politics into a turmoil. The Socialists formed a minority government after the elections of the strength of their 81-79 lead in parliamentary seats over the conservative People's Party.

That lead was wiped out by the fraud, because among the 16 members of parliament affected were nine Socialists and seven People's party members.

Both parties now hold 72 seats, and the tiny Freedom party, with five seats, more than ever the balance of power.

Political observers said work in parliament will come to an immediate standstill. The reforms introduced by Chancellor Bruno Kreisky will remain in committee and not make the parliament before late fall now.

Among the deputies whose mandates were suspended are the Socialist parliament president, three cabinet ministers and former chancellor Josef Klaus.

Termites Invade U.S. Via Sacramental Wine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A number of Asian termites escaped from Kelly Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., after hitch-hiking from Okinawa in a crate of sacramental wine aboard an air force cargo plane, the agricultural department reported Friday.

Government agents are trying to hunt down the termites before they can establish colonies and begin spreading.

The mid-May incident came to light after reporters asked for further details on a routine agriculture department announcement about the termites.

The announcement said nothing about the wine. Officials were hesitant to discuss the subject.

Officials said photos taken at the time showed labels eaten off wine bottles. One partially-saved label bore the legend, "American Sacramental Angelica Wine."

Agriculture officials had no further information on the wine, or any knowledge of where it was to be used. One said he had heard it was shipped in care of a military chaplain. Sacramental wine is normally used for religious services.

An air force spokesman said later the wine was shipped by the army's 2nd Logistics Command on Okinawa and was consigned to an army depot at Pueblo, Colo.

Officials said the Formosan termite, until now, has been kept out of all U.S. areas except for a few limited portions of the South, but the highly destructive termite, which destroys all types of wood and wood products, could be a serious threat if it spreads widely.

Elephant Stubborn

KOLHAPUR, India (UPI) — It took 150 policemen to drive an elephant named Barchi Bahadur back to his stable.

Barchi, a prized possession of the Maharajah of Kolhapur, threw off his mahout, then roamed the streets, smashing a rickshaw and a scooter, toppling a power pole and knocking down fruit stalls.

Senate Assent

Voting Age Now 18

OTTAWA (CP) — The second session of the 28th Parliament adjourned for a three-month summer recess Friday after unanimously approving a new election act that will reduce the minimum voting age to 18 from 21.

The Senate passed the new election bill along with a Fisheries Act amendment tightening pollution provisions, passed earlier in the day by the Commons.

The Commons completed study of a measure setting up a Standards Council of Canada and sent it to the Senate where it was given first reading.

The standards council bill deals with measures on bail reform and the structure of the Exchequer Court of Canada will be dealt with when the session resumes in the fall or will be reintroduced in the new session expected to begin a few days after MPs come back to the capital Oct. 5.

★ ★ ★

The elections bill would extend voting rights to include all federal public servants abroad and would introduce a proxy voting system for many voters away from home on election day.

Earlier, in debate during committee stage, the Commons approved an amendment that would require employers to provide employees up to four hours off to vote in federal elections.

This would increase the time off allowed under current law by one hour.

Land Grab

controls to regulate not only lot sizes but the actual purchases of land in large tracts.

He would like to put a total freeze on the external demand for land, he said. This would mean that German, Dutch and U.S. holding companies would be forbidden to purchase large blocks of land in the Gulf Islands.

He said his team of 30 UBC graduate students and faculty members found there had been "a tremendous influx of foreign companies purchasing our land."

"Huge blocks of land have been purchased by a German mutual investment fund company. Other European countries are also in the market."

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis, who is also chairman of the Capital Region Board, sounded the alarm two years ago, when he denounced some of the property development on the islands as "a shocking disgrace."

Earlier this month he said there was a danger that the present controls were "too little and too late."

"But at least now we have planning and can exert control where before there was no control," he said.

Not Moving

Two years ago he singled out Magic Lake Estates on North Pender Island as a subdivision where small lots were carved out of the forest.

"I have very real doubts that all of these lots will be built on," he said last week. "While Gulf Island land prices may continue to rise, the prices of these lots may inevitably fall later when it is realized by the buyer that he's really transferring his crowded conditions from metropolitan Victoria or Vancouver to a similarly crowded condition.

"He might as well stay home," he added.

The mayor does not consider all Gulf Island subdivisions undesirable.

"Some of them have been laid out most responsibly," he said, "Particularly by resident landowners who have wished to create resort properties and make a profit, and there's nothing wrong with that, but the large-scale carving up has really hurt the islands. They've been raped in many cases."

Agreement came from the manager of B.C. Coastal Marine Resort at Bedwell Harbor on South Pender Island. David Bartlett, an Australian who has been on the island only six months, said he had flown over it many times and has had a good look at what has been done to the land.

'It's Spoiled'

"It looks fine from the road," he said, "but when you see it from the air you can see it's just being chopped to pieces.

"The lots look too small for sanitary conditions," he said. "I don't think they can safely handle it."

He said retired people who had come to the island were going to suffer as taxes went up.

"I saw what happened to Bowen Island," he explained. "It's spoiled. They've chopped it into pieces. And when they cut it up into little lots there's no place to go. It becomes suburbia. I know two or three families who will have to leave there. They moved in when there were no ferries. They built their houses of driftwood. They floated it over and lifted it up over the cliff faces. Now they're faced with increasing taxes they can't afford."

"I saw what happened to Bowen Island. They've chopped it up into pieces . . . there's no place to go. It's become suburbia."

Prices of lots, about one acre in size, had gone up to $10,000 and $12,000 and even higher for waterfront, if it was available, he said.

As an indication of the increasing popularity of the Gulf Islands, he cited his own resort where business has been up 20 per cent each month in the last six months. There are 65 berths for boats and already customers are being turned away on weekends.

The resort is one of six stretching from the San Juan Islands north to Johnson Strait, each one a day's cruising away from the other. Known as the Gold Pennant Chain, the resorts supply moorage, fuel, ice, general supplies, showers and laundry facilities.

The resort at Bedwell Harbor has the only licensed pub on South Pender Island and there is weekend entertainment.

Transport Department Craft

Diver Rescues Man from Sinking Barge

A 59-year-old Victoria man now in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital was saved Friday from possible death when a federal transport department water barge sank about one-half mile off the Dallas Road seafront.

The rescue of Alexander Boyd, 807 Yates, came one day after three people escaped injury in two marine incidents off Sidney — an outboard motorboat capsizing and a cabin cruiser fire.

Victoria police said a citizen phoned them at 10:30 a.m. to report a vessel sinking off Dallas and Douglas and two men "screaming for help."

Police said only one man was in danger, but he came close to death.

They said Boyd was operating a 26-foot steel barge, like a landing craft, and was taking fresh water to replenish the supply of the lightkeeper at Trial Island. With the barge on the trip was a 35-foot transport department tender, operated by a man identified only as Robert McKay.

Soon after the two craft passed the Brotchie Ledge buoy, the tender returned to the transport department wharf for extra equipment. Minutes later, the barge sank — the cause remaining unknown early today.

Dev Maloan, 42, of 148 Olive, said he and Jack Windle, 430 Michigan, a fellow employee at the Queen's Printers, had just reached the buoy on a diving trip when he heard calls for help and saw the barge going down stern first.

Windle, already in the water, stayed in the buoy area while Maloan took their 12-foot outboard motorboat over to Boyd and pulled him out of the water. He said Boyd was not breathing after only three or four minutes in the cold sea.

Maloan applied artificial respiration by pushing Boyd's chest, then heard a police loudhailer about one-half-mile away and headed for shore while continuing his revival effort. Boyd began to breathe as the boat neared shore.

Five policemen waded out to take Boyd to an ambulance and then to hospital for treatment of shock and exposure. Before Maloan returned to Windle, there was a brief search for possible other victims and police said McKay also was out of contact for some time while he seached for Boyd after returning to find the barge gone.

Thursday, Marcel Rivest of 110 East Maddock escaped injury when his 26-foot cabin cruiser, insured for a reported $12,000, burned to the waterline between James Island and Sidney. He got into his dinghy and was towed to safety by a Van Isle Marina boat.

Sidney RCMP said Rivest believed the fire may have been due to the fact a kerosene lantern was near a small stove. They said Rivest had worked two years on the boat and was making only his third trip in it. The burned hulk was beached on Sidney Island.

Also on Thursday, Mike Benson, 16, and his brother Mark, 14, both of 1752 Mortimer, were rescued by the crew of the B.C. ferry Queen of Saanich when their 10-foot outboard motorboat capsized in the wake of another vessel in Swartz Bay. They clung to the upturned boat for about 15 minutes and were released from Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney after brief treatment.

Kierans Plea

4,000,000,000 items of mail a year rather than increasing as planned to 5,800,000,000 items, he said.

Wages have been a key issue in the contract dispute. The postal unions seek an increase of 60 cents an hour over a two-year contract. The government has stuck to its offer of 41 cents over a 30-month contract. Present wages range from $2.57 an hour to $3.23 and the unions say only 2,000 of the 27,000 workers get the top rate.

★ ★ ★

For about four weeks, the unions have been calling rotating strikes, taking workers off the job, usually for a single day, in various areas of the country each day.

Speaking before Kierans in the debate, Andre Fortin (Crediitiste-Lotbiniere) said the postmaster-general himself has been a cause of much trouble in the post office.

Kierans, he said, is not gifted in dealing harmoniously with his workers and had brought the dispute to its most heated level with earlier statements.

Conservative postal critic Heath Macquarrie Hillsborough led off the attack on the government with a charge that it has shown "insensitivity, stubbornness and lack of consideration of the public or its own employees."

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) accused the government of deliberately provoking a strike when neither the postal workers nor the public wanted one.

★ ★ ★

A strike could be avoided, he said, if the government would drop its 6-per-cent ceiling for wage increases in the public service and move to a compromise recommended in a conciliation report by Montreal Judge Rene Lippe.

Michael Forrestall (PC—Halifax-Dartmouth East) accused Kierans of "a total and absolute rejection of his responsibility" in not discussing the postal dispute in the House.

Forrestall called for Kierans's resignation but said "the prime minister is so vain he doesn't want to see any more resignations."

Treasury Board President Charles Drury, the minister responsible for contract negotiations with government employees, said postal workers now are earning more than the average industrial worker when fringe benefits and overtime pay is taken into account.

On average, postal workers earn $132 a week and the industrial workers, as of February, 1970, were earning $124.64.

★ ★ ★

Raises offered by the government in the current negotiations would bring the average postal worker's earning to $143 immediately, he said. Average hourly earnings including overtime and shift premiums are now $3.32 for postal workers and only $2.83 for manufacturing workers, he said.

Six Kept On To Defend Cricket Cup

Victoria will have six holdovers on its team Sunday when it opens defence of the Virtue Cup against Vancouver at 11:30 a.m. at Beacon Hill Park.

Returning members of last year's championship team for the home-and-home cricket series are Tom Brierley and David Auld of Cowichan, Mal Shanks, Alec Porter and Chris Rowe of Albions and Cartwright Richards of Oak Bay.

Selected to the team this year are Dave Clarke, John Walters and Nick Walton of Castaways, Brian Gorman of Cowichan and Neville Askew of Alcos. Peter Nation of Alcos is 12th man.

Mixed Week For Bonds

TORONTO (CP) — Prices on the Canadian bond market were mixed in quiet trading this week.

Short-term Canada issues were off ⅛ point, while the mid- and long-term issues gained ¼ point. Corporate issues remained generally unchanged.

Alberta Resources Railroad Corp. introduced a new issue Tuesday totalling $20,000,000. The 8½ per cent, July 31, 1975 issue was offered at par to yield 8½ per cent.

Day-to-day money ranged from 6 to 6⅛ per cent, closing Friday at 6 per cent.

Three- and six-month treasury bills traded at 5.92 and 5.97 per cent, respectively.

Prices Edge Lower After Bright Start

TORONTO (CP) — The market closed on the down side after a session of drifting.

Prices began edging downward throughout the afternoon.

Analysts say the low volume of trading indicates many investors are still cautious about buying or selling shares.

Trading was the slowest since June 5, when buying and selling crawled to a 10-year low.

Largest declines were in trust and loan, merchandising, beverage and bank sectors.

Among losing stocks, B.C. Telephone was down 1 to 57, Universal Sections 1 to 6, Weldwood ⅞ to 12¾, Fraser Co. ⅝ to 23, Texas Gulf Sulphur ½ to 15¾, Kaiser Resources ½ to 14, Canadian Industrial Gas ⅛ to 7⅝ Placer ½ to 31 and Yellowknife Bear 30 cents to $4.20.

Alberta Natural Gas rose 1¼ to 19, Lake Dufault 1 to 17¾, Mattagami ⅝ to 25, Roman 55 cents to $6.20, Agnico 30 cents to $1.85, Denison ¼ to 23, Canadian Superior Oil ⅝ to 23⅝ and Numac 35 cents to $5.00.

James United Industries was down 73 cents to 52 cents.

Officials announced Friday it would seek sharholders' approval to wind-up the company voluntarily under the provisions of the Winding-Up Act.

Gloom at Vancouver

VANCOUVER — Prices continued to droop and activity was chiefly in the lower priced mining stocks.

In odd bright spots Riviera added .09 to .35 and Pacific Asbestos was up .10 at 1.85.

Even Brenda officially opening its big new mine this weekend failed to inspire. It was off ⅝ at 11.00.

Industrials were mixed with NWL, Doman, PWA and Ibes on the plus side and Keystone sharply on the downside — off .70 at 3.25.

In oils Stampede was off .10 and United Bata up .05.

Penn Drops Again

NEW YORK (AP) — The market continued to lose ground as it was unable to shake investor apprehension about corporate liquidity problems.

Brokers cited the continued bad news from the Middle East and anticipation of poor second-quarter earnings reports by some growth companies as factors in the market decline, in addition to the "liquidity scare."

Closing prices included Penn Central, the most-active, down ⅛ to 7⅛ on 307,400 shares, Telex off 1¼ at 12⅛, American Telephone up ¼ to 40⅝, and Texaco off ⅛ at 26⅛.

Industrials Gain

MONTREAL (CP) — The market was weak at opening, gained some strength during the day and settled lower at the close.

Banks and utilities led declining issues while industrials closed fractionally higher.

Among banks, Royal declined ¼ to 21 and Toronto Dominion ¼ to 18. Provincial Bank of Canada advanced ⅝ to 10 and Canadian National Bank ¼ to 11⅝.

Highlighting declines, Dome Petroleum fell 1⅛ to 46⅛, Velcro Industries 1⅛ to 19⅝, QSP Ltd., 1 to 13, Canadian Hydrocarbons 1 to 10⅝, CPR ⅞ to 53⅝, Cominco ⅝ to 21⅞, Union Carbide ⅝ to 11⅝ and Cockfield Brown ⅝ to 6.

Among advancing issues, Falconbridge climbed 1⅛ to 140⅛, Cummings Properties 1 to 9 and Calgary Power ⅝ to 21⅝.

Gas Users Unhappy About U.S. Demands

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP) — Joseph C. McCarthy of Toronto, new president of the Canadian Gas Association, says higher priced offers by the United States for Canadian natural gas could hurt this country's consumers.

Some form of compensation may be necessary to keep Canadian gas prices in line in the face of increasing demand in the U.S. for Canadian gas, he said in an interview.

"Canadian consumers shouldn't have to pay higher prices for their gas because of the increased demand created by the shortage of natural gas in the U.S."

Mr. McCarthy said Eastern Canadian distributors would not be happy with large exports of gas to the U.S. because of the effect exports would have on Canadian prices.

However, Western Canadian producers would like to see increased export at higher prices and would likely oppose any effort to hold prices down in Canada. They prefer a competitive market for their products.

He said people in the oil and gas industry believe the federal government may take advantage of the U.S. gas shortage to open the door for larger Canadian oil exports to American buyers.

They feel that the only way Canada can be assured of natural gas reserves is through exploration for oil and this form of exploration would slow down if there isn't an adequate market for Canadian oil.

IOS Chops Loans, Guarantees

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Loans and guarantees given by IOS Ltd., the international mutual fund company, have been reduced by nearly 50 per cent from $32,700,000 at Dec. 31, 1969, to $16,978,000 at May 31, 1970.

The information was given by Sir Eric Wyndham White, chairman of the Geneva-based company, in a special letter to shareholders, the Toronto Stock Exchange, and the Ontario Securities Commission which suspended trading in IOS stock recently.

Sir Eric said the additional information requested by the Canadian authorities had been delayed "because of the need to obtain an official waiver from every loan recipient."

Of the $16,978,000 remaining in loans, guarantees or blocked deposits $1,700,000 was accounted for by the loans and advances made in the normal course of business to associate and employees said the chairman.

The figures show that loans to officers and directors had been reduced during the five-month period from $3,400,000 to $778,000 while loans to associates and employees was down from $3,300,000 to $1,700,000.

Contingent liabilities to banks were down from $8,200,000 to $7,800,000 and joint venture and other loans dropped from $15,800,000 to $6,700,000.

Included in the joint venture loans was one of $4,700,000 to a family trust of John M. King, the Denver financier who was reported to be endeavoring to rescue IOS Ltd., from its financial difficulties.

Sir Eric said it was the aim of the company to achieve the greatest possible liquidity and further steps were being taken to reduce loans still outstanding.

He expressed the hope that information now given would satisfy the request of the Toronto Stock Exchange and the various securities commissions.

JAMES CRYS "ENOUGH"

James United Industries, once known as United Steel, is planning to go out of business.

Directors of the company, whose main plants are at Calgary, Port Robinson and Sherbrooke, have written shareholders asking them to approve voluntary winding up of the company.

The company lost $1,600,000 in 1969, and it is still faced with unsatisfactory conditions.

The directors plan to keep the plants working in the hope the business may be sold as a going-concern, but the company neither has the assets nor the prospects for the future that sufficiently encourage it to keep going indefinitely.

The position of stockholders will not be known until a sale of the assets is made, but James United expects to be able to meet all its debts and have a substantial equity left over for its shareholders.

The stock, which is listed on the TSE, was under suspension pending the statement, but in resumption of trading Friday it dropped to 55 cents a share against $1.55 a week ago.

The company is a minor conglomerate being in the steel fabrication, structural steel, heavy industrial equipment fields as well as being textile manufacturers making ladies' fashions and undergarments. It also makes cement building products.

Jack of all trades?

PAY AS IT COMES

Penn-Central says it is paying its employees out of day-by-day earnings, and is taking in enough to pay the shot.

The giant U.S. railroad recently placed itself into a receivership when it found it could not raise funds to meet its contractual obligations.

Since then all Penn-Central assets have been frozen, and the line is sorking on a temporary cash operation basis.

UNDER THE CURTAIN

Air Canada was host to 80 Canadian businessmen when it made its first flight Friday between Montreal and Prague. The new route is to be on a weekly basis.

The businessmen, who will stay in Europe for a week, will be taken by Air Canada on a fact finding tour of Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

They will meet government and business officials with a view to extending Canadian trade with these countries.

Second Walkout Here

Mail-Snarl Objective On Target

Mail delivery stopped in Victoria Friday for the second time this week as the city took its turn in the hop-scotching 24-hour mail strikes.

Mailmen throughout most the province walked off the job during the early hours of Friday morning as Vancouver city postal workers were returning from their stint on the picket line.

Only Vancouver and Prince George post offices were working.

★ ★ ★

Paddy O'Brien, chairman of the Vancouver council of postal unions, said the union objective of achieving the biggest result for the smallest cost was obviously successful.

"There seems to be little public resentment," said O'Brien. "Only the business people seem really upset.

"When our carriers go down the street they are well received in the residential areas, but it's a different story for those delivering in the business districts — they really get trouble there."

★ ★ ★

O'Brien said the hit-and-run strike method seems to be more effective, in fact, than a general strike.

"In an all-out strike the men just get clobbered," he said. "This way no one suffers too much, or loses too much pay, but we've really got the mails snarled up."

O'Brien said that the unions will make every effort to see that there's no delay in delivery of welfare or pension cheques.

★ ★ ★

"Of course if governments are so minded they can mail the cheques in a way that would foul us up, but if they're mailed in the usual way we'll see that there's no hardship to the people who depend on them," said O'Brien.

He said the picket lines are being broken regularly now if there is a need for medicine or other emergency supply that has been put in the mail.

DIRECTOR OF MUSEUMS
City of Vancouver
British Columbia

This Western Canadian city has a unique and challenging opening for a Department Head and Director of the civically-operated museum complex consisting of the Maritime Museum constructed in 1958 and the Centennial Museum of Natural and Human History constructed in 1968 which includes an up-to-date major planetarium. More than 600,000 people visited the complex in 1969.

The main objectives of the Director will be to intensify public participation in and co-operation of interested private organizations with the museum and to further develop programs of permanent, semi-permanent and short-term exhibitions. He will ensure efficient operation on the basis of sound administrative procedures and scientific considerations.

SALARY: $1460 to $1728 per month plus generous fringe benefits amounting to approximately 20% of salary. Starting salary will be within the above range commensurate with ability and experience.

QUALIFICATIONS: It is desirable that the successful applicant has a degree in the Humanities, Natural History or Astronomy. Together with knowledge and experience in all facets of museum and planetarium work, he should have considerable administrative experience. However, applicants with an equivalent combination of training and experience will be considered.

Letters of application, accompanied by a detailed resume of education and experience should be directed immediately to the Director of Personnel Services, 453 West 12th Avenue, Vancouver 10, B.C. Following their receipt, more detailed information will be made available on request.

U.K. Dockers Plan Walkout

LONDON (UPI) — Leaders of 47,000 British longshoremen, in a first direct labor union challenge to Prime Minister Edward Heath's new Conservative government, Tuesday ordered a nationwide port walkout July 14 to back an 85 per-cent wage increase demand.

If the threatened strike takes place, it will be the first total union-backed port tieup in Britain since 1926.

Prison Books Didn't Balance

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Officials of the provincial auditor's department are investigating an apparent shortage of funds at the forestry prison camp here.

Dr. Malcolm Matheson, assistant director of corrections, said Wednesday the investigation began after a discrepancy was noted during a regular audit of the camp's books.

Chalk Displays Lofty Ideals

TORONTO (CP) — Girls working for W. D. Latimer Ltd. stockbrokers are convinced somebody up there loves them.

As proof, they point to the girders high up on the work site of the new Commerce Court building in downtown Toronto. There, written in yellow chalk, are various invitations ranging from:

"Do you want to go to lunch ?"

"Off at 6 p.m.-OK?"

"Tonite."

The instigator of the correspondence, according to the girls, is a welder who used the original approach of nearly falling from the rigging.

The girls wanted a better look at the man courting them from his lofty perch so they got field glasses.

Mary Lamantia, 23, intends to call the worker's bluff.

"As soon as I have a free evening I'll put up a sign Tonight's the Night in the window and see what happens."

King Fisherman

Coho Return Just in Time

Campbell River area, which was starved for salmon last year, seems to be heading for a good fishing year.

There are plenty of coho to be taken all the way from Quathiaski Cove, through Shelter Bay and Bates Beach to Little River and Comox.

The good fishing has come in time for Campbell River's third annual Summer Festival which will feature a 5-day salmon derby, starting at daybreak Wednesday, July 1 and continuing until 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Boundaries will be from Port Neville on the north to Parksville on the south.

* * *

Prizes will be $1,000 for the heaviest salmon. $500 for second heaviest and $300 for third; $100 for the heaviest coho; three hidden weight prizes of $100 each; $50 for the heaviest ling cod; and a special $100 prize for the most dogfish tails.

Entry fee will be $5.

Most fishing resorts in the area will be weigh-in stations and in addition to the big derby prizes anglers will also be able to enter their fish in the King Fisherman Contest for an all expenses paid trip to Hawaii for two, plus scores of other prizes and trophies.

Safe Boating Week

Know Your Boat And Stay Afloat

With Safe Boating Week beginning Wednesday, the Capital Region Safety Council has urged all boaters to apply their knowledge of safety afloat.

The council has summed up some of the reasons for accidents afloat.

They are: Insufficient knowledge of boat and equipment on board; not enough knowledge of practical seamanship such as small-boat navigation; poor maintenance; and poorly-kept life saving and other safety equipment.

For further information dealing with safety afloat, contact the safety council at 385-7241.

Robinson Bashes Grand Slam On Successive Turns at Bat

Frank Robinson hit grand-slam home runs in successive times at bat in the fifth and sixth innings Friday night to power Baltimore Orioles to a 12-2 win over Washington Senators.

The two blasts made the veteran outfielder the seventh player in major league baseball to hit two bases-loaded home runs in a game. It was not immediately known if it had been done previously in successive turns at bat.

It was a 1-0 game when Robinson, who was a doubtful starter because he had twisted his back making a spectacular game-saving catch in Thursday's game, connected the first time.

SAME SCRIPT

He did it after Dave McNally and Paul Blair walked around a single by Don Buford, and it happened exactly that way again to load the bases for Robinson's sixth-inning poke.

McNally, now 11-5, had trouble only with Rich Reichardt, who hit his seventh and eighth home runs.

Victory boosted Orioles three games ahead of the rained-out New York Yankees in the American League East.

Willie Horton, who hadn't batted in a run in seven games, drove in five to lead Detroit Tigers to a 7-1 win over Cleveland Indians.

LOSE GROUND

Things tightened a bit in the American League West, where Minnesota Twins had their lead sliced to two games when they were beaten, 4-2, by Chicago White Sox.

California Angels, rolling again after a slump dropped them out of contention for a time, pulled off the season's second triple play in edgingKansas City's outlucked Royals, 5-4.

Runners were on first and second bases in the fifth inning and Royals were 1-2 trailers when Amos Otis hit a sharp ground ball to third-baseman Chico Ruiz.

IT WAS CLOSE

Ruiz fielded it cleanly, stepped on the bag and whipped the ball to second-baseman Sandy Alomar, whose throw nipped the speedy Otis.

New York Mets were pondering the vagaries of life Friday night after what happened to them in baseball-mad Montreal.

Fresh from a sweep of a five-game series with Chicago Cubs which had made them Eastern Division leaders, the National League champions were axed,6-5, by the last-place Expos.

STAUB STARS

Outfielder Rusty Staub, who got the Expos started with a two-run homer in the first inning, threw out a runner at the plate in the seventh inning to keep Expos at 5-4.

Staub singled and scored in the third inning and the other Montreal runs were produced by pinch-hitter Gary Sutherland, who hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning, and Coco Laboy, who homered in the eighth for what was to prove the winning run.

Defeat cut the Mets lead to one game over Chicago Cubs, who were rained out of their game against the third-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

LEADERS WIN

Cincinnati Reds held their lead in the Western Division at nine and a half games and the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers continued to gain on the third place Atlanta Braves.

A ninth-inning single by Tommy Helms brought the Astros and the Dodgers bested San Diego Padres, 4-1, behind the fine pitching of Claude Osteen.

Rookie Wayne Simpson, who needed ninth-inning help, was the Cincinnati winner and is now 11-1.

LARGEST CROWD

A crowd of 55,110 in Los Angeles, largest of the season inthe National League, watched the Dodgers win their fourth game in a row.

In San Francisco, Gaylord Perry became the first 12-game winner of the season by pitching the Giants to three-hit, 4-1 win over the slipping Braves.

Through Thursday games.

Double Eagle

Uplands Golf Club's 17th hole, a par-four, 330-yard hole which will become a short par-three today in the club's renovations, was aced Friday night by former - Victorian Gary Smith.

Smith, now of Vancouver, was playing in a threesome with Gordon Levitt and Albert Cliff when he made his first hole-in-one.

Smith, 25 years of age, was the Victoria city junior champion from 1961 to 1963 and was runner-up to professional Bill Wakeham in 1963 in the Island Open.

It is believed the hole has only been aced twice previously.

'Y' Track Meet Gets Good Start

Four B.C. records fell Friday when the Victoria "Y"-Times International track and field meet got underway at Centennial Stadium with age-class heats.

The provincial bantam records for both the boys and girls were broken with Cindy Druce of Victoria Track Club lowering the girls' mark to 12.3 seconds and Tracy Vassaso of Vancouver Norwesters lowering the boys' to 12.2.

One other bantam record was of Simon Fraser Track Club established with John Marten of Simon Fraser Track Club covering the boys' 1500 metres in four minutes, 29.8 seconds.

Grant McKay of Vancouver Olympic Club established a midget mark in the boys' 100 metres with a time of 11.2.

CLIFF WINS

Only one senior event was held, John Cliff of Victoria "Y" winning the 10,000 metres in 30:40.8, almost two minutes ahead of runner-up Jim Freeman of Snohomish, Wash.

Jim Colpitts of the "Y" was third in the race which finished in almost total darkness.

The meet continues today from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. with age-class heats and finals.

Open competition will be held Sunday starting at 10:30 a.m. with admission charges of $1.50 for adults and 50c for students.

Several members of Canada's Commonwealth Games squad have entered the Sunday portion of the meet.

SHARE RECORD

The women's 200 metres is one of the feature events with Canadian native record-holders Patty Loverock, a former Comox resident, and Irene Piotrowski, Canadian-team members from Vancouver competing.

Victoria's Anne Langdale faces a stiff test in the 400 metres from Canadian-team members Heather McKay of Edmonton, who will also run in the 200, and Noreen Liepins of Vancouver.

Miss McKay won the event in the Canadian trials at Hamilton last weekend.

Available

Ernie Pitts, 35-year-old defence back who has spent 13 seasons with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has been offered for trade by the Western Football Conference club. Coach Jim Spavital said he had learned that Pitts was not happy in Winnipeg and that an attempt would be made to make a trade. Pitts, several times an all-star choice, started his career as a split end.

Taras Takes First Match

CALGARY — Taras Hryb of Victoria, first Canadian in 33 years to win a medal in international amateur wrestling competition, won his first match Friday at the national championships, gaining praise from the previous medal-winner.

Hryb, who placed third last year in his division at the world junior championships in Boulder, Colo., took a 5-2 decision over Pete Simons of Alliston, Ont., in his 180½-pound match.

"He's a stong boy and has good style," commented Joe Scheleimer of Toronto, who won a bronze medal in the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin, Germany.

Scheleimer, now chairman of the Central Ontario Wrestling Association, predicted success for Hryb this year in senior competition.

HE'S CONVINCED

"He should do well in the world championships, but if he doesn't, I'm sure he'll win a medal in the Commonwealth Games."

Twenty wrestlers will be selected for the world championships at Edmonton, July 4-11 and 10 will be named to the Commonwealth Games' squad.

Finals in the senior and preliminaries in the junior free-style events will be held today. Greco-Roman competition is scheduled Sunday.

Fire Closure

MacMillan-Bloedel operations of the Chemainus Logging Division will be closed to public access this weekend because of extreme fire hazard.

Company officials said they will take another look at the situation next week.

Umpire Gets to Bottom of Things

Umpire Art Frantz is trying to make sure of call in play at plate in Thursday night game between Washington Senators and Baltimore Orioles and is getting some unasked help from Washington's Mike Epstein (No. 6). After good look, Frantz decided that catcher Paul Casanova had held on to ball and that Baltimore-runner Don Buford was out.—(AP)

Australians Score Sweep To Thin U.S. Tennis Ranks

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Three stirring Australian-American battles were the centrepieces of Friday's play in the Wimbledon tennis championships and the Australians came out on top every time.

Winning through to the last eight were John Newcombe, Tony Roche and Ken Rosewall. The losers were Dennis Ralston, the 15th seed, Tom Gorman and Marty Riessen.

BEST NEEDED

Newcombe, last year's beaten finalist and second seed, started the rout with a gruelling 14-12, 9-7, 6-2 victory over Ralston at centre court.

Almost at the same time, Roche, the fourth seed, was fighting out a four-setter against Riessen and pulling the match out of the fire 6-4, 8-10, 6-4, 6-2.

Then, in the final—and some fans insisted the best—match of the day on the centre court, veteran Rosewall downed the unseeded Gorman, 6-2, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.

IN QUARTER-FINALS

Those three victories put four Australians in the quarter-finals — the fourth was Bob Carmichael, who defeated Bob Hewitt 6-4, 9-7, 6-2 in a battle of expatriates.

The day was not wholly blank for the Americans, however. In a third round match—the only one left outstanding—ninth seeded Clark Graebner of New York, romped home 6-0, 6-2, 6-1 against Premjit Lall, the Indian No. 1.

Arthur Ashe and Stan Smith of the U.S. will be firing for quarter-final places today.

Graebner plays Ilie Nastase, the Romanian hard court specialist seeded eighth; Ashe, top of the U.S. seeds at No 3, plays Andres Gimeno, the veteran Spaniard ranked only 14th, and Smith plays Roy Emerson, the Australian who won here in 1964-65 but shows all the signs of being past his best.

The other quarter-final berth will be between Rod Laver, still king of the centre court, and Britain's Roger Taylor.

NO SURPRISES

In the women's bracket, the unpredictable girls remained totally predictable as they have done all through this tournament so far.

Billie Jean King of the U.S., twice a winner and the No. 2 seed behind Australia's Margaret Court, and Rosemary Casals, fifth seed from San Francisco, both won.

Billie Jean dropped a service game but recovered to beat Holland's Marijke Schaar 6-4, 6-0, while Rosemary had a little more trouble in disposing of fellow-Californian Denise Carter, 6-3, 8-6.

Also through to the last eight to join Mrs. Court and Virginia Wade, the third seed from Britain, and Francoise Durr of France, were Julie Heldman, seeded sixth, from the U.S., who defeated Valerie Zeigenfuss of San Diego 6-3, 6-2; Betty Ann Grubb, of Santa Monica, Calif., who defeated the Dutch girl Ada Bakker 7-5, 6-2; and Cecilia Martinez, of San Francisco, who beat Rita Bentley of Britain, 9-7, 9-7.

Vicettes Surprise Western Champions

VANCOUVER — Victoria Vicettes surprised Vancouver Blues, the Western Canada champions, 1-0, in an extra inning Friday in the opening round of the Pacific Northwest International Women's Softball Tournament.

Vicettes, who were swamped by Blues Sunday in an exhibition double-header in Victoria, bunched all three of their hits in the top of the eighth inning for the run to back the two-hit pitching of Dodie Skaife.

IT TOOK TIME

Limited to a second-inning base on balls to Hilary Bitten, through the regulation seven innings, Vicettes finally solved Pat Decock when Barb Tribe opened the eighth with a single.

Miss Bitten followed with a single and the runners advanced to second and third on Bev Polson's ground out. Kathy Newell was walked to load the bases and Carol Newcombe, pinch-hitting for Linda Cunningham, brought in the run with a single.

Miss Skaife, who had allowed only two previous base runners, gave up a two-out single to Janice Robinson in the bottom of the inning and then retired the side.

Jill Thomas reached first on an error in the second inning and Miss Decock got the game's first hit in the fourth with a single.

Eight teams are entered in the tournament, which ends Sunday.

Full Recognition Finally Comes to Piggott

LONDON (CP) — A thin, pale-faced Englishman, described as looking more like an Oxfam poster than an athlete, is being called by many veteran observers the greatest British jockey of all time.

Lester Piggott, 33, six times British champion rider, has booted home nearly 3,000 winners in more than 10 countries.

His most recent triumph was aboard Canadian-bred Nijinsky in the Epsom Derby, a record fifth win in the British equivalent of the Kentucky Derby.

Tall for a jockey at five feet seven, Piggott has proven his mastery the last two years at the Laurel International in Washington, considered the premier event in the world racing calendar. He won aboard Sir Ivor in 1968 and Karabas last year.

Born into a racing family, the sombre jockey rode his first winner at 13 years of age, came second in the Epsom Derby at 15 and won it at 18.

His love for racing is legendary. He takes an average of 600 mounts a year and earns an estimated £100,000 a year.

In a recent interview, Piggott expressed his love for the sport.

"I'd be in racing if I had to pay to be in it. It's life to me. One day, I shall stop being a jockey and be a trainer. But even if I didn't have one eye on that, I'd be riding as much as I could."

He considers his height one of the main advantages he has over his competitors.

"A horse responds to a good weight on its back, live weight, not dead weight—lead—under the saddle to make up the right poundage. When a biggish jockey gets up, the chances are the horse feels the authority." Threatening an even longer career for Piggott is a weight problem. He normally should weigh 138 pounds.

He maintains his 117-pound riding weight by living on a boiled egg and toast for breakfast, a sandwich in the jockey's room after riding and a meal at night.

"You lose the habit of eating, really—the less you have up to a point, the less you want."

Weiskopf Rated Only Pro With Super-Star Ability

Frank Beard, leading money-winner in professional golf last year, is among the latest sports celebrities to become an author. His book PRO: Frank Beard on the Golf Tour, has been written in collaboration with Dick Schaap and has created considerable comment and some consternation. This is the music of the excerpts which will appear in 11 installments in The Daily Colonist.

By FRANK BEARD

I think that over the next few years golf is going to be dominated by players like Charlie Coody and Dave Hill and Orville Moody and George Archer and maybe me, solid players who won't win a lot of tournaments in any one year, but will spend a lot of time going to the bank. The only fellow around who could become a super-star of the quality of Arnie or Jack is Tom Weiskopf. He's got both the equipment and the desire.

★ ★ ★

Dave Hill seems like a new man on the golf course. The one word I always think of when I think of Dave Hill is "volatile." As long as I've known him, he's had an explosive temper. I remember once, in a bridge game, when I started telling him after a hand how he could have made his bid, he got so mad so quick he was ready to hit me. His temper has hurt his game in the past. He has broken clubs and walked off courses.

A couple of years ago, playing with Chuck Courtney at Tucson, Dave had a putt of 10 feet or less for a birdie on each of the first four holes. And after four holes, he was one over par. He'd missed all four birdie putts and three-putted once.

On the same holes, Chuck missed all four greens — and was two under par. He one-putted twice and chipped in twice. The second time Chuck chipped in, on the fourth hole, Davy walked off the course. He just cold quit. "If I'd gone any farther with that man," Davy said afterward, "I'd have killed him" . . .

I was paired with Davy Hill for two days, and I'm going to make a statement: RIGHT now, I'd take Dave Hill against any golfer in the world. There is absolutely nothing he can't do, from driving to putting. He has his nerves and his temper under control, and it's going to be some job to stay ahead of him on the money list the rest of the year.

★ ★ ★

Orville Moody, who just came back from winning the World Cup with Lee Trevino, came up to me in the locker room today and said something that made me feel good. "Back in April, Frank," Sarge said, "somebody told me you'd put on your tapes that I was going to be one of the best players on the tour. I always had a lot of respect for your ability and your judgment, and when I heard that, I said to myself, 'If Frank Beard thinks that about me, maybe I can be a good player.' From then on, I started thinking like a good player and playing like one."

★ ★ ★

Bruce Crampton's a strange guy. His attitude is costing him $100,000 a year. Why doesn't he just use what the Lord gave him — which is a helluva golf game — and stop moaning? I mean, too, but Bruce has got to realize that everybody gets some good breaks in this game and everybody gets some bad ones.

I'm glad to see Charlie Cigar (Sifford) doing well. He's had to overcome a lot of problems, being the first Negro on the tour. He's a helluva golfer, but his performances are even more remarkable considering all the pressure he has been under.

Victoria XI Evens Score

Victoria Selects gained revenge for Thursday's three-wicket loss to Upper Canada College on Friday, beating the cricket tourists by the same margin at Shawnigan Lake School.

Dave Auld led Victoria, scoring 59 runs, not out, to help the hosts to 109 for seven wickets after the visitors had been dismissed for 90 runs. Auld took four of the wickets for 27 runs.

Chris Rowe added 22, not out, in the winning partnership with Auld.

For Upper Canada College, Alan Hibben scored 41 runs while bowler Ian Gillespie took four wickets for 39 runs.

Rain Welcomed By Open Leaders

CLEVELAND (AP) — A steady drizzle Friday forced postponement of the second round of the $150,000 Cleveland open golf tournament and washed out a three-over-par seven for Dave Hill.

The round will begin anew today on the 661-yard, par-70 Aurora Country Club course. A double round of 36 holes is scheduled Sunday.

Play was suspended two hours and five minutes before officials declared the course unplayable.

None of the players in the 144-man field had completed his round when play was halted, but first-round leader Larry Hinson and Hill had run into difficulties.

Hinson, who had a five-under-par 65 for the first-round lead, was one over par on two of his first six holes.

Hill, one stroke back opening the day's play, all but knocked himself out of it on the second hole, a 424-year, par-four. He put his second out of bounds on the left, then was in a trap and two putted.

Bowerman, Wright Both Pass Balding

GUELPH (CP) — Gary Bowerman of Richmond Hill, Ont., and slightly-built Jim Wright of Edmonton, both 29, Tuesday jumped into the lead in the Ontario Open golf championship.

Both were at 135 after a second-round 68 by Bowerman and a 69 by Wright and were one stroke ahead of Al Balding, who slipped to a dismal 72 after scoring a 64 in Thursday's opening 18 holes.

Bowerman said the rain, which started to fall when he was playing the 13th hole, didn't bother him.

"In fact," he said, "the rain seemed to make the greens a lot better."

Balding, one of the pre-tournament favorites, said he did everything wrong in a round which had him three over par after the first three holes.

Tied for fourth place, five strokes off the pace were Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., and Frank Whibley of Toronto, who each had 71 in the second round.

Stan Homenuick of Dauphin, Man., who was tied with Wright in second place after a first-round 66, slipped to a 74 and was tied at 140 with professional Ed Englehardt of Calgary and three amateurs.

The low amateurs were Pete McGregor of the host course, Stu Hamilton of Brampton, Ont. and Bill Bevan of St. Catharines, Ont.

Defending-champion Nick Weslock of Mississauga, Ont., 1969 Canadian tour champion Bob Cox Jr. of Richmond, B.C. and Canada's leading amateur Gary Cowan of Kitchener were in a five-man group at 141.

Vaughan Trapp of Victoria was in an eight-man tie for 20th at 145 after shooting a 75.

Bill Wakeham of Victoria shot a 72 for a 36-total of 143, easily making the cutoff of 147.

Sooke Hotel, who moved into fourth place in the Stuffy McGinnis Softball League Thursday, took aim at third place with a 6-1 Friday night victory over Gilmour Construction at Heywood Avenue Park.

With the regular schedule almost two-thirds completed, Sooke, in the final playoff position, is four points out of first place and is within a game of third-place Labatts.

Ron Fedosenko scattered four hits and struck out nine for the victory. Ted Banner led Sooke batters with two hits, a single and a run-scoring triple.

Swim Coaches Optimistic Games Title Rated Possible

By The Canadian Press

Canada's two national swim coaches have looked over their charges, and "cautious optimism" is the cliche which springs to the lips with regard to their chances at the British Commonwealth Games.

"Gold medals are hard to come by and Australians are very tough," says Trevor Cole of Vancouver, coach of the men's team. "But I can't help being excited about our team."

ECHO FROM NICK

Nick Thierry of Toronto, coach of the women, sighs over the retirement of Elaine Tanner and Marion Lay, conceding that with them in his lineup "we could have come up with five sure gold medals."

"But even without them, we have a good chance of beating Australia for the team championship," Thierry says.

"We have 19 boys on the team and it is the strongest Canadian team ever assembled," Cole says. The team has such depth that Canada might well finish 1-2-3 in the 200-metre backstroke and one or two other events.

"Right now, Canada is rated about fifth in the swim world. If we can beat the Australians, it would be the first time ever and would push us into second place behind the United States in world ranking."

TOP RATING

He rates Canada's best medal chances as:

Ralph Hutton, 22, of Campbell River, B.C., who holds the world record for the 400-metre freestyle and is a veteran of international competition, having swum for Canada in the 1966 British Empire Games, the Pan-American Games the following year and the Olympics in 1968.

Bill Kennedy, 17, of Vancouver, in the 100-metre backstroke.

Bill Mahoney, 21, of Vancouver, in the 100- and 200-metre breaststroke.

Byron McDonald, 19, and Ron Jacks, 22, both of Vancouver, in the 100-metre butterfly.

"Byron is probably the third-fastest swimmer in the world today in that event," Cole says.

George Smith, 20, of Edmonton, is his pick for the 200- and 400-metre individual medleys.

Thierry admits that this year, it should be the men leading the way.

"Usually, our girls had more international experience, but this time it will be the men's team leading the way."

He says Angela Coughlan of Burlington, Ont., "is favored in the 100-metre freestyle."

"In the backstroke, our best hope is Donna-Marie Gurr, 15, of Vancouver. She's young, but a determined swimmer."

TROUBLED BY KNEE

Donna-Marie, however, has been having trouble with her left knee.

"In the butterfly events, all three of our girls—Jeanne Warren of Vancouver, Susan Smith of Edmonton and Lesley Booth of St. Catharines, Ont.—have excellent chances for medals," Thierry says.

Susan, however, is just coming back after a bout of surgery for gallstones last April.

Just as optimistic—and possibly with greater cause—is Don Webb, coach of Beverly Boys of Oshawa, Ont., Canada's women's diving champion.

"I'd be surprised if she didn't win," he says. "She has worked hard and she's in good shape."

This meet is one Beverly wants to win. She was leading in tower diving at Jamaica in 1966 when officials ruled that the wind was too strong.

The ruling came after a complaint by English and Australian divers.

So the diving was restarted later and Beverly—15 years old at the time—came fourth.

Supreme Court Rejects Individual Claims

Hutterite Land Is for All

OTTAWA (CP) — A recent Supreme Court of Canada decision says that Hutterite land in the Interlake area of Manitoba is not held in trust for individual members of the religious sect but for the colony as a whole.

"The individual members have no beneficial interest whatever in the land upon which their colony is situated," the majority judgment said in upholding decisions of Manitoba courts.

The court made the finding in rejecting an appeal by four former members of the sect who sought to have the Interlake colony wound up and its assets divided equally among all of its members.

★ ★ ★

Benjamin, John, Joseph and David Hofer were expelled from the Hutterite colony after they became attracted to a group called the Radio Church of God in 1964.

The Interlake colony was formed in 1960 and seven members of the Hofer family were among the firt inhabitants.

It became a prosperous farming community but, said the high court judgment, "it cannot be said to have been a commercial enterprise in the sense that any of its members was entitled to participate in its profits."

★ ★ ★

Articles of association signed by the colony members spelled out that the land belonged to the church and not to individual members.

In the articles the members also agreed that leaving the Hutterite church was a valid ground for expulsion from the colony.

"The principle of freedom of religion is not violated by an individual who agrees that if he abandons membership in a specified church, he shall give up any claim to certain assets," said the majority judgment.

Former chief justice J. R. Cartwright, who wrote concurring reasons, said:

"It is, I think, a matter of regret that the appellants, whose efforts have no doubt made a large contribution to the assets of the colony, receive no compensation for their life's work and the learned trial judge was not guilty of over-statement when he referred to the mistreatment of them and members of their family as strange, repellant and excessive; but the task of the courts is to deal with the rights of the parties according to law."

★ ★ ★

Mr. Justice Louis-Philippe Pigeon, the only one of the nine justices who disagreed with the lower court findings, said the colony was a farmers' association and expulsion for casing to be a Hutterite church member was not valid.

Smith

Gordon United Says Goodbye To Minister

Sunday morning's service will be the last at Gordon United Church for Rev. Geoffrey Smith, after four years as minister there.

On July 10 he and Mrs. Smith will sail on the Empress of Canada for Great Britain, where Smith will resume his ministry in the Methodist church, serving in the East Suffolk circuit. Their home will be in Leiston, Suffolk.

★ ★ ★

The Smiths came to Gordon United in July, 1966, from Zambia, Africa, where they had worked as missionaries since 1953.

Their years there brought challenge and excitement. They lived through the formation of the federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland (now Malawi) to the end of British rule and establishement of independence under an African government.

★ ★ ★

During that time the segregated black and white churches came together to form the United Church of Zambia, with English—and Bemba-speaking congregations. Education, living accommodation and job opportunities, which had all been segregated, became integrated following independence.

The Smiths went to Africa when they were unable, due to the incoming communist government, to return to West China where they had served from 1941 to 1948.

Here's What You Can Do

World's Starving Millions Need Everyone's Help

No one person can feed all the hungry millions around the globe. But a recent leaflet from St. Andrew's Roman Catholic parish offers some suggestions on what the individual can do:

● See to it that the undernourished in your neighborhood or town get enough to eat.

● Contribute personal assistance or financial aid to organizations trying to relieve human privation and suffering.

● Back international aid programs that promote the welfare of developing nations and do not exploit them.

Maybe, says the leaflet, one person can't provide jobs for the hard-core unemployed, but he can:

● Examine his attitude toward sharing his knowledge and skill with someone who has neither.

● Speak up for the job rights and advancement of qualified people of different racial backgrounds.

● Co-operate wholeheartedly with company training for those who are handicapped or are not yet qualified; or press for the initiation of such projects.

Maybe, the leaflet adds, one person can't solve the problems of millions of functional illiterates in Canada, but he can:

● Tutor one child who is having difficulty in school.

● Urge at least two friends to do the same.

● Attend school board meetings and back reasonable expenditures needed to ensure quality education for all students in the district.

Hospital Features 'Instant Ministry'

TORONTO (CP) — "Instant 24-hour pastoral chaplaincy" brings every patient of North York General Hospital into contact with a priest, rabbi or minister soon after arrival.

The concept of Canon Arthur Chote, Anglican chaplain of North York General, the service supplies a clergyman of the faith of any incoming patient.

"The mind, body and spirit are closely related and all are important in the healing process," Chote says.

"Our specialization is the spirit. Sometimes, where the psychiatrists can't reach them, we can help people burdened with guilt or fear."

Most of their emergency service is with accident victims, attempted suicides and drug cases.

Chote cited one instance of a student on a drug "trip" who was unwilling to reveal her identity until he spoke to her.

He also does group therapy with psychiatric patients.

When he originally presented his plan for 24-hour spiritual aid, he was told that it was impracticable, too expensive, bothersome and complicated.

"I worked without a day off from last February to August to sell the idea," he said. "It's working now effectively and at least five hospitals have asked for information about it."

He said the Ontario Hospital Association and Ontario Hospital Services Commission were anxious to see the scheme work.

'Jesus Freaks' Turn on with God

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — As they put it, they've been "turned on by Jesus." And things seem different. Most of them are hippies. Others are "straight" kids. In either case, they're making their presence felt around the University of California campus here.

They're called "Jesus Freaks," a term originally applied in derision, but which they gladly accept. After all, the term, "Christian" itself originally was used in pagan mockery of the early believers in Christ.

"Jesus is back!" said a tall, barefoot, long-haired lad, handing out evangelical tracts to passing students. "Take a trip with the Lord — it's the greatest."

Here and there about the campus, on class days and weekends, it's easy to spot these special kind of radicals in clusters of youths, "rapping" about Jesus in arguments with assorted New Left advocates.

Wherever the "Jesus Freaks" hold forth, there's usually a sizable crowd.

"One way! One way!" they signal about Christ, with a single finger held aloft, instead of the "V"-peace-victory sign.

Regularly, they also make forays into downtown San Francisco, displaying their signs, "Jesus Saves," and speaking on sidewalks outside the "skin" bars featuring nude dancers.

"I've been through 'grass,'" the heavyweight stuff, LSD and speed, and all the meditation-breathing bit, and it just freaked me out and down," said one of them, a thin, bearded young man. "But Jesus is very true, very hip, very with it. He's our thing."

Others tell similar stories of having been through drugs and Oriental mysticism before finding greater satisfaction in "following Jesus."

Formally, the "Jesus Freaks" are known as the Christian World Liberation Front. They began appearing around Berkeley about a year ago, adding a new element to a campus of 28,000 students known for its trumults and radical movements — Marxists, Maoists, Free-Speechers, war resisters.

The "Jesus Freaks" also are anti-Vietnam war and generally anti-establiahment, even anti-church as far as the official institutions are concerned, claiming it has become stuffy, stiff and lost its sense of the "Spirit," the mysterires of joy.

"The straight church is too uptight," said one young man in black pullover shirt, beads and striped pants. "But Jesus is a real revolutionary, a man of the people."

There are no regularly kept statistics on the "Jesus Freaks," but estimates are that 300 to 400 of them are active here, and the number grows with frequent converts, who are channelled into Bible study grups. Those on drugs also are given medical help.

Poverty Common Problem

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Rural church ministers from various denominations across Canada got their heads together here recently to look into their common problems. Poverty seemed to be the one most commonly faced.

Called the National Institute for Church Leaders in Small Communities, the meeting was attended by 24 ministers — two female and 22 male — from pastorates as far away as the Yukon and Newfoundland.

The delegates, representing Anglican, United, Lutheran and Presbyterian churches, stayed with families in rural Waterloo County.

Although they found poverty a problem common to all, some of the delegates said they were taken somewhat by surprise by their neighbor's lot.

For example, Rev. David Smith said some fishermen in his Bella Coola, B.C. congregation faced with a shortage of fish and loss of boats through repossesion, found it difficult to believe that Prairie farmers were that badly off.

But the ministers from the Prairies were quick to point out to him at the meeting that some of their farmers had to sell parcels of land to to pay their taxes.

Conference co-ordinator was Dr. Norman High of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education and former dean of University of Waterloo. High a Mennonite, is also a rural sociologist.

Rabbinical Students Married

Sandra Eisenburg, who could be the first female rabbi in 4,000 years of Jewish history, was married Thursday to fellow rabbinical student Dennis Sasso of Panama. Before the wedding the couple read a torah together in their Philadelphia temple. (AP)

Church Seeks Drugs Truth

CHICAGO (UPI) — A United Presbyterian Church general assembly committee has recommended a moratorium on criminal penalties for marijuana use.

"Adequate studies of the long-term, chronic effects of common dosages of marijuana in our culture have not been sufficient or conclusive," the committee said.

"In light of what is known, the excessive penalties for offenders, in some cases a minimum of 20 years imprisonment for casual distribution to friends, appear not only unwarranted but barbaric," the report said.

* * *

The committee presented the report for approval at the 182nd general assembly during the third day of its nine-day meeting.

The special committee on the use of drugs advocated a moratorium on penalties until the "federal government appropriates sufficient funds for research to establish clearly the psyiological, psychological and social effects of standard dosages of marijuana upon both long-term and casual users."

* * *

Drug committee members urged that "present efforts to curtail the traffic and illicit use of LSD and other psychedelic drugs be continued."

"If administered apart from skilled medical supervision, there is good reason to believe ill effects will result in some instance," The committee reported. The group urged that "funds be sought to develop new approaches in the treatment of those who have experienced psychological damage through uncontrolled experimentation with psychedelic drugs."

* * *

Further research in LSD, the committee said, "could prove of lasting value to the discipline of the psychology of religion, especially in the midst of a culture in which the traditional roots of religious experience such as awe, mystery, and wonder rendered increasingly foreign to psychology of religion "to determine in proper settings of medical supervision the value of these drugs in uncovering the traditional structure of mystical experience."

"For centures, members of this drug family have been used for religious experiences" the report said. "Reports of deeply moving experiences closely akin to the religious experiences of the great Christian mystics remain."

Degrees Won

Eric Grossman, 10125 Meadland Road, Saanich, received a bachelor degree in business administration and Edward Fougner, 1711 Barrie Road, Saanich, received a master of science degree in physical education at the recent commencement exercises at the University of Oregon.

Church Authority Decentralized

Church Organization Felt Too General Motors-ized

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Frank C. Peters, president of Waterloo Luthern University, believes church organizational structures are patterned too frequently after General Motors rather than the New Testament.

As one of a team of five, unpaid ministers at Kitchener Mennonite Brethren Church, he has helped decentralize the authority in his church.

Working under the theoligical concept of the priesthood of all believers, the Brehtren Church has no appointed minister but rather uses a team system of five speakers including a farmer, a high school teacher and a university registrar.

Peters, an ordained Menonite minister who co-ordinates the ministry team, says the comcept fo shared leadership or a plural ministry is a vital part of the Anabaptist and Menonite tradition.

"Our fathers of Reformation time," he said in an interview, "were known as radical disciples."

"In this they resembled the early Christians who were accused of turning the world upside down. The early Mennonite Brethren were also known as radicals in their insistence on changes within the chruch structure."

In the church's "consensus meeting", the whole congregation engages in participatory democracy. Young and old are free to take part in the discussion which results in a declaration of congregational consensus on policy matters.

Peters doesn't suggest that the unpaid minister will be the rule for the future, but he is persuaded that more churches will be adopting similar approaches.

Churches in the future, he predicts, will be split between voluntary shared leadership and those that retain a more convential organization.

Museum To Open

The government announced Thursday provincial offices will be closed for the Dominion Day holiday next Wednesday. However, the provincial museum will be open to the public between 10 a.m. and 8:30 p.m.

New Sputnik

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union launched an unmanned weather satellite into earth orbit, the news agency Tass said. The new Sputnik was named Meteor.

Teenagers Take Over

Teenagers of the church will conduct the 7 p.m. service Sunday at Emmanuel Baptist Church, presenting their faith in music, dialogue and testimony. Chairman will be Don Orlesky. Suzanne and Sandy Macleod will sing to guitar accompaniment.

A testimony of his newfound faith following experimentation with marijuana and LSD will be given by the group's newly-elected president, Berny Soberg. Rev. Norman Archer will speak on the theme: What's the Youth?

Services Go Open-Air

Glad Tidings Penetecostal Tabernacle will open the 28th successive summer gospel services at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Cameron band shell, Beacon Hill Park.

This service will be almost entirely musical, with the church's brass band and choir, and featuring the Good News Singers, a group of 30 talented college students and young professionals from Elhambra, Calif.

These open air services, designed for those who like to worship in the open air on warm summer evenings, are interdenominational, each conducted by a different church or group. The gospel massage this Sunday will be brought by Glad Tidings' assistant pastor, Rev. David Argue.

Featured with the Good New Singers will be Rev. Ron Hood, a baritone who is a radio and recording personality, and Shalom, a new gospel-folk-song group many of whose songs are original compositions by their own members.

Instructions given by Jesus to his 12 disciples and to 70 other followers, who were sent out to heal and save mankind, are included in the lesson-sermon to be read in al Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The lesson-sermon subject is Christian Science which is explained in passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy.

One of the passages states: Now, as then, signs and wonders are wrought in the metaphysical healing of physical disease; but these signs are only to demonstrate its divine origin — to attest the reality of the higher mission of the Christ-power to take away the sins of the world."

□

Invited to Victoria for a weekend retreat by the First Church of the Nazarene, Quadra and Kings, a group of 25 teenagers from the Lower Mainland will present a program of gospel songs and choruses at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Centennial Square.

The choir, known widley on the mainland, is called the B.C. Caroliers.

□

Vancouver's Pacific Coliseum, future home of the National Hockey League's Canucks, will be the site of a different big-league event this summer. From all over British Columbia 12,000 Jehovah's Witnesses will gather there for a four-day annual convention, July 23 to 26.

Advertising's third dimension

In addition to length and width, a newspaper advertisement has a third dimension—thickness. Thickness is represented by circulation, the number of advertisements printed and actually delivered.

You pay for an advertisement on the basis of length and width, but what you really buy is the opportunity to talk about your merchandise or service to a specified number of readers. Laid one upon another, a one inch stack of your advertisements in this newspaper equals 300 homes reached.

Thickness . . . or circulation . . . is the dimension that gives promise to your sales message, that it will reach potential customers.

It is important for you to know whether circulation is a promise or a fact.

The ABC insigne assures you that our circulation is measured by the highest standards in the advertising and publishing industry. It is the symbol of our membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

ABC is an independent auditing organization whose sole purpose is to give accurate and factual circulation reports. ABC audits are trusted by national advertisers and advertising agencies. They can be trusted by you.

All Greater Victoria Eating, Drinking Places

Salmonella Sparks Special Inspection Blitz

A thorough inspection of all eating and drinking establishments in Greater Victoria will be made within the next few weeks.

"I want things done, fixed up properly, with no hemming or hawing," Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical officer of health, said Friday.

He said the inspections will be done as a direct result of "the situation at the Empress Hotel."

Salmonella enterditis, the infectious gastro-intestinal disease that felled about 60 persons following a dinner at the Empress June 13, has sparked the new inspections.

Normally all such establishments are inspected once a year. Asked if his department had enough staff to carry out the mass inspections, Whitbread said, "This is most important. They'll just have to drop everything else to get this done, and if some other things aren't done, it's just too bad."

He said his staff was still investigating the salmonella situation. Fecal samples were still being taken from Empress kitchen staff members, and all staff working the kitchen the night of June 13 had been suspended.

★ ★ ★

Four persons had been admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital. One was discharged last week, and Whitbread said the other three were sent home Friday.

Mrs. Rubymay Parrott, chairman of the Metropolitan Health Board, told the Colonist "the situation is being handled as well as you can expect it to be handled. It's completely in the hands of Dr. Whitbread and his staff." She refused further comment saying, "I'm not a medical person and so am in no position to comment one way or the other."

Dr. A. A. Larsen, provincial epidemiologist, said, "I don't believe this is a thing that is going to spread throughout the community.

"Our standards of living and sanitation are high enough so that this is a self-limiting thing. We're not dealing with a situation where we have open privies."

Of several new cases reported by Whitbread Thursday, Larsen said, "You always get a few family cases."

Of the people affected who are still carrying disease traces, he said, "A few of them will be shedding for weeks and even for months.

★ ★ ★

"There is nothing medical science knows of that will shorten this period. If they take adequate precautions, they will not infect their families."

Whitbread declined to say how many new cases of secondary infection had turned up, and added it was "difficult to say" how many have contracted the disease as a result of contact with persons who attended the Empress dinner.

Two Faces Of Friday

Victoria's bright, sunny weather continued most of Friday with some cloudy periods, slightly muggy atmosphere and high temperature of 72 degrees. All of which helped provide study in contrasts for William E. John's camera as he caught B.C. Packers at Ogden Point dumping ice into sea from holds of ships, and city workmen, with somewhat warmer job of setting curbstones at Carey Road and Douglas.

Nabbed in Empress Stakeout

FBI Escorts Suspects

The two Americans arrested June 18 after a 15-hour stakeout at the Empress Hotel returned Friday to the U.S. — with an escort of four FBI men.

Kenneth James Bramwell, 24, of Portland, and Jesse Rutherford, 21, of Seattle, left Victoria with their escort aboard the 3:30 p.m. sailing of the Port Angeles ferry. They were to be returned to Seattle to face charges in connection with bank robberies.

★ ★ ★

Earlier in the day, the prosecution in Victoria Provincial Court entered stays of proceedings against Bramwell on a charge of having a prohibited weapon in a motor vehicle and against Rutherford on a charge of possession of marijuana.

As soon as Judge William Ostler recorded the stays, the two were taken before Victoria County Court Judge Montague Drake, where they signed voluntary waivers of extradition.

Rutherford and Bramwell were arrested at 3:30 p.m. June 18 in a car in the Empress Hotel's rear parking lot after a stakeout that began early that morning. There was no resistance and police found a .22 calibre revolver and a small amount of marijuana in the car or the two men's rooms.

★ ★ ★

Rutherford was wanted by the FBI after three bank holdups in Seattle and Portland while Bramwell was sought in one of the two Portland robberies.

It was understood their lengthy pre-extradition stay of eight days was due to legal complications and paper work.

Motorist Hurt, Passenger Fine

The driver of a sports car was seriously injured and his passenger escaped with minor injuries after the car flipped over on 1500-block Esquimalt Road about 7:10 p.m. Friday.

Stephen John Warren, 19, of 1257 Hampshire, Oak Bay, is in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital with multiple injuries.

The passenger, Guy Gatin Jeffery, 22, of CFB Esquimalt, was taken to hospital, treated for minor injuries to his left arm and later released.

Esquimalt police are still investigating.

In an earlier accident Friday, Gordon A. Johnston, 29, of 2185 Amity Drive, Saanichton, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with injuries he suffered after the large semi-trailer flat-deck truck he was driving careened down a steep 100-foot embankment 11 miles north of Sooke about 11 a.m., Sooke RCMP said.

Johnston remains in satisfactory condition with an injured knee.

RCMP said the truck was proceeding down a steep, winding hill leading to Kirby Creek and the brakes apparently overheated, causing the truck to lose control and leave the road.

★ ★ ★

The cab of the truck, which was hauling a load of bags of cement, was totally wrecked but the trailer suffered only minor damage, police said. Johnston was alone in the truck.

It took wreckers about seven hours to get the truck from the bottom of the embankment back to the highway.

Blood Clinic Tops Quota

A Red Cross blood donor clinic Friday at CFB Esquimalt, Naden, collected 124 pints of blood, bringing the total for a five-day drive to 955 — five pints more than the week's goal. Red Cross spokesman Maj. C. E. C. MacNeill said he was "very pleased with the results." The next blood drive begins July 20 at Red Cross House.

Dead Driver Negligent

A verdict of negligence was issued Friday after an inquiry into a fatal traffic accident June 11 was held by Greater Victoria Coroner Edmond Jorre de St.Jorre.

He ruled that John George Gosling, 16, of 2606 Bowker in Oak Bay, "died as a result of driving a car at excessive speed and of allowing it to get out of control."

Gosling died late June 11 when the station wagon he was driving crahsed into a power pole in the 3000 block McAnally Road on Ten Mile Point. His only passenger, Frederick Grimm, 17, of 3145 Exeter in Oak Bay, is recovering from fractures of facial bones.

Defence Department Program

Students Pursuing Jobs Can Join the Army Now

The federal government is attempting to increase the number of student jobs this summer by taking on more help than in previous years.

Tuesday the defence department announced it will employ about 6,000 students across Canada for seven weeks.

A spokesman for the Bay St. Armory said Victoria's share will be 100 students.

The program will run from July 6 to Aug. 21 and for Victoria will be carried out in the armory.

To be eligible, a person must be an unemployed male student between the ages of 16 and 24.

Militia Program

The students will take a basic army militia program consisting of marching, weapon handling and map reading and will be paid about $7 a day for a five-day work week.

By Thursday, about 27 students had applied but a spokesman said the small number was because of lack of advertising.

The other attempt at relieving the student unemployment situation was releasing of federal funds June 12 to various federal departments to hire more.

With these extra funds, some Victoria branches of the federal government were able to hire more students.

Defence Work

The defence research establishment at CFB Esquimalt has seven more students this year, bringing their student employment to 16.

Fort Rodd Hill has a total of nine students, up five from last year.

John Atcheson said Canada Manpower have increased student hiring by six, bringing the total to nine.

Most of these students are working in the temporary work office on Humboldt, placing other students in jobs and doing very well considering the current labor conditions he said.

The Canadian Hydrographic Service, with the aid of the extra funds was able to hire an extra six students this week making their total about 15.

The agricultural department hired four University of Victoria students this spring but said it never hired any more because the funds came through too late for them.

No Postal Jobs

The post office has hired no students this summer and it is unlikely it will.

The federal fisheries was the only department reporting decreased student hiring this year. Last year they had three students but this year they went down to two.

A spokesman said the extra job was chopped, but he noted one of the other positions had to be created.

Most provincial government departments contacted did not have records of students hired for the summer as they were grouped in with all other new employees.

Welfare Payments Must Be Picked Up

Victoria and Saanich welfare departments have asked recipients to pick up their cheques at the offices because they will not be mailed this month.

Spokesmen for the two departments blame uncertain postal service because of strikes for the move.

Union officials say, however, that the precaution was unnecessary, and had the cheques been mailed in the normal manner they would have been delivered on time.

"That mail normally comes in bundled, and there would be no difficulty about sorting and delivering it," said C. A. Spencer, secretary of the Victoria Letter Carrier's Union.

Alex Davidson, city welfare administrator, said women can get their cheques at 1947 Cook Street and men at 613 Pandora between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday only. People whose last name begins with the letters A to L should call before noon, while the rest should call after 1 p.m., he said.

No new welfare applications will be processed in the city Tuesday.

In Saanich, the cheques can be picked up at the welfare office at 780 Vernon.

Despite Building Woes

Senior Citizens' Home Ready Before Christmas

A $2,000,000 luxury senior citizens' home on Simcoe Street will be ready for 167 occupants before Christmas.

The project was approved by Victoria city council more than a year ago, but excavation didn't start until March of this year.

Built by Imperial Construction Ltd., a Winnipeg-based firm, the home will be called Beacon Hill Lodge.

Winnipeg architect James Libling of Libling and Michener, preparers of the plans for the project, told the Colonist from Winnipeg Friday, he hoped the building would be completed early in December.

★ ★ ★

"We were somewhat slowed down by your construction lockout, but the basement is all finished and we hope to have the lodge ready for occupancy before Christmas," Libling said.

Victoria assistant city planner Peter Crisp said the project was "very carefully conceived" and incorporated the latest features to be found in senior citizens homes.

"Just to give you an example, each floor is painted in a different color. That way an older person who might be a bit forgetful may not remember the number of his floor, but the color."

★ ★ ★

Crisp said this project was another good example of how long it can take from conception of a plan to the actual start of construction.

The home, he said, would have nursing facilities for elderly persons who didn't require full hospital treatment. Imperial Construction was one of the best-known firms in the field of senior citizens' housing.

"They have built similar projects in Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver," Crisp said.

Crippled Children Workers Receive Royal Message

Queen Praises Solarium League

Queen Elizabeth has sent a message commending the Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League on their work for crippled children.

The letter would have been read at the league's annual meeting last Saturday if it hadn't been for the mail strike.

But this didn't dim the pleasure for the members. Recognition of their services from such high quarters has thrilled them and given them added incentive.

Andrew Chatten, husband of associate member Valerie Chatten, had the idea that it would be a fine thing if the work done by the league was given wider recognition than just here on Vancouver Island.

So he wrote to the Queen.

The reply came this week and reads as follows:

"Dear Mr. Chatten:

"I am commanded by the Queen to thank you for your letter of 25th May, 1970.

"Her Majesty was very interested to hear of the visit which Queen Mary made to you while you were in military hospital in England.

"The Queen has read your account of the important work being done by members of the Solarium Junior League, in order to keep open the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Crippled Children in British Columbia. While it would not be in accordance with Her Majesty's practice to send a special message to the annual general meeting on 20 June, 1970, the Queen hopes that the members of the Solarium Junior League will have every success in their work for crippled children.

Yours sincerely,
Philip Moore."

Old friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Thompson, 110 Island Highway, Monday evening to help Mrs. Josephine Godman celebrate her 89th birthday.

Mrs. Godman, born Josephone Ellison, daughter of Rev. W. H. G. and Mrs. Ellison, was born in Victoria. Her father was pastor of St. Paul's Church in Esquimalt and at St. Mary's in Sooke. Later he went to the Anglican church in Port Renfrew.

It was here that the young girl Josie first became interested in the Indians. This is an interest she has kept up all her life; she is still keenly interested in the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society.

It was in Port Renfrew that Josie Ellison met her future husband, Tyrell Godman, an Englishman. After they were married, England was their home for many years. The Godmans lost a son in a flu epidemic during the First World War and their other son, Tony, was killed in the Second World War.

Always keenly interested in others, Mrs. Godman organized the Canadian Girls' and Business Women's Club in London and during the Second World War she spent countless hours of volunteer work at the information desk at British Columbia House.

Mrs. Godman is also a founding member of the Craigdarroch Castle Preservation Society, a long-time member and former president of the Victoria section of the B.C. Historical Society and a prominent member of the Craigflower Women's Institute.

The birthday party was held on the patio at the home of the curator of Craigflower Manor Farm in the shadow of the old farm house and with the old Craigflower school house in the distance. Waters of Portage and the Gorge were glistening in the evening sun.

Clashing with the historical picture were bulldozers at work on the farm house slopes extending to the corner of Admiral's Road and the Island Highway. The gas station and hamburger-coffee house on this corner have gone to make way for a park.

This should be one of the historic jewels of the Greater Victoria area when it is finished according to James Nesbitt, B.C. member of the Historic Sites Board of Canada.

The party had a partly no-host flavor. Hostess Jean Thompson cooked the turkey and ham and also supplied the decorated birthday cake. Joyce Albany brought the delicious potato salad, Mrs. E. G. Hart, the savory salad, Mrs. Roy Elsick, jellied salad, Olive Sanford, pineapple and carrot salad, Flora Hamilton Burns, the celery, Inez Mitchell and Jim Nesbitt, pickles and olives, Mrs. Ursula Lalonde, cranberries.

Jim Ellis, owner and publisher of the Merritt News from 1912 to 1936, and who is Mrs. Godman's senior by 13 years, presented a rose corsage to her. Nessie Hart proposed the toast recalling the years she and Jessie Godman worked together during the Second World War.

Other guests were Mr. Hart, Miss Ellen Hart, Mr. Elsick, Mr. R. Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hay came over from Vancouver specially for the party. They are leaving today and taking Mrs. Godman with them for a holiday on Galiano Island.

Exciting Indian canoe races will be part of the Tsarslip Festival being held today and Sunday at Brentwood Bay. I learned this from Audrey Samson when I gave her a lift after the Lady Laurier Club luncheon at the Racquet Club Friday noon.

The festival has been held in August in former years but was switched ahead to the end of June this year.

Audrey's husband, Tom Sampson, is in charge of the canoe races which start at 2 p.m.

Besides the canoe races there will be Indian dancing on both days and a softball tournament.

Clam chowder and barbecued salmon will be served around 1 p.m. and continue until the crowd thins out, usually between 5 and 6 p.m.

Family Marks It's Centennial

WAGONER, Okla. (UPI) — More than 400 descendants of one of the first women doctors west of the Mississippi River have arrived to attend the family's centennial reunion. The gathering is held a short distance from the burial place of the Matriarch of the family, Belle Cobb. Most of the Cobb family came to Oklahoma from Morgantown, Tenn., in the early 1800s.

Navel in Public Rift in Council

SHEPTON MALLET, England (Reuters) — The exposed navel of shapely councillor Jane Court, 25, has upset her fellow council members in this sleepy farm town.

There was a hint that the matter will figure on the agenda at the next meeting of the Shepton Mallet urban council.

Mrs. Court was photographed for a local newspaper wearing a see-through crochet trouser suit with a bare midriff.

Councillor Fred Bryant, 67, said: "What Councillor Court wears in private it up to her, but showing her navel in public does not encourage people to have respect for councillors or their council. I might raise the matter at the next meeting."

Mrs. Court laughed off the criticism.

"As a councillor I've always behaved, I hope, with decorum and modesty," she said.

From Nags To Beauty

WICKWAR, England (UPI) — The 70-year-old Duke of Beaufort, who serves as master of the Queen's horse to Queen Elizabeth and a recognized expert on such equine matters as fetlocks, will judge a contest to choose the prettiest female ankles at a party being given by the Duchess of Westminster, the hostess announced.

German Measles

Doctors Rap Vaccine Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Doctors were critical Friday of Health Minister Ralph Loffmark's announcement Thursday that a free German measles vaccine would be available to all women anticipating pregnancy.

German measles, or rubella, can cause deafness, blindness, idiocy and heart defects if a fetus is exposed to the disease through the mother during the first three months of pregnancy.

Dr. Gerald Bonham, senior medical health officer for Vancouver, said Loffmark's program of free vaccination "really doesn't change anything."

★ ★ ★

"And I'd prefer not to comment at this point because it looks like he hasn't any money yet to do it. In any case, that won't block the spread of the disease. There is a necessity for other measures."

Dr. W. D. Thomas, chairman of the B.C. Medical Association's maternal mortality committee, said the potential hazard of administering the vaccine to young women and mothers should not be underestimated.

"I think that testing of already pregnant women would be more relevant to the present situation. Otherwise, we're still going to have babies born with deformities.

The head of the gynecology department in the medicine faculty of the University of B.C. said the association submitted a brief on the rising incidence of German measles to Loffmark, but recommendations for a program of immunizing children were turned down.

★ ★ ★

"The only reason he has made this announcement is that he has been pressured."

Vancouver quarantine officer Angus Mackie said the rate of German measles cases is rising fast. There were 114 reported so far this year, compared with 81 during all of 1969.

Mrs. Gandhi Reshuffles Her Cabinet

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India worked on a major cabinet reshuffle Friday and announced she would take over the home ministry portfolio herself.

The shakeup was expected to affect the ministries of defence, finance and foreign affairs also.

Foreign Minister Dinesh Singh resigned Thursday night after Mrs. Gandhi tried to demote him to the steel and heavy engineering ministry.

Women's Rights Fight Neutralizes Bar Bell

NEW YORK UPI — A large bronze bell hangs behind the scuffed-up wooden bar in McSorleys, a 114-year-old ale house on Manhattan's lower east side.

And just before closing early each morning, in the tradition of the motherland, the on-duty Irish-born bartender sounds the bell loudly to signal the last round. He sounded the bell even more loudly if a woman — unhappens to wander through the door.

★ ★ ★

But for two determined ladies from Syracuse, from now on the extra vigorous bell-ringing — and the chorus of Bronx cheering that traditionally followed it — will bring only a smile. A federal judge agreed with them Thursday that they have a perfect right to enter McSorleys, take a seat and slosh all the suds they desire.

Judge Walter Mansfield pointed out that McSoreleys is a public place, not a private club, and that the preference of some of its patrons for male companionship is not justification for barring women under the equal protection clause.

★ ★ ★

In granting the summary judgments to the women, Faith Seidenberg and Karen de Crow, members of the National Organization for Women, Mansfield said the pictures of bars as dens of iniquity and of women as delicate creatures in need of protection from the rough and tumble of unvarnished humanity will no longer justify sexual separatism in the tavern.

"At least to this extent, women's emancipation is recognized," he said.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 27 years old. She was an A student all the way through school. When it came to common sense, she didn't have much. Her grandmother used to say she was "book smart and life dumb."

Anne has a master's degree in English and taught in junior high for two years. Ten months ago she married a brilliant computer genius who gets lost on his way home from work and misplaces his pay cheque regularly. He has trouble holding jobs because he becomes intrigued with afternoon TV soap operas and stays home from work. Recently, he became so enthralled with Edge of Night and General Hospital he faked illness for five days. Now he has fallen in love with Sesame Street and there is no telling when he will go back to his job.

Anne is pregnant and had to quit teaching last week. She told me yesterday her marriage was a mistake and she is fed up with the lazy lug. What should her father and I do?—Agonized Folks.

Dear Ag: Nothing. It's her mistake and her lazy lug. Let her know you'll give her and the baby bed and board if she should need it but say nothing that might encourage her to leave her husband.

'Other Woman' Weeps

Dear Ann: Today is my birthday. I'm alone. My love just phoned to say his wife is ill and he can't leave her. This isn't the first time he has cancelled plans at the last minute. Of course there's nothing I can say or do.

My evenings are spent sitting by the phone. Sometimes it rings. Sometimes it doesn't. I'm afraid to leave the apartment for fear he'll call and I'll miss him. I hesitate to invite friends over because he might drop by when someone is here.

I'm ashamed to tell you how long I've been living like this. I'll just sign off with a warning to other starry-eyed fools who think the role of the Other woman is exciting and glamorous. It's a lousy life and a lonely one. The road is a rough one and it leads nowhere. I've wasted my youth and I have no future. —Tears In The Pillow.

Dear Tears: Your message is plain. I hope the candidates read you loud and clear.

Hubby's Big Mouth

Dear Ann: My husband and I have been married eight years. We both want a family but I can't seem to get pregnant. He has been checked and the problem is mine, not his. Three doctors have told me the trouble is "psychological" and not organic. They have suggested adoption — and all three doctors have said, "After you adopt a child you will probably have your own."

The problem is my husband's big mouth. We have been interviewed by representatives of two adoption agencies. When they ask him about church attendance he says, "Religion is a lot of garbage. Children should be raised to depend on themselves, not a phony crutch." I know we will never get a child if he doesn't stop that kind of talk. I've begged him to just keep quiet about this subject but he says, "I'm no hyprocrite."

What can I do? — Redding, Calif.

Dear Red: You'd better start to contact adoption agencies which are not church affiliated — if you're sure he wants a child. I'm not so sure he does.

Only Traffic Stopped

For Buxom Grannie

Topless Wedding

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Margie Grant is a somewhat improbable grandma.

A divorcee, Mrs. Grant was married for the second time recently in a topless wedding at a nightspot where she works as a bare-bosomed waitress.

A 37-year-old of statuesque proportions, red hair and green eyes, she carried around a wallet bearing the inscription "Something to Brag About."

Inside are pictures of her five children, her son-in-law, and her first grandchild, born June 8.

"People who come in the place think it's a blast to be waited on by a topless waitress," she said. "And then when I tell them it's grandmom Margie — that really blows their minds."

Mrs. Grant, whose 16-year first marriage ended in divorce, is well-preserved for a grandmother with children ranging in age up to 19.

She says her measurements are 42-24-36. Her second husband, a 27-year-old security guard at an amusement park, was a customer who used to drop in once a week.

He expressed qualms when Margie broached the idea of taking her marriage vows in working garb, but she talked him around.

"What I told him was that, honey, it just wouldn't be me unless I was topless."

MOMS Girls WOW Guys

NEW YORK (UPI) — A mini-skirted blonde who is organizing women to oppose the feminists' movement said Thursday her women's group —Men Our Masters (MOM) — is forming a male counterpart for men who admire the weaker sex for their femininity.

"As an expression of MOM's femininity and willingness to perform almost any feat for the man she admires, M-O-M. Will stand on her head now for men," said antifeminist Mairie de Pasquale.

The new group is called Women Our Wonders or WOW, which is MOM upside down.

★ ★ ★

"Men who admire the wonders performed by their wives, mothers or special girl in their natural, feminine role are welcome to be honorary WOW's," Miss de Pasquale told a news conference.

She said she sent out 500 questionnaires to women asking them questions ranging from employment to fashion. She claimed to have received more than 300 completed returns.

Miss de Pasquale said 99 per cent said they preferred working for men. 100 per cent said men were "ordained by nature to be the breadwinner" and 100 per cent said the majority in the women's liberation movement are women "frequently overlooked by men" or "embittered by an unhappy sexual relation."

Asked how she felt about sexual freedom, Miss de Pasquale said, "I believe in morality before marriage" and also said she felt motherhood is the "ultimate" accomplishment of women "since we are physically structured that way."

On the question of job discrimination based on sex, the anti-feminist said she felt "private industry should have the prerogative to give higher salaries to men" and that men "are more logical than women" in business.

Miss de Pasquale, who said she lives in a women's residence, would not reveal her salary. She said she had worked as a film script writer and in production work but presently was employed as a temporary legal secretary.

$14,000,000 For Children

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — More than 100 Swedish children, born deformed because their mothers used thalidomide during pregnancy, will receive more than $14,000,000 from the Swdish maker of the drug, their lawyers announced Friday.

The children's claim against Astra, the Swedish drugmaker, was settled out of court earlier this year.

There's Many a Slip Here

Lingerie Goes to All Lengths

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lingerie manufacturers have taken note of the hemline scramble for fall and winter and are out with their own wardrobe of lengths to go beneath the mini, the midi and the maxi of outerwear.

They're even making the teeny-weeny bikini to go with junior sportswear and, preaching that lingerie also is loungewear, even have moved in with ready-to-wear's fancy for pantaloons for fall and winter.

★ ★ ★

At two lingerie shows this week, assorted lengths in slips were accented. Designer Olga of the west coast company that bears her name showed a half slip "midi-partner." With the pull of a ribbon, it changed from mid-calf length to shorter for the girl still clinging to above knee hemlines. Reweave the ribbon, and it's back to midi length.

Warner's, one of the giants of the lingerie world, did as much hemline hopping as any designer of dresses, suits and coats has done for the new season. It showed slip lengths ranging from 22 inches, for the really long outerwear to an 11-inch "scooter" skirt with its own built-in bikini.

The model showed the wardrobe of lengths by coming onto the runway in the 22-inch half slip in solid colors. She pulled it off to uncover a 16-incher that hovered around the knees, then pulled that one off to show a 14-incher for the girl who wants a modified midi length. Last, and least, came the 11-incher. Measure that one for size!

★ ★ ★

The two-piece bra and girdle bikini look was as bare as anything you'll see on the beaches.

And when it came to at-home fashions, Warner's went heavily for color, some in bright solids like red combined with royal, or "oriental lacquer" prints which shaped any abbreviated wrap-arounds that ended at mid-thigh. Its knicker pajamas gathered just above the knees were in a combination of bold gold and narrow lines of cool blue striping.

★ ★ ★ ★

For all those men who used to think that every women's dream was a black nightgown — it's back, fellows. Warner's showed it.

And one of the neatest new coining of words came from Olga. What we used to call bed jacket now is the "reading bolero."

Nice to know that a girl can wear it around her shoulders and arms also while watching television, sewing, doing needlepoint, doing her nails, or working the crossword.

★ ★ ★

The lingerie shows highlighted a 10-day series which the fashion industry has staged for visiting representatives of press, radio and television.

Queen's Cousin Dies of Disease

LONDON (UPI) — Marilyn Wills Gayer, a cousin of Queen Elizabeth, died Thursday five months after her wedding. She was 22.

A family spokesman said she knew she was suffering from an undisclosed terminal illness when she married Trelawney Gayer in February.

She was a friend from childhood of both Prince Charles and Princess Anne and served as a bridesmaid at the wedding of Princess Margaret.

Firemen Suspect Arsonist

Saanich police are believed to be keeping an eye on a vacant house at 3301 Tennyson following five fires in the area which Saanich Fire Chief Joe Sutherland thinks are a result of arson.

The chief said Friday that arson was "about the only conclusion" firemen could reach in investigations of fires at 3301 Tennyson June 1, 2, 20 and 24 and a fire June 13 at 3284 Tennyson.

He said the first event was a grass fire and the second saw the garage burned at 3301. Firemen thought children might have caused these fires, but changed their minds after the later incidents.

A garage was burned June 13 at 3284 Tennyson, where the home is occupied, and then on June 20 and 24, latticework under the back porch at 3301 was set on fire twice and flames were stopped just as they started on the vacant building.

Sutherland said an investigator from the B.C. fire marshal's office in Vancouver has also been looking into the case.

Longtime Printer Retires

James Moore, 3249 Quadra, finished off a 46-year career as a printer Friday with the last 16 years at Victoria Press.

"Dinty" as he is called by his friends, started in the trade in Carberry, Manitoba and at one time worked in Goban, Sask. where he ran a weekly newspaper.

After travelling around western Canada, he decided to come to Victoria to settle. But he intends to leave again on a three-year trip to Manitoba, but said he will return to live in Victoria.

Druggist Bounces New Bill

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — An accountant on the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia here tried to pass one of Canada's colorful new $20 bills to a druggist but the druggist would not accept it.

The druggist, who insisted the bill was a merchandising coupon passed out by a tire firm, wouldn't even accept the bill after telephoning the bank to verify the identity of the customer.

Courtroom Parade

Visitor Finds What Happens

A 24-year-old man with several years of architectural training was told Friday in Victoria Provincial Court that he should "get an education and then a lucrative position instead of wandering around with marijuana in your jeans, and little else."

Judge William Ostler was speakin to David John Arms, 24, of Oakland Calif., who pleaded guilty last Monday to a charge of possession of marijuana June 20 in Victoria.

Court was told then that Arms was a foot passenger on the Port Angeles ferry, Coho, and one ounce of marijuana, which he said he bought in the U.S., was found in a tin when he was searched by customs workers.

"He has what he stands in," the judge said Friday, then turned to Arms and added: "It concerns me what you are goin to do."

Arms said he was "just travelling to see what's happened" until he got a job, and the judge replied: "Well, you see what has happened."

The judge noted that Arms had spent a week in jail and that a pre-sentence report recommeended probation, which would only be effective in Canada. He finally decided on a suspended sentence and one-year probationary term as the penalty in the case.

□

Richard Alden Sylvester, 19, of Santa Barbara, Calif., was sentenced to 14 days in jail after he pleaded guilty June 19 to a charge of possession of marijuana the day before in Victoria.

Court was told then that he was also checked by customs men as he left the Mv Coho and had with him four marijuana cigarettes and a "small quantity" of marijuana seeds.

The judge noted Friday that Sylvester was a U.S. citizen and "the immigration people are considering your status." He said Sylvester had an "extensive history" of experimentation with drugs and was "very heavliy involved in the drug scene."

□

A fine of $350 was levied against Barry John Maloney, 25, of 440 Simcoe, who pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana June 20 in Victoria. On request, he was given one day to pay the fine.

Two brothers facing a joint charge of gross indecency with a female "on or about May 28, 1970, at or near Colwood" separately waived preliminary hearings of the charge. Glen Raymond Galbraith, 23, and Robert John Galbraith, 19, who have separate addresses in Sooke, were committed by Ostler to a higher court for trial.

□

Patrick E. Murphy, 35, of 105 Cook, was sentenced to 20 days in jail after he changed an earlier not-guilty plea and pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving May 15 in Victoria. He admitted an impaired-driving conviction last May 9 in Duncan.

Plane Crash Kills Three

ROCK FOREST, Que. (CP) — Three persons were killed Wednesday when a private plane hit a high-voltage wire and crashed into the verandah of a house in this village 90 miles east of Montreal.

Dead were a man and a woman in the pontoon-equipped aircraft and an elderly man sitting on the verandah when the plane struck the house.

Burglars Find $1 Bill, Police

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Three burglars forced open the cash drawer at a food distributing plant but they were too late. Holdup men had robbed the plant of $1,200 the day before. All the burglars got was a $1 bill, but they did trip the burglar alarm and police arrested them.

Seized Oil May Seize An Engine

The person who stole 24 quarts of oil Thursday from a farm field in Central Saanich could be in considerable trouble if he tries to use it in a car or some other ordinary vehicle.

Central Saanich police said Friday the oil is not for cars but for hydraulic systems and will cause a car motor to seize.

They said an oil company agent delivered one case containing 24 quart tins of 10W D3 Essolube oil to the farm of Dave Finaly, 7096 Maber, putting it beside a back hoe in a field. That was Thursday morning and, when Finlay went to get the oil in the afternoon, it had vanished.

Police indicated they're watching roadsides for cars whose motors may be inoperative.

Murder Try-Rape Case

Judge Decrees $20,000 Bail

Bail of $20,000, one of the largest in recent years in Victoria Provincial Court, was set Friday for a 24-year-old Victoria man facing one charge of attempted murder and one charge of rape.

Carl Jens Hansen, Hillside Avenue, was charged June 4 with attempting to murder a girl by dropping her from a bridge near Point No Point, and was charged June 12 with raping the same girl. Both charges gave a date of "on or about June 2."

* * *

Defence lawyer Robert Hutchison told court Friday he had been unable to arrange a psychiatric report on Hansen, which Judge William Ostler said last week was needed before Hansen could be remanded 30 days for a full psychiatric examination.

Hutchison said that, "while it may be academic," he was asking for a bail order, since a preliminary hearing was one or two months away. Prosecutor Norman Prelypchan said he did not oppose bail, but it "should be very high," and the judge set the figure of $20,000.

The case wa remanded to next Friday for further hearing.

'Schizophrenia or Psychotic Chaos'

Art Groups Assail Tax Paper

By BERT BINNY

Finance Minister Edgar Benson's white paper on taxation has been cited as evidence of either "schizophrenia or psychotic chaos" in federal government policy-making by representatives of the Canadian Conference of the Arts.

The CCA, founded in 1945, is an association of arts organizations across Canada and represents the private sector of the arts community. An outspoken voice of the arts and self-appointed government critic, it is financed largely by federal grants.

Commenting on a submission to the standing committee on finance, trade and economic affairs which is reviewing the tax proposals, the CCA describes the white paper as "another example of thoughtless disregard for the arts and the quality of life in this country."

★ ★ ★

"It is hard to avoid the conclusion that this government regards the arts as so unimportant as to be irrelevant to the health of the nation," said Duncan Cameron, national director of the conference.

The CCA submission opposed the proposed tax on the investment incomes of non-profit organizations as "unconscionable." It would discourage investment in the arts and inhibit the growth of endowment funds for museums and art galleries as well as cutting down emergency reserves of performing arts companies.

The government proposal to tax fellowships, bursaries, scholarships and grants to artists would, the CCA argued, decrease the potency of foundations and corporations supporting the arts and increase government cultural budgets.

The CCA submission went before the standing committee June 22.

Supporting the CCA submission, Professor Richard Courtney of the University of Victoria theatre department said the white paper hit hardest at those arts which could least afford to defend themselves — in particular the children's theatre companies.

★ ★ ★

Courtney, president of the Canadian Child and Youth Drama Association, said: "Our children's theatre companies are second to none in the world, but they already live a hand-to-mouth existence. The proposed tax reforms will hit them hard. Groups like Bastion Theatre in Victoria or Holiday Playhouse in Vancouver are already fighting an uphill battle. These proposals are likely to put them out of business altogether."

Duncan Plans Bonanza Daze

DUNCAN — Duncan's Bonanza Daze celebration this year will be held from July 20 to 25. An "old time" theme will include displays of native handicraft, old time cars and modern dragsters, band concerts and marching bands.

Forest Fires Ease

The British Columbia Forest Service said Friday 240 fires started in the province during the last week — all but one under control and being mopped up.

The 60,000-acre Ingenika fire was still burning behind new fire guards but was described as "quiet." The forest service said cool weather and lighter winds in the Prince George area have improved the situation.

More than $538,000 was spent last week to fight the fires for a total to date of $1,273,600.

Relax, Observe

We gardeners work like crazy all through the spring months to get the garden in and everything sown and planted, then in the autumn we're at it again with leaf raking, fall planting, putting in bulbs, a general tidy-up and that everlasting chore of fall digging and cultivating.

It is only in midsummer that we get a momentary lull to relax and enjoy to the full the beauty which, hand in hand with Mother Nature, we have helped create.

True, there are all kinds of little jobs of maintenance still to be done — weeding and mowing and the like — but he is a foolish gardener who takes on so much that he can spare no time to enjoy the fruits of his labor.

This is the time for the deckchair, the hammock, the Singapore cot and the garden lounge, but such pleasant loafing needn't be entirely profitless. This is an excellent vantage point from which to review the whole general layout of the garden, and to make plans for what changes should be made this fall.

One object of this planning session should be the improvement of the general appearance of the garden, of course, but I think an even more important point is how to cut down the labor involved in maintenance.

This thought came to me as I viewed, with a somewhat jaundiced eye, the overcrowding in my own perennial border. In particular, the tall back-row plants were planted much too far back — too close to my neighbour's hedge. The spacing looked about right when the plants, as little bits of things, were set out, but they have grown enormously, probably due to a load of spent mushroom compost rototilled in before the bed was planted up.

For instance, a dainty little potted chrysanthemum — an anniversary gift to my wife — was cut down after it had finished blooming and was shaken out of its pot, divided into single-stemmed pieces and planted out in the back row.

Those plants are now three feet tall, with stems as thick as your thumb. There isn't room to get behind their bushy growth for hoeing or weeding, and clipping the hedge is an impossible task. Obviously, all the back-row plants will have to be moved well forward, leaving room enough to run the rototiller behind them occasionally.

If your flower beds are so small and so numerous as to occupy too much time for their upkeep — clipping their edges alone is almost a full-time chore — they should be reduced in number and consolidated. One or two moderately large beds look better and are much easier to care for than a lot of little beds in fancy shapes.

★ ★ ★

Most beds are far too crowded, too, with plants set together so closely as to make weeding a painfully slow and back-breaking chore. In making your fall plans, it is a good idea to revise your planting scheme, allowing enough space between plants to get in there and stir the soil with a scuffle hoe — an easy and pleasant task with no bending or stooping involved.

If you are finding the garden upkeep just a bit onerous, it might be wise to substitute more ornamental small trees and flowering shrubs for the bedding out annuals and border perennials, as these require a lot less attention.

A couple of good nursery catalogues can provide some highly profitable reading for the lazy summer days ahead.

We have at hand your latest complaint regarding our Vice Presidential Model STA. In our judgment, another extensive overhaul and re-programming is not warranted at this time.

As you will recall, the model was designed to meet your specifications in 1968 for an ideal running mate. At the time of delivery, you expressed yourself as highly pleased with our exterior design — silver hair, square jaws and impeccable finish.

★ ★ ★

"It looks every inch a vice president," is the way you were kind enough to put it.

True, when placed in operation, the model developed certain malfunctions. Its tendency to blurt out such phrases as "Polack" and "fat Jap" was as unfortunate a surprise to us as to you.

This can be attributed, we feel, to the fact that the design was a rush order and the circuitry was of necessity somewhat crude. There are always bugs, after all, in new models.

But we demonstrated our good faith by recalling that model to the factory in June of 1969 and installing an entirely new out-put unit. Our engineers consider it the ultimate in electronic sophistication.

Your first complaint that we overcompensated and made the model "too sophisticated" is, we feel, without merit — even though, as you so pungently put it, "nobody knows what the hell tomentose means."

Such high linguistic skill is the direct result, of course, of the William Buckley programming the model underwent. It was mutually agreed, you will recall, that when it came to sophisticated invective, Buckley should serve as the model's model.

In addition, let us point out that in recent months the new model's performances have earned it the admiration of the silent majority, the gratitude of dictionary salesmen and close to $3,000,000 for the Republican party.

Your second complaint that the model seems programmed for only two targets is technically correct. Our research shows that in terms of audience acceptance, "wild-eyed, tomentose demonstrators" and a "tiny fraternity of privileged newsmen" are the only targets with a satisfactory pay-off capability.

If, as you say, you are becoming bored with pressing one of these two buttons each week, may we suggest you press the "Mix" button located behind the left shoulder. The model will then attack "wild-eyed, tomentose newsmen" and a "tiny fraternity of privileged demonstrators." The change might be refreshing.

Your last complaint — that the model tends to fire golf and tennis balls at people's heads — does not, we find, indicate any structural flaw in the model itself. You have simply wound it up too tight.

In closing, let us say how much we are looking forward to seeing you again this summer in San Clemente. Our full staff will be on hand to assist you in — as you so accurately put it — "recharging your batteries."

★ ★ ★

Meantime, let us keep in mind the highly efficient leadership we advanced models are now providing the public in industry and politics. It is gratifying to know that with our mechanistic, logical, simplistic solutions to the nation's problems, nothing can conceivably go wrong.

He's Kind to Mum

SHEILAH GRAHAM

Michael Caine finally managed to get his mother out of the slum district in London where he was raised and into a more elegant home in a suburb. Old people hate to move; they hate to leave their neighbors. Michael has been good to his family. He gave his brother the house in which he lived before moving to his current opulent penthouse.

"When my lease is up," he told me, "I'll move into a penthouse across the river in Lambeth, then I can use the River Thames for travelling by boat from my house at Windsor." Michael still cannot drive a car — he has a chauffeur for his Rolls and is trying to make a deal with Peter Sellers to buy his yacht.

★ ★ ★

You may or may not like playwright John Osborne in his first acting role, as the mad poet in Maximillian Schell's First Love. Osborne, the first of the "angry men," has written his own adaptation of Ibsen's Hedda Gabler — for wife Jill Bennett. It is always useful to have a playwright in the family, as Sarah Miles discovered with hubby Robert Bolt, who wrote her current play in which Sarah plays Mary, Queen of Scots.

★ ★ ★

Things are worse than ever in the film studios of Hollywood, with only two important pictures in production. But the television scene is humming. All the hiatuses are over and all the familiar series are going full steam ahead.

I am looking forward to seeing Rod Steiger as Napoleon in the Di Laurentiis — Russian Waterloo. It has to be the last of the present big expensive pictures because, as Rod told me, "If it had been made in Hollywood, it would have cost $78,000,000." The Russians seem to have all the money that is left in the world, the way they splash it around for films.

While Rod would like to live in London, he assured me he will never sell his house at Malibu Beach. "You buy your first house. You say, 'I've got it.' Even though your marriage breaks up, you still have the house. Claire (Bloom) wanted to sell it. But I said no. "Hollywood today," he concluded gloomily, "is in a panic."

★ ★ ★

Ingmar Bergman has a new love. He was never married, apparently, to Liv Ullman, although most people thought they were.

★ ★ ★

Anthony Quinn: "Hey, I've got something exciting to tell you!" I thought he'd struck oil or that Jolanda was expecting another baby. But, "I'm having an exhibition of my sculptures in Rome, at the Marlborough Gallery. I'll bring the exhibition to New York and Los Angeles." How will Tony find the time? But, as Lady Astor once said to me, the busy people always find the time.

★ ★ ★

Sophia Loren, discussing the new generation and the new films: "The new way has always been the same, more or less. I never do a picture that is against anything."

SYDNEY HARRIS

Replies to Readers

"Why do members of parliament say 'Hear, hear,' when they approve of what a speaker is saying?"

In the early days of parliament, disapproval of a speaker was marked by humming, as a form of booing; those on the speaker's side protested by calling out, "Hear him," which eventually turned into "Hear, hear."

★ ★ ★

"It seems to me that your column is soft on crime; diesn't the murder rate keep going up in the United States?"

No, it is considerably less than it was 40 years ago. In 1930, the homocide rate in the U.S. was about nine per 100,000; by 1957, the rate had dropped to four, and the average for the last decade is between five and six.

"Isn't it true that the top hat — now a symbol of gentility — created as much of a public hubbub and scandal when it was first introduced as our present-day 'hippie' attire?"

Yes. The London Times in 1796 reported that John Hetherington was brought before the lord mayor on a charge of "breach of the peace" and of "obstructing the street." The newspaper reported:

"Mr. Hetherington, who is well connected, appeared on the highway wearing upon his head what he called a silk hat — a tall structure having a shiny lustre, and calculated to frighten timid people.

★ ★ ★

"The officers of the crown stated that several women fainted, children screamed, and a younger son of Cordwainer Thomas was thrown down by the crowd which had collected, and had his right arm broken.

"In extenuation of his crime, the defendant claimed that he had not violated any law of the kingdom, but was exercising his right to appear in a headdress of his own devising — a right not to be denied any Englishman."

★ ★ ★

"Wasn't Hello, Dolly! a flop in its original form?"

Its "original form" was actually A Day Well Spent by John Oxenford, produced in London in 1835. This was turned into a Viennese comedy, Einen Jux Will Er Sich Machen by Johann Nestroy in 1842.

Nearly a century later, Thornton Wilder rewrote this material into The Merchant of Yonkers, which closed in New York after only 28 performances.

A dozen years later, Wilder slightly revised the script, retitled it The Matchmaker, and it became the enormous hit from which Hello, Dolly! was adapted, totally unrecognizable from Oxenford's original.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

MRS. A. E. DEAN WISHES TO thank the many friends for their beautiful floral offerings and the help extended during my recent bereavement. Special thanks to the nurses and staffs of St. Joseph's Hospital and Glengarry Private Hospital.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy and for the beautiful floral tributes and cards during our recent loss of our beloved father and grandfather. — Stanley Crampton and family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

LENNAX — In loving memory of our dear son, Nicholas, who passed away June 27, 1967.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we loved to hear;
'Tis sad, but true, we wonder why,
The best are always the first to die.

—Always remembered by Mom, Dad, brother and sisters.

SCOTT-POLSON — In loving memory of Frederick, who passed away June 27, 1967.

Sadly missed along life's way,
Quietly remembered every day;
No longer in our life to share,
But in our hearts he's ever there.

—His wife Flora, sons, daughters and families.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Friday's answer — More title roles, naturally, with Ava Gardner, Barefoot Contessa; Gene Tierney, Belle Starr; Stewart Granger, Beau Brummell; Anthony Quinn, Barabbas, and Cary Grant and Shirley Temple, Bachelor and the Bobby Soxer. You've never heard of bobby sox?

Today's question knocks off title roles for the weekend. Simply name the authors of these books that became movies, whether good or bad: Red Badge of Courage, Saratoga Trunk, Razor's Edge, Random Harvest, Walk on the Wild Side and Revolt of Mamie Stover. Answers Tuesday.

Saturday Sport

NOTE: No, folks, the usual Saturday Highlights section wasn't lost. There just isn't anything out of the ordinary that I can find.

C-11:00 a.m.—Baseball, Boston at Yankee Stadium. Our first look this season at the revived Men of Houk—2, 5, 6.

C-4:30 p.m.—Wide World of Sports, CTV version, features the June 14 Mosport race—8.

C-5:00—WWS, ABC version, shows much of the Rugby League Cup final at Wembley: Wigan vs. Castleford—4.

C-7:30—Speaking of firsts, football is back! It's one of those U.S. college all-star things—4.

Saturday Movies

C-9:00 a.m.—13 Days to Die (1965 German dubber). Within 13 minutes, you'll dial it out—11.

10:45—Cattletown (1952 western bull)—11.

1:00 p.m.—Tawny Pipit (1944 English save-the-bird comedy, still amusing), Bernard Miles et al—4.

1:30—Tell Man Riding (1955 Randolph Scott)—7.

2:00—Land of the Pharoahs (fairish 1955 Egyptian epic). The acting of Jack Hawkins, the chassis of Joan Collins and a neat pyramid: otherwise nothing—11.

2:30—Silver River (1948 Errol Flynn fun)—4.

3:00—Sinbad the Sailor (fairly good 1947 swashbuckler), Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Maureen O'Hara, Walter Slezak and a bunch more—2.

3:00 — The Nevadan (1950 Randolph Scott) — 5.

7:00 — Story of Will Rogers (poor 1952 "biography"), Will, Jr., Jane Wyman. Not worth the time — 11.

C-8:30 — The Sandpiper (1964 Liz Taylor and Richard Burton). It's not much but I imagine you'll watch her anyway — 2, 6.

C-9:00 — Kings Go Forth (rotten 1958 war junk), Sinatra, Tony Curtis, Natalie Wood. They may go forth but they come fifth — 5.

C-9:00 — Run a Crooked Mile (routine 1969 intrigue), Louis Jourdan, Mary Tyler Moore, many more — 8.

9:00 — Diary of Anne Frank (good 1962 war tragedy), Joseph Schildkraut, Shelley Winters, scads more. It's too long and Millie Perkins is hopeless as the heroine, but otherwise, it's all right — 12.

9:00—No title available. Diary's the best at this time—13.

11:00 — Awful Dr. Orloff (awful 1962 horror) — 11.

C-11:15 — Run a Crooked Mile (see 9:00) — 6.

11:15 — Desire Under the Elms (poorly done 1958 Eugene O'Neill), Sophia Loren, Tony Perkins, Burl Ives. It doesn't come off — 8.

C-11:30 — All I Desire (1953 soaper, buy extra handkerchiefs), Barbara Stanwyck — 7.

C-11:35 — Nutty Naughty Chateau (poor 1964 French comedy, sort of), Curt Jurgens, Monica Vitti — 2.

● 11:45 — Laura (1944 detective classic), Gene Tierney, Clifton Webb, Dana Andrews — 12.

12:15—To Please a Lady (boring 1950 Love at Indy), Clark Gable, Barbara Stanwyck. It's Ruby Stevens night—4.

1:00 a.m.—His Kind of Woman (1951 suspense, one of history's worst lemons), Jane Russell, Robert Mitchum, Vincent Price—7.

1:05—Gun Fury (fairly good 1953 western), Rock Hudson—5.

1:30—House on Telegraph Hill (1951 DP drama, not much), Richard Basehart, and even he can't do much with this slum—12.

C-2:00—Seven-Year Itch (good 1955 Billy Wilder comedy), Marilyn Monroe, Tom Ewell, Sonny Tufts, solid support—4.

Saturday Radio

6:00 p.m.—Anyone for Jazz features singer Marilyn Maye. It's not exactly jazz, but she sure can sing—CBU (690).

6:30—A CBC look at Prince Rupert, described as "a good place to have been in"—CBU.

8:05—Gala Performance: music by Mozart, Handel, Smetana, Bizet and others—CFMS (98.5).

Sunday Highlights

C-3:30 p.m.—Eugene Carson Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, has his say—5.

C-5:00—Debut on KVOS of He and She, the popular but cancelled CBS comedy with Richard Benjamin, Paula Prentiss, Jack Cassidy—12.

C-7:00—An ABC news special on Asia, from Japan to Indochina—4.

C-9:00—CTV looks at the Oriental pavilions and art treasures at Expo 70, from India, Bali and Malaysia—8.

C-10:00—Speaking of Expo 70, the CBC covers Japan Day—2, 6.

10:00—Return of Hitchcock half-hours—11.

Sunday Sport

C-10:15 a.m.—Two hours of highlights of the B.C. high school track and field meet held June 14 at UVic—2.

C-12:00 noon—Another two-hour car race—5.

C-12:00—The U.S. men's track and field finals—7, 12.

C-2:30 p.m.—Kaleidosport shows a cricket match—2.

Sunday Movies

10:00 a.m.—Dallas (1950 action, and lots of it), Gary Cooper, Raymond Massey, zillions more—7.

C-2:00 p.m.—Anne of the Indies (truly terrible 1951 lady pirates), Debra Paget, Jean Peters—4.

2:00—Scandal Sheet (nauseating 1952 newspaper suspense), Broderick Crawford, Donna Reed. I've never seen a newspaper like this one—5.

2:30—They Who Dare (fairly good 1954 war action), Dirk Bogarde, Akim Tamiroff—6, 8.

● 2:30—Tight Little Island (1949 classic, possibly the best comedy ever), Joan Greenwood, Basil Radford and a fine lot of Scottish worthies—12.

3:00—This Side of the Law (stupid 1950 nothing)—7.

3:00—Story of Will Rogers (bad 1952 "biography"), Will Jr., Jane Wyman. A no-no—11.

3:30 — Shootout at Medicine Bend (1957 Randolph Scott). Plus James Garner, Angie Dickinson — 4.

6:00 — Come Fill the Cup (poorish 1951 reporter-fights-booze), Cagney, Gig Young, Raymond Massey. I've never seen a newspaper like this, either — 11.

C-6:00 — Helen of Troy (1956 fun), Rossana Podesta, Jacques Sernas, Brigitte Bardot, Stanley Baker, lots more. One of those so-hambone-it's-fun things—12.

C-9:00 — Flight to Tangiers (sappy 1953 plane-crash mystery), Jack Palace, Joan Fontaine. Take the next plane — 4.

C-11:15 — Untamed (1955 Boers, good action, lousy script), Tyrone Power, Susan Hayward — 4.

11:15 — Desire Under the Elms (wooden 1958 Eugene O'Neill), Sophia Loren, Burl Ives, Tony Perkins—6.

C-11:45 — Run Silent, Run Deep (fairly good 1958 submarines), Clark Gable, Burt Lancaster, solid support. Again, good action, not much else — 2.

Sunday Radio

5:05 p.m. — Have you Remembered When? — CJVI (900).

7:35 — Opera Theatre: Mozart's Lucio Silla — CBU-FM (105.7).

8:00 — The weekly CBC program report — CBU (690).

8:05 — Gala tonight is all Joan Sutherland — CFMS (98.5).

10:30 — Cadenza features Ivor Novello music — CBU.

● — Recommended; C — Color.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD and BEE SCHENKEN

Bridge is first and foremost a game of deduction and therefore a player's prowess depends very much on his ability to reason along such lines as, 'Since so-and-so has bid such-and-such, he must have this-or-that.'

NORTH (D)
Vul: ♠ 8 6
E-W ♡ 9 6 5
◇ A K Q J 10 4
♣ J 8

WEST

SOUTH
♠ Q 9 5 4 3 2
♡ Q 10 8 7 4 3 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	2 ♣	Pass	2 ◇
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♡
Pass	5 ♣	Pass	6 ♣
Pass	7 ♣	7 ♡	Dbl.
All pass

Opening lead: Nine of ◇.

Nevertheless, it sometimes happens that players allow their deductive capacity to run riot. Here is an example of such a case from the annals of Bridge World magazine.

It would appear that East, deduced from his partner's cue-bid of two diamonds that West held first-round control of diamonds, in which case seven clubs would be laydown. Accordingly, East bid it.

East's deduction was not borne out by the facts of the case, the East-West hands containing two quick losers in diamonds. It would seem therefore that seven clubs could have been quickly dispatched by means of a diamond opening lead.

However, South, who was Sylvester Lowery of Philadelphia, knew that he would be unable to lead a diamond and he therefore deduced (correctly) that seven clubs would be made. Accordingly he sacrificed at seven hearts, which the opponents doubled.

On lead against seven hearts, West deduced that if his side could have made seven clubs, East must necessarily be void of diamonds. Accordingly, with a view to giving East a diamond ruff and punishing the opponents to the maximum, he opened a diamond.

The diamond opening did not prove a success when declarer rattled off six rounds of the suit, discarding all his spades before West was able to ruff with the jack of hearts — which would have made a trick anyway.

Lowery therefore escaped for a penalty of 500 points, which was less than the value of a mere game for East-West! If West had opened with the K-A-J of hearts South would have been down seven.

HI THERE!!
I'm a bright and cheerful 4 bedroom home looking for some new owners. Some of the charming features that are contained with my 1950 sq. ft. of delightful living are a huge in-line living and dining room, a sparkling electric kitchen with eating area, 1½ bathrooms and a drive-in garage in my basement plus a separate double garage and work shop.
I am comfortably situated on a large, convenient lot with some fruit trees in my back yard.
I must admit however, that I am a little upset with the low price that my owners are asking for me because I am worth much more.
Call my agent

WHAT'S IN A NAME
HOW ABOUT
HAPPY VALLEY ROAD
Like it? Well, read on. Not only is this little home on Happy Valley Road, but it has a particularly delightful quiet, treed, SECLUDED lot with a LAZILY FLOWING CREEK in front of it. This 1.24 acres sports a little vegetable garden, and there are little patches of bulbs and flowers nestled here and there among the rocks. The entire atmosphere is one of restfulness, contentment and peace. The home is modest but very livable. Some modernizing and general finishing work would be desirable, but then one cannot expect a mansion for $17,900. Just right for the retired couple who appreciate the amenities of semi-rural living. Don Bacon, 385-2458.

SIDNEY SPECIAL
This desirable home located on one of the best streets in Sidney. Nice level lot and containing 3 good sized bedrooms — large living room with raised hearth fireplace. Separate dining room. Good sized electric kitchen, wired for washer and dryer. Separate extra 1-room cottage, also an adequate carport. This home also has a close to $10,000, 7½ per cent mortgage which can be assumed — full price is just $22,800 and it is a gift.

Youth Jailed

Smoke Screen Fails

NANAIMO—The cells at Nanaimo's RCMP detachment offices are perhaps not the best place to smoke marijuana, a 17-year-old Nanaimo youth found out Friday.

Kenneth Wayne Scott was brought back from Haney, where he was serving a three months definite, 12 months indeterminate sentence for possession of stolen goods, to face a charge of possession of marijuana. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two months concurrent.

Police said Scott had substituted marijuana for ordinary tobacco in filter tip cigarettes. They said he was in the juvenile cells May 28 and lit a paper fire in an attempt to cover the smell of the marijuana smoke.

Multiple Uses Seen In Arrowsmith Area

PORT ALBERNI — Plans for multiple use of the Mount Arrowsmith area were outlined at a meeting Thursday in Port Alberni by Grant Ainscough, assistant chief forester of MacMillan Bloedel.

Plans include a park, ski slopes, a nature trail, preservation of the Rosseau chalet, a viewpoint and retention of popular fishing and hiking areas.

"Some people are thinking still in terms of single use only, that of recreation," Ainscough said. "We believe there can be many more uses and that we can no longer afford this luxury."

Ainscough pointed out that in the immediate vicinity, a watershed area serving the city has been logged for years by the company. The water supply goes to the community, and the roads and fire protection for the watershed are supplied by the company.

* * *

"We do the same thing in the Nanaimo area, and officials there have figured that MacMillan Bloedel provides services that would cost the community $200,000 a year otherwise. A similar figure would apply here, also," the forester explained.

Some 3,000,000 acres of land are open to hikers. Changes in logging methods have taken the company into road development, creating a system that has been implemented by creation of public access roads. This makes vast areas of the forest available for use by the public for recreational purposes.

"For those who would like never to see a tree cut, and who want only a fishing village and tourism (in Port Alberni), there's not much I can say to convince them that the forest industry and forest management are useful," Ainsworth said, after repeated interjections by Miles Porter, a young man responsible for a widely-circulated petition asking that the Mount Arrowsmith area be saved as a park.

* * *

"We hope to show that community objectives and company objectives do coincide," Ainscough said.

It is new growth that provides browse for deer and grouse, young forests provide more water and oxygen, and intensive forestry programs are planned to renew the forest as soon as possible, Ainscough said.

In five years the trees begin to show; in 10 years, there is compact green growth. In the next 60 to 70 years, reforested areas are comparatively undisturbed except to remove occasional trees in the interests of good cultivation to provide space and light for proper growth, he said.

Company plans for public recreation use include relocation of the old railway hiking trail to another area which will not be logged, and access will be permitted at any time except during forest closure due to fire hazard.

* * *

Several small lakes and ponds in the vicinity, some stocked with trout, will never be totally logged or their shores denuded, the official promised.

Roseau Chalet, popular with Boy Scouts, hikers and climbers should be preserved and timber left around it.

"However, there will be no overnight camping permitted, the squatters cabins up there will have to go, and we hope we can get responsible groups to undertake maintainance of the cabin," Ainscough said.

Suggestions that the entire Arrowsmith area be reserved for a park were not really feasible, since such a huge area is involved, and the possibility of being able to trade the land they have there for timber land of equal value elsewhere is unlikely, officials said.

"We think the public recreational use of forest lands, once the harvesting is done, is quite compatible with the forest industry," Ainscough concluded.

Bob Ahrens, head of the provincial parks department, was present as was MLA Dr. Howard McDiarmid and explained the difference between a regional and a provincial park.

A provincial park would require more than the ski area and the suggested park area around it and would involve the land exchange problem. In addition, provincial parks can be developed only by the province. No private development is possible.

If the ski area could be acquired by the regional district, which would have to have its letters patent changed to include park operation, development could be on a public, private or mixed basis.

Questioned about the road into the area, officials said the B.C. Forest Products road leading off Cameron Lake provides shorter access, but that the difficult grade and switchbacks do not make it a good route for the average motorist, particularly in winter.

The road from China Creek is 22 miles long, but grades are easier and the road is wider and would be kept open in all but the most severe snows by MacMillan Bloedel.

"The suggested route is only temporary," Ted Stroyan assured MacDiarmid, and could eventually be replaced by a shorter route, especially if the provincial highways department wished to become involved.

The public park area suggested would be between 1,000 and 1,500 acres, 2 to 2¼ square miles.

"Isn't anyone interested in saving the trees?" reiterated Porter.

* * *

"Asking to save these trees is asking for a curtailment of operations in the Alberni Valley. We work on an allowable annual cut. This is where the log supplies are," Stroyan said. "Save the mountain and cut back on jobs, as simple as that."

"Surely people are entitled to a wilderness area they can use close at hand," Porter continued.

"If we could have all these things, certainly we would choose to have beautiful forests and employment," Stroyan retorted.

Private developers present said they had been hampered in efforts because the company 'dragged their feet'.

* * *

"We can't make a firm commitment without a commitment from M and B," they complained.

"We have asked for a viable proposal for operation of a ski development. We have not yet received one," Stroyen said.

Senior Title Decided On 55th Hole

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ken Newberry of Vancouver won the B.C. senior men's golf championship on Friday with a playoff victory over Hank Mitchell, also of Vancouver.

Both golfers finished the 54 holes with 225, Newberry shooting a last-round 76 over the 6210-yard, par-72 Beach Grove course and Mitchell catching him with a 75.

Mitchell missed a two-foot putt on the last scheduled hole to force the playoff, then lost to a par on the first extra hole.

Pele to Stay With Santos

SANTOS, Brazil (AP) — Pele, the world's most famous soccer player, says "it is certain" he will remain with his home club, Santos, for two more seasons. Then, he says, he will retire.

Speaking Friday at Santos Stadium, Pele disclosed that during the World Cup tournament in Mexico he again received an offer from Mexican millionaire Emilio Azcarraga to stay in Mexico and play for one of his teams there. Pele also said a German team was interested in signing him and that he received a proposal to become a soccer instructor in Africa.

No Blame Attached By Jury

DUNCAN — An inquest into a plane crash May 20 at Paldi placed no blame for the accident. The crash killed pilot Wilhelm Dendl and passengers, Louis Sunnus and Maurice Pirat. The coroner's jury recommended a sign warning of the hazard of east-west takeoff be posted at the airfield.

RCMP Stress Boat Safety

SHAWNIGAN LAKE

RCMP again warned boaters to carry proper safety equipment. A number of offenders pleaded guilty in court Wednesday and were each fined $50.

Also appearing was George Bissenden, 21, of Victoria, who was fined $200 for the dangerous operation of a motor boat on Shawnigan Lake June 20.

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Spartans defeated third-place Vancouver Cougars, 2-1, Friday to break a first-place deadlock with Victoria Royals in the Coastal Division of the Western Canada Soccer League.

Playing-coach John Milner and Buzz Parsons scored first-half goals for Spartans, who lost their shutout 17 minutes into the second half when Bill Young scored on a penalty kick.

Royals have a chance to draw even Sunday when they meet winless Sea-Tacs in Seattle.

Another Title

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — Nineteen-year-old Barbara Drake of Saskatoon defeated Pat Lawson, also of Saskatoon, 3 and 2, Friday to win the Saskatchewan women's open golf championship.

Miss Drake, Saskatoon women's champion, and last year's junior provincial champion, was never behind.

Colonist Shares Honors

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert McMurray of the Vancouver Province and Jack Tennant of the Kamloops Daily Sentinel Friday were named winners of the top annual journalism awards presented by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.

McMurray, business editor of The Province, won the $500 award for writers on British Columbia daily newspapers with circulation of more than 25,000. Tennant won the $500 award for writers with papers of less than 25,000 circulation.

William Stavdal, former education reporter with The Victoria Daily Colonist, took the $250 second award for larger newspapers. There were no other awards for smaller newspapers because of a limited number of entries.

* * *

Receiving $100 honorable mention awards were Norman Hacking, marine editor The Province; Gorde Hunter, columnist, The Daily Colonist, and Jack Clarke, labor reporter, The Province.

McMurray received his award for a study of the Kaiser Resources coal mining project in southeastern B.C. and Tennant for a series of articles examining Kamloops' need for a convention and recreation centre.

* * *

Stavdal won for a series examining B.C.'s education system, Hacking for a series on the world's major ports and Hunter and Clarke for series of columns.

Judges for the 12th annual competition were: Philip White, dean of the faculty of commerce and business administration, University of B.C.; Gregory McKeown, Royal Bank of Canada, Vancouver, and Joseph Whitehead, publisher of the Journal of Commerce.

Teen Rock Flop

The evening — from a population point of view — wasn't exactly a smashing success.

Only about 200 people — mostly teen-boppers — made it down to Memorial Arena Friday night for Island Rock Expo, a three-group rock festival produced by MCM Productions of Vancouver.

MCM spokesman Craig McDowell preferred not to talk about it — "Let's just say there was a small turnout."

* * *

One blue-coated Victoria policeman said he thought most of the city's youth were at another show, put on by a local group at half the $2.50 price of admission to Island Rock.

One of the Northwest Company — a Seattle-based rock group — told the brave 200 to clap a little louder, that they had to sound like 10,000.

And Mel Degan of Calgary's Gainsborough Gallery thought the arena's acoustics could be improved upon by the addition of a few thousand bodies.

* * *

The groups and a single performer, singer-composer Tom Northcott of Vancouver, performed anyway.

It was that kind of a really loud, vibrating night which teenagers sway to and which moves adults to comment: "I don't know how they can stand the music that loud."

But it was good solid rock. Perhaps the best Victoria will hear for a while — McDowell understandably isn't in a hurry to support another Victoria flop.

Fifty Protest Vietnam War

OTTAWA (CP) — About 50 persons held a brief demonstration in front of the United States embassy to protest the deaths of 12 persons shot during recent anti-Vietnam war demonstrations in the U.S.

A spokesman for the group said that "students killed were . . . martyrs of the movement to end the war, martyrs of the movement to make a better world.

Copter Carries Injured Man

Randy Miller, 21, of Vancouver is in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital after being rushed by helicopter from Estevan Point where he was injured in a fall.

Theatre Price Protested

Provoked by high admission charges for children's shows in Victoria, two members of city's Low Income Group and their children picketed theatre Friday afternoon. From left, Henrietta Pilon, Stephen, Elaine, Derwin and Shawn Olszewski. They were told that prices were set by film distributors. Normal junior admission charges of 50 cents were raised to 75 cents for Walt Disney and other special children's movies.—(Ellis Shipman)

Max Will Be Back

TORONTO — Max Ferguson ended an eight-year stint of daily morning broadcasts with the CBC radio network Friday — the same day that he was announced winner of the Order of Canada's Medal of Service.

Ferguson, who gained fame as "Rawhide," with his previous show originating in Halifax, will return to the air next fall in a different vein — producing two five-minute skits daily at unannounced times.

Mail Holiday

To observe the Dominion Day statutory holiday, the Canada post office will have no letter carrier delivery, rural mail delivery or wicket services Wednesday. Street letter box collections will be in the evening only and the lock box lobby will be open. Normal holiday service will be given to special deliveries, mail receipts and dispatches.

Lawsuit Against Quebec

Redel Seeks $24,750

QUEBEC (CP) — Walter Redel, the British Columbia government official mistakenly arrested by Quebec Provincial Police last February, will sue the Quebec government for $24,750 damages, it was learned Friday.

Jacques de Billy, Redel's Quebec City lawyer, said in an interview the suit claims the B.C. official was "savagely beaten and injured" when he was arrested.

QPP detectives Gilles Lemieux and Gilles Doucet arrested the director of B.C.'s lands department Feb. 1 in connection with an attempted bank robbery the same day.

De Billy said his client is asking $20,000 for damages against his reputation arising from his arrest and $4,750 medical bills, torn clothing and salary lost while Redel was recovering from his injuries.

Can't Afford More—FIR

IWA Rejects Half-Year Pause in Pay

VANCOUVER (CP) — The bargaining agent for 116 forest companies on the British Columbia coast proposed Friday that 28,000 employees go without a pay increase in current negotiations.

The International Woodworkers of America replied that it is not taking the proposal seriously. It was made by John Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations.

Billings proposed that the IWA agree to extend for one year the coast contract that expired June 15. He offered to make any wage increase after that retroactive to Dec. 15, 1970.

★ ★ ★

"Any pay increases granted now," he said, "could force the immediate closure of many independent mills and the loss of thousands of jobs in B.C.'s No. 1 industry."

The IWA is seeking an increase of $1 an hour in one year on wage scales that range from $3.12 to $4.80 an hour and, among other things, free room and board for logging camp personnel.

Billings said the industry "is not able to make a wage offer at this time."

★ ★ ★

In a news release, he gave these reasons:

"The demand for our wood products is at its lowest point in years.

"Prices of our wood products have dropped to their lowest level in years, while operating costs of all kinds have continued to increase.

"Company profits are at a precariously low level and continue to decline.

"The freeing of the Canadian dollar is robbing the B.C. forest industry of $1,000,000 a week. No other Canadian industry has been hit this hard.

"Home construction in the U.S.A. — our principal market — and Canada is down drastically.

"Ocean freight rates to offshore markets have risen 26 per cent since the first of the year.

"The six-week towboat strike in B.C. has placed many lumber operators and their employees in serious financial difficulties."

Murray Drew, president of the Victoria local of the IWA, said that what Billings says "doesn't hold water when you look at the books of the companies he represents."

"He does this every time in negotiation — if we wait a while he'll come up with something more sensible," said Drew.

Kierans Plea: Get Back On the Team

● Foul-up objective being met. Page 9

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Eric Kierans issued a plea in the Commons Friday to 27,000 postal workers to get back on the team to win back public confidence in the post office and drive private competitors out of business.

Kierans' speech in special debate on the postal dispute carried a threat as well: That the decreased volumes of mail resulting from a loss of public confidence could lead to layoffs in the coming year.

Kierans warned the Council of Postal Unions that its present rotating strike tactics could lead the entire post office into greater difficulties than a strike.

"I've probably got the least security of all," he added in reference to the issue of job security in the dispute.

Post office volume has slipped to the 1966 rate of

Break for Breath-Test Cases

'Clean Slate' Here

By BRUCE LOWTHER

The prosecution at Victoria Provincial Court plans to "start with a clean slate" now that drinking-driving laws that were thrown out March 31 by a B.C. court have been upheld by the Supreme Court of Canada.

But elsewhere across Canada, judges and magistrates brace themselves to handle the blacklog of cases while the high court examined the law.

★ ★ ★

The Victoria clean-slate policy, announced by chief prosecutor J. W. Anderson after the high court's ruling Friday in Ottawa, means an undetermined — but small — number of drive sr naeretriG undetermined — but small — number of drivers in Greater Victoria probably can stop worrying.

● Cabinet acted within its powers, says court. Page 3

The B.C. ruling had eliminated a Criminal Code section that went into effect last Nov. 1 and included laws against impaired driving, refusing to take a breath-analysis test and driving with a blood-alcohol reading of more than .08 per cent.

That reinstated the section that the Nov. 1 one replaced, and it included laws against impaired and intoxicated driving.

★ ★ ★

After March 31, Anderson's office asked the judges of the Victoria court to adjourn action on cases involving the Nov. 1 laws until the high court had made its decision. But the judges decided instead to withdraw or quash the charges.

Asked if test-refusal or .08 charges that had been thrown out would be placed again, Anderson replied:

★ ★ ★

"Having regard to the relatively small number, the length of time that has passed in respect to most of them and the different types of disposition that arose, it strikes me that those still in the system are entitled to a little consideration and may enjoy a happy situation. We propose to start with a clean slate as of the effective date of this judgment."

He said about a dozen cases might be involved and added

Tree Chopping 'Sounds Like Doublecross'

By HUBERT BEYER

Twenty-five tall red oak trees were cut down this week in the 2500-block Shelbourne to make room for the widening of Shelbourne by "a few feet."

Victoria aldermen are outraged because they were assured at Thursday's council meeting no trees would come down.

★ ★ ★

Shelbourne Street residents say they don't know what's going on. Nobody had warned them the trees would be felled.

Tuesday morning, city work crews moved in with chain saws and axes and started to cut down the 25-year-old trees on both sides of Shelbourne between Haultain and Bay.

Friday afternoon, the last oak tree toppled, and all that's left now is a row of one-foot stumps surrounded by sawdust on a naked boulevard.

★ ★ ★

At Thursday's council meeting, Ald. Peter Pollen asked if "any desecration of the landscape" was involved in the city's street construction program. He enquired particularly about a number of trees in Stadacona Park.

He was told by City Manager Dennis Young no trees would come down before council had a chance to review the situation.

When told about the removal of trees on Shelbourne,

Ton-for-Ton Freeze On B.C. Salmoners

VANCOUVER (CP) — New restrictions on British Columbia's commercial salmon fishing fleet were announced Friday by Fisheries Minister Jack Davis.

Davis said total tonnage of the fleet is being frozen, effective immediately, and licence fees for large vessels will be doubled next year.

The minister hinted at the new restrictions last week, when he noted that freezing of the number of vessels in the fleet two years ago had produced a trend to increased tonnage.

The total tonnage of the fleet will now be frozen by a man planning on bringing a ton-for-ton replacement rule.

This means that a fisherman planning on bringing a new boat into the fleet must have one with matching tonnage—or a collection of boats to equal that tonnage—to take out.

If a large vessel is retired, however, only one new vessel

Present Controls Too Little, Too Late?

Land Grab Ruining Islands

Bi-national necklace off Island shore

By DON GAIN

Second of three parts

It isn't often that the word "emergency" is used in conjunction with land-use planning.

But the Capital Region Board has called for just that kind of planning for the Gulf Islands.

★ ★ ★

What is the emergency?

Last November the director of the UBC Institute of Research Ecology announced the findings of a computer study of the Gulf Islands.

"We have fed into the computer all the information we could on the trends of the past 69 years in the Gulf Islands," he said. "Based on those known facts we can ask the computer to tell us what will be happening 10, 20 or 30 years from now if those trends continue."

★ ★ ★

The answer, which he said is an accurate one, is appalling.

"Based on past and present land developments and anticipating that those trends will not diminish, 80 per cent of all the first-class recreational land in the Gulf Islands will be intensively developed by 1980," he said.

"By 1990 the whole damn thing blows up. There will be no land left for recreation. I mean no land. It will all be gone to private owners."

He recommended "rigid land use policy to control the demand for land" and predicted that if such controls were not introduced in the immediate future the islands would, in 10 or 20 years, become "a vast dormitory suburb for Vancouver, Seattle, Victoria and Nanaimo."

"It's already happening," he warned, "and even now may be too late to stop the skid. It will certainly be too late two years from now. If the present trend continues we can forget our efforts to find a solution."

When the provincial government introduced the 10-acre minimum regulation, Holling said it was a "promising" step but suggested tougher

PARADISE at Crossroads

24-Year Trance Ends with Dirty Jokes

Can You Top This?

LONDON (Reuters) — A 63-year-old woman, a Parkinson's disease sufferer who was treated with the drug L-dopa, awoke from a 24-year trance and began telling risque jokes and singing dirty songs.

This bedside performance at New York's Beth Abraham hospital is described in a letter in Lancet, the weekly magazine of the British Medical Association.

But after treatment with L-dopa she regained almost normal speech and movement and requested a tape recorder.

The authors say that in a few days she sang "innumerable salacious songs, dirty jokes and limericks — all derived from party gossip, smutty comics, nightclubs and music halls of the middle and late 1920s."

Then the doctors decided to reduce the drug dosage because of her increasing excitement and the woman forgot all the early memories but remained articulate.

Safe Boating Week

Know Your Boat And Stay Afloat

With Safe Boating Week beginning Wednesday, the Capital Region Safety Council has urged all boaters to apply their knowledge of safety afloat.

The council has summed up some of the reasons for accidents afloat.

They are: Insufficient knowledge of boat and equipment on board; not enough knowledge of practical seamanship such as small-boat navigation; poor maintenance; and poorly-kept life saving and other safety equipment.

For further information dealing with safety afloat, contact the safety council at 385-7241.

BE WISE ... IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Robinson Scores Grand Slam On Successive Turns at Bat

Frank Robinson hit grand-slam home runs in successive times at bat in the fifth and sixth innings Friday night to power Baltimore Orioles to a 12-2 win over Washington Senators.

The two blasts made the veteran outfielder the seventh player in major league baseball to hit two bases-loaded home runs in a game. It was not immediately known if it had been done previously in successive turns at bat.

It was a 1-0 game when Robinson, who was a doubtful starter because he had twisted his back making a spectacular game-saving catch in Thursday's game, connected the first time.

SAME SCRIPT

He did it after Dave McNally and Paul Blair walked around a single by Don Buford, and it happened exactly that way again to load the bases for Robinson's sixth-inning poke.

McNally, now 11-5, had trouble only with Rich Reichardt, who hit his seventh and eighth home runs.

Victory boosted Orioles three games ahead of the rained-out New York Yankees in the American League East.

Willie Horton, who hadn't batted in a run in seven games, drove in five to lead Detroit Tigers to a 7-1 win over Cleveland Indians.

LOSE GROUND

Things tightened a bit in the American League West, where Minnesota Twins had their lead sliced to two games when they were beaten, 4-2, by Chicago White Sox.

California Angels, rolling again after a slump dropped them out of contention for a time, pulled off the season's second triple play in edgingKansas City's outlucked Royals, 5-4.

Runners were on first and second bases in the fifth inning and Royals were 1-2 trailers when Amos Otis hit a sharp ground ball to third-baseman Chico Ruiz.

IT WAS CLOSE

Ruiz fielded it cleanly, stepped on the bag and whipped the ball to second-baseman Sandy Alomar, whose throw nipped the speedy Otis.

New York Mets were pondering the vagaries of life Friday night after what happened to them in baseball-mad Montreal.

Fresh from a sweep of a five-game series with Chicago Cubs which had made them Eastern Division leaders, the National League champions were axed,6-5, by the last-place Expos.

STAUB STARS

Outfielder Rusty Staub, who got the Expos started with a two-run homer in the first inning, threw out a runner at the plate in the seventh inning to keep Expos at 5-4.

Staub singled and scored in the third inning and the other Montreal runs were produced by pinch-hitter Gary Sutherland, who hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning, and Coco Laboy, who homered in the eighth for what was to prove the winning run.

Defeat cut the Mets lead to one game over Chicago Cubs, who were rained out of their game against the third-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

LEADERS WIN

Cincinnati Reds held their lead in the Western Division at nine and a half games and the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers continued to gain on the third place Atlanta Braves.

A ninth-inning single by Tommy Helms brought the Astros and the Dodgers bested San Diego Padres, 4-1, behind the fine pitching of Claude Osteen.

Rookie Wayne Simpson, who needed ninth-inning help, was the Cincinnati winner and is now 11-1.

LARGEST CROWD

A crowd of 55,110 in Los Angeles, largest of the season inthe National League, watched the Dodgers win their fourth game in a row.

In San Francisco, Gaylord Perry became the first 12-game winner of the season by pitching the Giants to three-hit, 4-1 win over the slipping Braves.

Umpire Gets to Bottom of Things

Umpire Art Frantz is trying to make sure of call in play at plate in Thursday night game between Washington Senators and Baltimore Orioles and is getting some unasked help from Washington's Mike Epstein (No. 6). After good look, Frantz decided that catcher Paul Casanova had held on to ball and that Baltimore-runner Don Buford was out.—(AP)

Double Eagle

Uplands Golf Club's 17th hole, a par-four, 288-yard hole which will become a short par-three today in the club's renovations, was aced Friday night by former Victorian Gary Smith.

Smith, now of Vancouver, was playing in a threesome with Gordon Lovitt and Albert Cliff when he made his first hole-in-one.

Smith, 25 years of age, was the Victoria city junior champion from 1961 to 1963 and was runner-up to professional Bill Wakeham in 1963 in the Island Open.

It is believed the hole has only been aced twice previously.

'Y' Track Meet Gets Good Start

Four B.C. records fell Friday when the Victoria "Y"-Times International track and field meet got underway at Centennial Stadium with age-class heats.

The provincial bantam records for both the boys and girls were broken with Cindy Druce of Victoria Track Club lowering the girls' mark to 12.3 seconds and Tracy Vassaso of Vancouver Norwesters lowering the boys' to 12.2.

One other bantam record was of Simon Fraser Track Club established with John Marten of Simon Fraser Track Club covering the boys' 1500 metres in four minutes, 29.8 seconds.

Grant McKay of Vancouver Olympic Club established a midget mark in the boys' 100 metres with a time of 11.2.

CLIFF WINS

Only one senior event was held, John Cliff of Victoria "Y" winning the 10,000 metres in 30:40.8, almost two minutes ahead of runner-up Jim Freeman of Snohomish, Wash.

Jim Colpitts of the "Y" was third in the race which finished in almost total darkness.

The meet continues today from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. with age-class heats and finals.

Open competition will be held Sunday starting at 10:30 a.m. with admission charges of $1.50 for adults and 50c for students.

Several members of Canada's Commonwealth Games squad have entered the Sunday portion of the meet.

SHARE RECORD

The women's 200 metres is one of the feature events with Canadian native record-holders Patty Loverock, a former Comox resident, and Irene Piotrowski, Canadian-team members from Vancouver competing.

Victoria's Anne Langdale faces a stiff test in the 400 metres from Canadian-team members Heather McKay of Edmonton, who will also run in the 200, and Noreen Liepins of Vancouver.

Miss McKay won the event in the Canadian trials at Hamilton last weekend.

Ernie Pitts, 35-year-old defence back who has spent 13 seasons with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has been offered for trade by the Western Football Conference club. Coach Jim Spavital said he had learned that Pitts was not happy in Winnipeg and that an attempt would be made to make a trade. Pitts, several times an all-star choice, started his career as a split end.

Taras Takes First Match

CALGARY — Taras Hryb of Victoria, first Canadian in 33 years to win a medal in international amateur wrestling competition, won his first match Friday at the national championships, gaining praise from the previous medal-winner.

Hryb, who placed third last year in his division at the world junior championships in Boulder, Colo., took a 5-2 decision over Pete Simons of Alliston Ont., in his 180½-pound match.

"He's a stong boy and has good style," commented Joe Schaleimer of Toronto, who won a bronze medal in the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin, Germany.

Scheleimer, now chairman of the Central Ontario Wrestling Association, predicted success for Hryb this year in senior competition.

HE'S CONVINCED

"He should do well in the world championships, but if he doesn't, I'm sure he'll win a medal in the Commonwealth Games."

Twenty wrestlers will be selected for the world championships at Edmonton, July 4-11, and 10 will be named to the Commonwealth Games' squad.

Finals in the senior and preliminaries in the junior freestyle events will be held today. Greco-Roman competition is scheduled Sunday.

Fire Closure

MacMillan-Bloedel operations of the Chemainus Logging Division will be closed to public access this weekend because of extreme fire hazard.

Company officials said they will take another look at the situation next week.

Australians Score Sweep To Thin U.S. Tennis Ranks

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Three stirring Australian-American battles were the centrepieces of Friday's play in the Wimbledon tennis championships and the Australians came out on top every time.

Winning through to the last eight were John Newcombe, Tony Roche and Ken Rosewall. The losers were Dennis Ralston, the 15th seed, Tom Gorman and Marty Riessen.

BEST NEEDED

Newcombe, last year's beaten finalist and second seed, started the rout with a gruelling 14-12, 9-7, 6-2 victory over Ralston at centre court.

Almost at the same time, Roche, the fourth seed, was fighting out a four-setter against Riessen and pulling the match out of the fire 6-4, 8-10, 6-4, 6-2.

Then, in the final—and some fans insisted the best—match of the day on the centre court, veteran Rosewall downed the unseeded Gorman, 6-2, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.

IN QUARTER-FINALS

Those three victories put four Australians in the quarter-finals — the fourth was Bob Carmichael, who defeated Bob Hewitt 6-4, 9-7, 6-2 in a battle of expatriates.

The day was not wholly blank for the Americans, however. In a third round match—the only one left outstanding—ninth seeded Clark Graebner of New York, romped home 6-0, 6-2, 6-1 against Premjit Lall, the Indian No. 1.

Arthur Ashe and Stan Smith of the U.S. will be firing for quarter-final places today.

Graebner plays Ilie Nastase, the Romanian hard court specialist seeded eighth; Ashe, top of the U.S. seeds at No 3, plays Andres Gimeno, the veteran Spaniard ranked only 14th, and Smith plays Roy Emerson, the Australian who won here in 1964-65 but shows all the signs of being past his best.

The other quarter-final berth will be between Rod Laver, still king of the centre court, and Britain's Roger Taylor.

NO SURPRISES

In the women's bracket, the unpredictable girls remained totally predictable as they have done all through this tournament so far.

Billie Jean King of the U.S., twice a winner and the No. 2 seed behind Australia's Margaret Court, and Rosemary Casals, fifth seed from San Francisco, both won.

Billie Jean dropped a service game but recovered to beat Holland's Marijke Schaar 6-4, 6-0, while Rosemary had a little more trouble in disposing of fellow-Californian Denise Carter, 6-3, 8-6.

Also through to the last eight to join Mrs. Court and Virginia Wade, the third seed from Britain, and Francoise Durr of France, were Julie Heldman, seeded sixth, from the U.S., who defeated Valerie Zeigenfuss of San Diego 6-3, 6-2; Betty Ann Grubb, of Santa Monica, Calif., who defeated the Dutch girl Ada Bakker 7-5, 6-2; and Cecilia Martinez, of San Francisco, who beat Rita Bentley of Britain, 9-7, 9-7.

Vicettes Surprise Western Champions

VANCOUVER — Victoria Vicettes surprised Vancouver Blues, the Western Canada champions, 1-0, in an extra inning Friday in the opening round of the Pacific Northwest International Women's Softball Tournament.

Vicettes, who were swamped by Blues Sunday in an exhibition double-header in Victoria, bunched all three of their hits in the top of the eighth inning for the run to back the two-hit pitching of Dodie Skaife.

IT TOOK TIME

Limited to a second-inning base on balls to Hilary Bitten, through the regulation seven innings, Vicettes finally solved Pat Decock when Barb Tribe opened the eighth with a single.

Miss Bitten followed with a single and the runners advanced to second and third on Bev Polson's ground out. Kathy Newell was walked to load the bases and Carol Newcombe, pinch-hitting for Linda Cunningham, brought in the run with a single.

Miss Skaife, who had allowed only two previous base runners, gave up a two-out single to Janice Robinson in the bottom of the inning and then retired the side.

Jill Thomas reached first on an error in the second inning and Miss Decock got the game's first hit in the fourth with a single.

Eight teams are entered in the tournament, which ends Sunday.

Vicettes 000 000 01— 1 3 1
Vancouver Blues 000 000 00— 0 2 0

Full Recognition Finally Comes to Piggott

LONDON (CP) — A thin, pale-faced Englishman, described as looking more like an Oxfam poster than an athlete, is being called by many veteran observers the greatest British jockey of all time.

Lester Piggott, 33, six times British champion rider, has hooted home nearly 3,000 winners in more than 10 countries.

His most recent triumph was aboard Canadian-bred Nijinsky in the Epsom Derby, a record fifth win in the British equivalent of the Kentucky Derby.

Tall for a jockey at five feet seven, Piggott has proven his mastery the last two years at the Laurel International in Washington, considered the premier event in the world racing calendar. He won aboard Sir Ivor in 1968 and Karabas last year.

Born into a racing family, the sombre jockey rode his first winner at 13 years of age, came second in the Epsom Derby at 15 and won it at 18.

His love for racing is legendary. He takes an average of 600 mounts a year and earns an estimated £100,000 a year.

In a recent interview, Piggott expressed his love for the sport.

"I'd be in racing if I had to pay to be in it. It's life to me. One day, I shall stop being a jockey and be a trainer. But even if I didn't have one eye on that, I'd be riding as much as I could."

He considers his height one of the main advantages he has over his competitors.

"A horse responds to a good weight on its back, live weight, not dead weight—lead—under the saddle to make up the right poundage. When a biggish jockey gets up, the chances are the horse feels the authority." Threatening an even longer career for Piggott is a weight problem. He normally should weigh 138 pounds.

He maintains his 117-pound riding weight by living on a boiled egg and toast for breakfast, a sandwich in the jockey's room after riding and a meal at night.

"You lose the habit of eating, really—the less you have up to a point, the less you want."

Mount Arrowsmith

Recreation Uses Told

PORT ALBERNI — Plans for multiple use of the Mount Arrowsmith area were outlined at a meeting Thursday in Port Alberni by Grant Ainscough, assistant chief forester of MacMillan Bloedel.

Plans include a park, ski slopes, a nature trail, preservation of the Rosseau chalet, a viewpoint and retention of popular fishing and hiking areas.

"Some people are thinking still in terms of single use only, that of recreation," Ainscough said. "We believe there can be many more uses and that we can no longer afford this luxury."

Ainscough pointed out that in the immediate vicinity, a watershed area serving the city has been logged for years by the company. The water supply goes to the community, and the roads and fire protection for the watershed are supplied by the company.

★ ★ ★

"We do the same thing in the Nanaimo area, and officials there have figured that MacMillan Bloedel provides services that would cost the community $200,000 a year otherwise. A similar figure would apply here, also," the forester explained.

Some 3,000,000 acres of land are open to hikers. Changes in logging methods have taken the company into road development, creating a system that has been implemented by creation of public access roads. This makes vast areas of the forest available for use by the public for recreational purposes.

"For those who would like never to see a tree cut, and who want only a fishing village and tourism (in Port Alberni), there's not much I can say to convince them that the forest industry and forest management are useful," Ainsworth said, after repeated interjections by Miles Porter, a young man responsible for a widely-circulated petition asking that the Mount Arrowsmith area be saved as a park.

"We hope to show that community objectives and company objectives do coincide," Ainscough said.

It is new growth that provides browse for deer and grouse, young forests provide more water and oxygen, and intensive forestry programs are planned to renew the forest as soon as possible, Ainscough said.

In five years the trees begin to show; in 10 years, there is compact green growth. In the next 60 to 70 years, reforested areas are comparatively undisturbed except to remove occasional trees in the interests of good cultivation to provide space and light for proper growth, he said.

Company plans for public recreation use include relocation of the old railway hiking trail to another area which will not be logged, and access will be permitted at any time except during forest closure due to fire hazard.

★ ★ ★

Several small lakes and ponds in the vicinity, some stocked with trout, will never be totally logged or their shores denuded, the official promised.

Roseau Chalet, popular with Boy Scouts, hikers and climbers should be preserved and timber left around it.

"However, there will be no overnight camping permitted; the squatters cabins up there will have to go, and we hope we can get responsible groups to undertake maintainance of the cabin," Ainscough said.

Suggestions that the entire Arrowsmith area be reserved for a park were not really feasible, since such a huge area is involved, and the possibility of being able to trade the land they have there for timber land of equal value elsewhere is unlikely, officials said.

"We think the public recreational use of forest lands, once the harvesting is done, is quite compatible with the forest industry," Ainscough concluded.

Bob Ahrens, head of the provincial parks department, was present as was MLA Dr. Howard McDiarmid, and explained the difference between a regional and a provincial park.

A provincial park would require more than the ski area and the suggested park area around it and would involve the land exchange problem. In addition, provincial parks can be developed only by the province. No private development is possible.

If the ski area could be acquired by the regional district, which would have to have its letters patent changed to include park operation, development could be on a public, private or mixed basis.

★ ★ ★

Questioned about the road into the area, officials said the B.C. Forest Products road leading off Cameron Lake provides shorter access, but that the difficult grade and switchbacks do not make it a good route for the average motorist, particularly in winter.

The road from China Creek is 22 miles long, but grades are easier and the road is wider and would be kept open in all but the most severe snows by MacMillan Bloedel.

"The suggested route is only temporary," Ted Stroyan assured MacDiarmid, and could eventually be replaced by a shorter route, especially if the provincial highways department wished to become involved.

The public park area suggested would be between 1,000 and 1,500 acres, 2 to 2½ square miles.

"Isn't anyone interested in saving the trees?" reiterated Porter.

★ ★ ★

"Asking to save these trees is asking for a curtailment of operations in the Alberni Valley. We work on an allowable annual cut. This is where the log supplies are," Stroyan said. "Save the mountain and cut back on jobs, as simple as that."

"Surely people are entitled to a wilderness area they can use close at hand," Porter continued.

"If we could have all these things, certainly we would choose to have beautiful forests and employment," Stroyan retorted.

Private developers present said they had been hampered in efforts because the company 'dragged their feet'

★ ★ ★

"We can't make a firm commitment without a commitment from M and B," they complained.

"We have asked for a viable proposal for operation of a ski development. We have not yet received one," Stroyen said.

Youth Jailed

Smoke Screen Fails

NANAIMO—The cells at Nanaimo's RCMP detachment offices are perhaps not the best place to smoke marijuana, a 17-year-old Nanaimo youth found out Friday.

★ ★ ★

Kenneth Wayne Scott was brought back from Haney, where he was serving a three months definite, 12 months indeterminate sentence for possession of stolen goods, to face a charge of possession of marijuana. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two months concurrent.

Police said Scott had substituted marijuana for ordinary tobacco in filter tip cigarettes. They said he was in the juvenile cells May 28 and lit a paper fire in an attempt to cover the smell of the marijuana smoke.

No Blame Attached By Jury

DUNCAN — An inquest into a plane crash May 20 at Paldi placed no blame for the accident. The crash killed pilot Wilhelm Dendl and passengers, Louis Sunnus and Maurice Pirat. The coroner's jury recommended a sign warning of the hazard of east-west takeoff be posted at the airfield.

Robertson

Beach, Fields Called Good

NORTH COWICHAN—Residents of North Cowichan are lucky to have so many natural recreational facilities in their area, Ald. Margaret Robertson said after a recent tour of recreational areas.

"There is still work to be carried out, but on the whole the beaches and playing fields are in good shape. The public can be of great assistance with our maintenance program by cleaning up their litter to help keep our beaches and parks free from pollution," Mrs. Robertson said.

She commended Crofton, which earlier this year carried out a beach cleanup. Touching briefly on the safety angle, she said both swimmers as well as boaters should take greatest care to make this an accident-free holiday. Life guards will be at public beaches as of today.

★ ★ ★

In reference to the tour, Mrs. Robertson said the steps at Malcolm Beach, Chemainus, will be renewed this year, and development work at an adjoining piece of land at Chemainus Kin Park will be recommended to council at its next meeting.

Other areas inspected included Fullers Lake Park, Crofton Beach and Maple Bay Beach. Mrs. Roberson said it was also suggested to carry out some underbrush clearing at the Fullers Lake Park.

She said the wading pool at Duncan's Kin park will probably start operation Thursday with two girls looking after recreational activities for small children.

Nanaimo

Tourist Calls Climb

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo Tourist Bureau is getting a record number of inquiries from tourists, manager Mrs. Alice Hutchins said Thursday.

The bureau had 159 requests for information Wednesday. Mrs. Hutchins said last year there were few days in June when the number of inquiries was more than 100 a day.

★ ★ ★

"This year we have been over 100 almost every day," she said.

In the first half of the month the bureau took 339 more calls than had been taken during the same time last year.

Most of the tourists have been from California, although on Wednesday visitors were calling from every province in Canada, all over the United States, England, New Zealand, The Netherlands, West Germany and France.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hutchins speculated that not as many British Columbia people are travelling this year but said the expected drop of American tourists has not occurred.

She said B.C. Ferries reported that in May it had 1,100 more out-of-province cars through both Nanaimo and Victoria terminals than last May.

RCMP Stress Boat Safety

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — RCMP again warned boaters to carry proper safety equipment. A number of offenders pleaded guilty in court Wednesday and were each fined $50.

Also appearing was George Bissenden, 21, of Victoria, who was fined $200 for the dangerous operation of a motor boat on Shawnigan Lake June 20.

'Red Tape' Untied

Ocean Air Lines Resumes Flights

PORT ALBERNI — The flying president of Ocean Air Lines Limited, Mike Carr-Harris, has announced resumption of a complete schedule of regular flights to the West Coast, and of chartered flights down the Alberni Canal and to Vancouver.

Ocean Air moved into its new base last year on Victoria Quay on the Somass River in the downtown area of North Port Alberni, but has been operating on a limited basis due to "red tape entanglements," a spokesman for the airline said.

The airline operates two, four-passenger Found float planes, one based at Port Alberni and the other at Tofino, and has started a new satellite service at Qualicum Beach, with a wheeled 1-80, based at Qualicum airport, available for charter to any point on the Island.

Regular schedules cover most of the West Coast, including Ahousat, Bamfield, Bedwell Sound, Blowhole Bay, Boat Basin, Ecoole, Effingham Islands, Green Cove, Nahmint Lake and Tahsis, "or anywhere else the passengers need or want to go. If it's not a regular stop, they can charter service," pilot Paul Dugal said.

Many of the points on Ocean Air's schedule are inaccessible except by air or by private boat. Freighting supplies are a big part of the airline's job, but sports fishermen out for fun, and commercial fishermen who want to get in and out from the fishing grounds wihout bringing in their boats, use the service regularly. So do loggers, geological survey parties, timber cruisers, scalers and pilots going out to the head of the canal to meet and guide incoming freighters.

Ocean Air hopes to find sufficient public support to provide daily service from Qualicum Beach to Vancouver.

Nanaimo's Clean Sport Near

'Hoist Mainsail and Lower Bath Plug'

NANAIMO — The Great International Nanaimo to Vancouver Bathtub Race will be held again July 19.

Or, in the words of an Australian newspaperman as he took a trial run across Sydney harbor in May: "Hoist the mainsail and lower the bath plug." He sank — four times.

It all started when Nanaimo's committee was making plans for centennial celebrations in 1967.

Glen Galloway, a real estate salesman, suggested two or three bathtubs have a race from Nanaimo to Vancouver during the summer.

★ ★ ★

That July nearly 300 tubs showed up with 2,000 other vessels along to watch the epic voyage.

It made Time and Life magazines, the national television networks, even the national American TV networks.

Frank Ney, who became Nanaimo's mayor in the December 1967, municipal elections, appeared on the American television show To Tell The Truth as the mayor of the Bathtub Capital of the World.

He was singled out at Expo and more recently, at the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, was introduced as the mayor of "that place where they have the bathtub races."

★ ★ ★

Galloway had created a monster. The event far exceeded the expectations of the centennial committee that saw it as a one-shot stunt.

In 1968 bathtubbers became the Loyal Nanaimo Bathtub Society, a non-profit organization registered with the government as a society.

That summer there were 277 entries — 82 tubs finished the crossing. The previous year 46 had made it.

In 1968 Stan Vollmers made the crossing in two hours and one minute. That was also the year Nanaimo's own Barry Clark finished in a record time of 32 hours.

★ ★ ★

Clark paddled across that year and drifted almost to the mouth of the Fraser River. Planes buzzed him — one dropped food — freighters and tugs tooted, fishermen stopped by to chat.

In 1969, there were about 250 entries; 212 managed to get out of the harbor without sinking, and 76 finished the race.

The same day men landed on the moon, but the race still made the front pages.

In 1969 Barry Clark made it to Entrance Island, just out of Nanaimo's harbor, in three hours and decided not to continue. The winner, John Filliponi, had arrived at Kitsilano beach by that time.

Galloway chose to make the crossing in an escort boat in 1969. The first year his tub sank in the harbor. The second year his tub, sponsored by Coca-Cola, sank in the harbor.

"Things did not go better," he said.

★ ★ ★

This winter Galloway has been working on a tub that should be the ultimate in comfort: remote steering, foam rubber seats, mahogany-panelled dashboard.

According to the regulations, which are as stringently followed as possible, any form of stabilization can by used provided the tub draws four inches of water when stationary.

Maximum horsepower is six, but any amount of sail is possible. Tubs must be genuine pressed metal, porcelain, glass fibre or moulded plastic and must measure no more than six feet, three inches in length, three feet in width and two feet, one inch in depth.

A person entering for the first time undergoes "bathtism." One year "Bathman" attempted the voyage.

Ney attributes the popularity of the race to the fact that it is a good, clean sport.

He has always been unable to make the crossing "because of the pressure of civic duties," he says.

★ ★ ★

"And if I won, you know what people would say."

The Vancouver Sea Festival has challenged the mayor to join a group of water-skiiers in a crossing from Vancouver to Nanaimo the day before the great race.

Ney said he will participate if Vancouver's Mayor Tom Campbell will.

★ ★ ★

Tubs are coming from Yellowknife, Manitoba, California and Washington. Two navies will be represented — Americans with three ships and Canadians with four ships.

Clark has hinted he may make the crossing in a balloon to escape the ignominy of being late or sinking, but he will not disclose his plans.

Nanaimo's Centennial Committee, chaired by Les Mottishaw, who is Commodore of the Bathtub Fleet, has asked the province for permission to have Centennial Sam and Sue in a bathtub on their letterhead.

They got an okay from the government on the condition Sam and Sue are clothed.

The prize this year, as always, is bathtub plug.

'Wonder Dog' Will Recover

George "the wonder dog" will be home in a couple of days with a cast on one leg but otherwise just about as he was before he plummetted 42 feet Wednesday afternoon in downtown Victoria.

The only thing that remained a mystery Thursday about George was how he got from the top of the city parkade in the 600 block Fisgard to a paved area bounded by the parkade, Provincial Court, police station and Centennial Square.

Everyone involved in his story agreed that may never be known.

★ ★ ★

The 14-month-old, red-golden Labrador-German shepherd cross got into the news when two or three men working in the paved area heard a thud and turned to see George fall in a heap.

That was about 12:30 p.m. Wednesday and several policemen ran up to the top of the parkade, but found no one there.

But Thursday morning, the veterinarian said the dog was recovering rapidly because he is "young and healthy," and would be home in a couple of days with a cast on one leg.

At about the same time, a neighbor who noticed a Colonist story about the dog asked Roland Wallace, 1331 Denman, if his dog George was around. That was when Wallace finally found out where George had gone to.

Wallace said his son Jimmy, 14, had been walking along Douglas beside the square with George and had met his sister. They stopped to talk and, when they went their separate ways, each thought George was with the other.

The dog's disappearance was not noticed until later in the day and Wallace went down to the square at about midnight for an unsuccessful search.

★ ★ ★

Wallace said the dog is "quiet and never runs away," adding:

"I don't think he would jump. He's an intelligent dog. It's a long way down and he could see that. I think maybe he was wandering around and maybe got close to somebody's car."

Whatever happened, dog fanciers in the police station area were calling George a "wonder dog," adding that he was lucky, too.

Big Hurdles Left For Rest Haven

It will be April, 1971, before any construction begins on a replacement for Rest Haven Hospital, Capital Region hospital board chairman Jim Cumming said Thursday.

The provincial government announced Thursday afternoon its approval of an expenditure of $128,000 for a new site on Mount Newton Cross Roads in Central Saanich for a 75-bed extended care hospital.

Rest Haven, a 56-bed acute care hospital in Sidney, has had the option on the 22-acre site and has been getting sketch plans for the projected building while awaiting purchase approval.

★ ★ ★

Acquisition of that property was the first phase of a renewal program that called for the eventual construction of a 150-bed acute and extended care centre.

Cumming said that since there is no sanitary sewer in Central Saanich, a private system will be needed for the hospital.

He said a plant would cost in the neighborhood of $60,000 to $70,000, while an additional $20,000 would be needed for an outfall.

Cumming predicted that it will take about nine months to nurse the scheme through to a point where building could start. He said he based his calculations on experience at the Gorge Hospital.

He said the biggest stumbling block in development is likely to be the cost factor.

"The health minister has served notice the provincial government won't share costs of anything above the estimated $10,000 a bed. If estimates come in higher than that then we shall have to go to referendum on the additional costs which would have to be paid entirely by regional residents."

He said that up to the ceiling of $10,000 per bed the hospital district borrows the entire amount but the provincial government pays 60 per cent of the annual payment as well as interest costs.

★ ★ ★

Central Saanich residents have twice defeated a sewer referendum within the last six months.

During the referendum campaign Health Minister Ralph Loffmark stepped in to warn that failure of the referendum could affect the decision to build the hospital in the municipality.

The proposed 150-bed hospital couldn't function without a sewer system, Loffmark said at that time, and the alternatives would be to move the hospital to another municipality or to put in a special sewer and treatment plant for the hospital.

Salmonella

Further Cases Reported

By JOHN MATTERS

New cases of salmonella enteriditis, the infectious gastro-intestinal disease that felled about 60 persons after a dinner at the Empress Hotel June 13, are showing up in the community, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, Greater Victoria senior medical health officer, said Thursday.

The latest victims — and he declined to say how many there were — had been in contact with some of the get-together in the Empress, he said.

Whitbread said it was "difficult to say" how many persons have since come down with the disease that is keeping three patients in the isolation ward of St. Joseph's Hospital.

A fourth victim was discharged earlier this week.

Whitbread also said there have been no reports of the bacteria that causes severe diarrhea, cramps and pain being found in food samples collected at the Empress since the June 13 event.

However, the micro-organism was found in fecal samples of "plenty" of the employees and they have been ordered off duty, he said.

"If any are on duty, the manager will be notified and guests at the private school he has promised firm action," said Whitbread.

The medical health officer also said none of the Empress' food services have been closed to the public.

★ ★ ★

Other public health authorities pointed out that such action would not be possible unless the bacteria has actually been found in samples of food. And that has not yet occurred.

The tests require meticulous laboratory work that takes several days.

"There is nothing you can do to speed up the process of isolating that organism," said a spokesman for the B.C. health branch.

"You first get a mixed growth and out of that you isolate and identify the organisms that show up.

"Unless you actually grow a (salmonella) organism you can always be challenged. The culture or growth is the final answer."

The bacteriology laboratories at Royal Jubilee Hospital have been able to handle the heavy volume of work, said the spokesman.

This has made it possible to expedite the studies, he said.

If the investigation had to be done in the public health laboratory in Vancouver, there would be a delay of a day or two in getting results.

The three adults in St. Joseph's isolation unit were in good condition Thursday and were responding well to treatment, a hospital spokesman said.

There have been no new admissions to hospital since those persons went in last week, four and five days after the St. Michael's school reunion.

There has been speculation that some of the persons who were felled after the dinner may become carriers of salmonella enteriditis.

A carrier is a person who, while not showing the symptoms of the disease himself, is able to infect others.

If a carrier does not respond to drugs, the treatment often is surgical removal of the gall bladder, the procedure that is used on typhoid carriers.

★ ★ ★

(Enteriditis is at the same end of the salmonella spectrum as typhii.)

Medical spokesmen have been cautious in their discussion of the current outbreak of salmonella because they say they do not want to create a "salmonella neurosis."

They recall the neurosis that accompanied the outbreaks of poliomyelitis, when almost everyone with high temperature and a sore throat thought he had the disease.

Blood Clinic Supported

Blood donor clinic held at the legislative buildings from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday attracted 235 volunteers.

Results were "extremely gratifying," a Red Cross official said, adding that the total for the week to date was 811 pints.

Clinics will be held today at HMC Dockyard from 9:30 a.m. until noon, and from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Car Wash

A car wash will be held by the Victoria Chapter, Order of DeMolay, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday at the Simpsons-Sears service station at Hillside Plaza.

SPCA Inspector:

He's Friend to Unwanted

DUNCAN — Calling Dan Hughes a dog-catcher is one of the worst things a person could do to the 28-year-old SPCA inspector at Duncan.

Nothing could be further from the truth than to pin this old image on Hughes whose understanding for animals and administrative abilities has done wonders for the SPCA shelter on Cassino Road.

Hughes arrived with his wife and youny children and two bull terriers last September.

Much work was required to bring the shelter back to standard. Within months Hughes was able to win the confidence of the general public and of two councils in this area that contribute to the pound activity.

The pound work is only one of several aspects of his job which also deals with the prevention of cruelty work in an area that stretches from south of Ladysmith across to the west coast to Port Renfrew. It includes the entire Lake Cowichan district and the area between Mill Bay and Shawnigan Lake.

★ ★ ★

The young inspector, who some time ago quit another job because he wanted to do SPCA work, stressed, "Although we handle many pets, we are not a pet shop, but we assist people to find a suitable pet and advise them on the care of their animals."

He said many inquiries about animal care are being dealt with.

"We welcome people to bring their animals which they no longer can keep to us. We have tremendous success with finding homes for the animals."

Briefly he touched on the aspect of his work he does not like, destruction of unwanted or sick animals. Among the unwanted pets are dogs who become delinquent by biting children or killing other people's livestock.

★ ★ ★

The destroying of animals, mainly cats and dogs, is swift and humane and for some of the animals it is the end of an unhappy life. However, Hughes pointed out, the numbers of animals destroyed is relatively small and could be even smaller. People would be kinder and more considerate to spay female cats to stop a large flow of unwanted kittens during the summer months and early fall.

He said smiliar consideration should be given to female dogs. Nevertheless, Hughes is able to place many of the animals at the shelter, including grown dogs, puppies, kittens and smaller pets.

Youngsters from the local Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements have found Hughes a willing teacher and adviser when they are working for various animal badges.

Hughes and his young family have been accepted by the community and "We have made more friends here in those few months than ever before anywhere else."

★ ★ ★

The shelter facilities now are large enough to take 15 to 18 dogs, and the new cages he recently built can accommodate up to 25 cats. Hughes plans to further improve the shelter site and perhaps to put in some permanent animal displays for visiting youngsters.

Recently an elementary school class toured the facilities, and the teacher as well as Hughes were amazed how much consideration even the "tougher kids" displayed.

"The youngsters were gentle. I want to leave the impression with children that we help, that pound work is only part of our work. Some even don't know what SPCA means. Some think the P stands for pound," Hughes said.

He occasionally lectures to yough groups. He said, "It is easy with children because they are interested in animals. If parents would instil in them the responsibility of owning and caring for a pet, then many problems would not arise."

Some months after Hughes took over the animal shelter at Duncan, people began to come from as far as Victoria and Nanaimo to leave their pets with him. Just recently a Nanaimo resident left three pups at the Duncan shelter for adoption.

"I enjoy this job extremely well, and I hope to stay in this wonderful area for some time to come," Hughes said.

Jailed Man May Be Deported

NANAIMO — A 24-year-old West German citizen has been given a nine-month sentence for possession of hashish and LSD for the purpose of trafficking, and possession of marijuana.

Harald Schneider will probably be deported when his jail term is served.

Police said Schneider tried to get rid of two plastic bags containing 42 LSD tablets, 15 foil-wrapped hashish sticks and a quantity of marijuana when he was checked April 27.

Schneider has been living in British Columbia since November, 1967.

Lawsuit Against Quebec

Redel Seeks $24,750

QUEBEC (CP) — Walter Redel, the British Columbia government official mistakenly arrested by Quebec Provincial Police last February, will sue the Quebec government for $24,750 damages, it was learned Friday.

Jacques de Billy, Redel's Quebec City lawyer, said in an interview the suit claims the B.C. official was "savagely beaten and injured" when he was arrested.

Detectives Gilles Lemieux and Gilles Doucet arrested the director of B.C.'s lands department Feb. 1 in connection with an attempted bank robbery the same day.

De Billy said his client is asking $20,000 for damages against his reputation arising from his arrest and $4,750 medical bills, torn clothing and salary lost while Redel was recovering from his injuries.

Can't Afford More—FIR

IWA Scorns Half-Year Pay Pause

VANCOUVER (CP) — The bargaining agent for 116 forest companies on the British Columbia Coast proposed Friday that 28,000 employees go without a pay increase in current negotiations.

The International Woodworkers of America replied that it is not taking the proposal seriously. It was made by John Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations.

Billings proposed that the IWA agree to extend for one year the Coast contract that expired June 15. He offered to make any wage increase after that retroactive to Dec. 15, 1970.

* * *

"Any pay increases granted now," he said, "could force the immediate closure of many independent mills and the loss of thousands of jobs in B.C.'s No. 1 industry."

The IWA is seeking an increase of $1 an hour in one year on wage scales that range from $3.12 to $4.80 an hour and, among other things, free room and board for logging camp personnel.

Billings said the industry "is not able to make a wage offer at this time."

* * *

In a news release, he gave these reasons:

"The demand for our wood products is at its lowest point in years.

"Prices of our wood products have dropped to their lowest level in years, while operating costs of all kinds have continued to increase.

"Company profits are at a precariously low level and continue to decline.

"The freeing of the Canadian dollar is robbing the B.C. forest industry of $1,000,000 a week. No other Canadian industry has been hit this hard.

"Home construction in the U.S.A. — our principal market — and Canada is down drastically.

"Ocean freight rates to offshore markets have risen 26 per cent since the first of the year.

"The six-week towboat strike in B.C. has placed many lumber operators and their employees in serious financial difficulties."

Murray Drew, president of the Victoria local of the IWA, said that what Billings says "doesn't hold water when you look at the books of the companies he represents."

"He does this every time in negotiation — if we wait a while he'll come up with something more sensible," said Drew.

Break for Breath-Test Cases

'Clean Slate' Here

By BRUCE LOWTHER

● Cabinet acted within its powers, says court. Page 3

The prosecution at Victoria Provincial Court plans to "start with a clean slate" now that drinking-driving laws that were thrown out March 31 by a B.C. court have been upheld by the Supreme Court of Canada.

But elsewhere across Canada, judges and magistrates brace themselves to handle the backlog of cases while the high court examined the law.

* * *

The Victoria clean-slate policy, announced by chief prosecutor J. W. Anderson after the high court's ruling Friday in Ottawa, means an undetermined — but small — number of drivers in Greater Victoria probably can stop worrying.

The B.C. ruling had eliminated a Criminal Code section that went into effect last Nov. 1 and included laws against impaired driving, refusing to take a breath-analysis test and driving with a blood-alcobol reading of more than .08 per cent.

That reinstated the section that the Nov. 1 one replaced, and it included laws against impaired and intoxicated driving.

* * *

After March 31, Anderson's office asked the judges of the Victoria court to adjourn action on cases involving the Nov. 1 laws until the high court had made its decision. But the judges decided instead to withdraw or quash the charges.

Asked if test-refusal or .08 charges that had been thrown out would be placed again, Anderson replied:

* * *

"Having regard to the relatively small number, the length of time that has passed in respect to most of them and the different types of disposition that arose, it strikes me that those still in the system are entitled to a little consideration and may enjoy a happy situation. We propose to start with a clean slate as of the effective date of this judgment."

He said about a dozen cases might be involved and added

Tree Chopping 'Sounds Like Doublecross'

By HUBERT BEYER

Twenty-five tall red oak trees were cut down this week in the 2500-block Shelbourne to make room for the widening of Shelbourne by "a few feet."

Victoria aldermen are outraged because they were assured at Thursday's council meeting no trees would come down.

* * *

Shelbourne Street residents say they don't know what's going on. Nobody had warned them the trees would be felled.

Tuesday morning, city work crews moved in with chain saws and axes and started to cut down the 25-year-old trees on both sides of Shelbourne between Haultain and Bay.

Friday afternoon, the last oak tree toppled, and all that's left now is a row of one-foot stumps surrounded by sawdust on a naked boulevard.

* * *

At Thursday's council meeting, Ald. Peter Pollen asked if "any desecration of the landscape" was involved in the city's street construction program. He enquired particularly about a number of trees in Stadacona Park.

He was told by City Manager Dennis Young no trees would come down before council had a chance to review the situation.

When told about the removal of trees on Shelbourne,

Kierans Plea: Get Back On the Team

● Foul-up objective being met. Page 9

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Eric Kierans issued a plea in the Commons Friday to 27,000 postal workers to get back on the team to win back public confidence in the post office and drive private competitors out of business.

Kierans' speech in special debate on the postal dispute carried a threat as well: That the decreased volumes of mail resulting from a loss of public confidence could lead to layoffs in the coming year.

Kierans warned the Council of Postal Unions that its present rotating strike tactics could lead the entire post office into greater difficulties than a strike.

"I've probably got the least security of all," he added in reference to the issue of job security in the dispute.

Post office volume has slipped to the 1966 rate of Present Controls Too Little, Too Late?

Land Grab Ruining Islands

Bi-national necklace off Island shore

By DON GAIN

Second of three parts

It isn't often that the word "emergency" is used in conjunction with land-use planning.

But the Capital Region Board has called for just that kind of planning for the Gulf Islands.

What is the emergency?

Last November the director of the UBC Institute of Research Ecology announced the findings of a computer study of the Gulf Islands.

* * *

"We have fed into the computer all the information we could on the trends of the past 69 years in the Gulf Islands," Dr. C. S. Holling said. "Based on those known facts we can ask the computer to tell us what will be happening 10, 20 or 30 years from now if those trends continue."

The answer, which he said is an accurate one, is appalling.

"Based on past and present land developments and anticipating that those trends will not diminish, 80 per cent of all the first-class recreational land in the Gulf Islands will be intensively developed by 1980," he said.

"By 1990 the whole damn thing blows up. There will be no land left for recreation. I mean no land. It will all be gone to private owners."

He recommended "rigid land use policy to control the demand for land" and predicted that if such controls were not introduced in the immediate future the islands would, in 10 or 20 years, become "a vast dormitory suburb for Vancouver, Seattle, Victoria and Nanaimo."

"It's already happening," he warned, "and even now may be too late to stop the skid. It will certainly be too late two years from now. If the present trend continues we can forget our efforts to find a solution."

When the provincial government introduced the 10-acre minimum regulation, Holling said it was a "promising" step but suggested tougher

Ton-for-Ton Freeze On B.C. Salmoners

VANCOUVER (CP) — New restrictions on British Columbia's commercial salmon fishing fleet were announced Friday by Fisheries Minister Jack Davis.

Davis said total tonnage of the fleet is being frozen, effective immediately, and licence fees for large vessels will be doubled next year.

The minister hinted at the new restrictions last week, when he noted that freezing of the number of vessels in the fleet two years ago had produced a trend to increased tonnage.

The total tonnage of the fleet will now be frozen by a ton-for-ton replacement rule.

This means that a fisherman planning on bringing a new boat into the fleet must have one with matching tonnage—or a collection of boats to equal that tonnage—to take out.

If a large vessel is retired, however, only one new vessel

24-Year Trance Ends with Dirty Jokes

Can You Top This?

LONDON (Reuters) — A 63-year-old woman, a Parkinson's disease sufferer who was treated with the drug L-dopa, awoke from a 24-year trance and began telling risque jokes and singing dirty songs.

This bedside performance at New York's Beth Abraham hospital is described in a letter in Lancet, the weekly magazine of the British Medical Association.

But after treatment with L-dopa she regained almost normal speech and movement and requested a tape recorder.

The authors say that in a few days she sang "innumerable salacious songs, dirty jokes and limericks — all derived from party gossip, smutty comics, nightclubs and music halls of the middle and late 1920s."

Then the doctors decided to reduce the drug dosage because of her increasing excitement and the woman forgot all the early memories but remained articulate.

All Greater Victoria Eating, Drinking Places

Salmonella Sparks Special Inspection Blitz

A thorough inspection of all eating and drinking establishments in Greater Victoria will be made within the next few weeks.

"I want things done, fixed up properly, with no hemming or hawing," Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical officer of health, said Friday.

He said the inspections will be done as a direct result of "the situation at the Empress Hotel."

Salmonella enterditis, the infectious gastro-intestinal disease that felled about 60 persons following a dinner at the Empress June 13, has sparked the new inspections.

★ ★ ★

Normally all such establishments are inspected once a year. Asked if his department had enough staff to carry out the mass inspections, Whitbread said, "This is most important. They'll just have to drop everything else to get this done, and if some other things aren't done, it's just too bad."

He said his staff was still investigating the salmonella situation. Fecal samples were still being taken from Empress kitchen staff members, and all staff working the kitchen the night of June 13 had been suspended.

★ ★ ★

Four persons had been admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital. One was discharged last week, and Whitbread said the other three were sent home Friday.

Mrs. Rubymay Parrott, chairman of the Metropolitan Health Board, told the Colonist "the situation is being handled as well as you can expect it to be handled. It's completely in the hands of Dr. Whitbread and his staff." She refused further comment saying, "I'm not a medical person and so am in no position to comment one way or the other."

Dr. A. A. Larsen, provincial epidemiologist, said, "I don't believe this is a thing that is going to spread throughout the community.

"Our standards of living and sanitation are high enough so that this is a self-limiting thing. We're not dealing with a situation where we have open privies."

Of several new cases reported by Whitbread Thursday, Larsen said, "You always get a few family cases."

Of the people affected who are still carrying disease traces, he said, "A few of them will be shedding for weeks and even for months.

★ ★ ★

"There is nothing medical science knows of that will shorten this period. If they take adequate precautions, they will not infect their families."

Whitbread declined to say how many new cases of secondary infection had turned up, and added it was "difficult to say" how many have contracted the disease as a result of contact with persons who attended the Empress dinner.

Two Faces Of Friday

Victoria's bright, sunny weather continued most of Friday with some cloudy periods, slightly muggy atmosphere and high temperature of 72 degrees. All of which helped provide study in contrasts for William E. John's camera as he caught B.C. Packers at Ogden Point dumping ice into sea from holds of ships, and city workmen, with somewhat warmer job of setting curbstones at Carey Road and Douglas.

Defence Department Program

Students Pursuing Jobs Can Join the Army Now

The federal government is attempting to increase the number of student jobs this summer by taking on more help than in previous years.

Tuesday the defence department announced it will employ about 6,000 students across Canada for seven weeks.

A spokesman for the Bay Street Armory said Victoria's share will be 100 students.

The program will run from July 6 to Aug. 21 and for Victoria will be carried out in the armory.

To be eligible, a person must be an unemployed male student between the ages of 16 and 24.

Militia Program

The students will take a basic army militia program consisting of marching, weapon handling and map reading and will be paid about $7 a day for a five-day work week.

By Thursday, about 27 students had applied but a spokesman said the small number was because of lack of advertising.

The other attempt at relieving the student unemployment situation was releasing of federal funds June 12 to various federal departments to hire more.

With these extra funds, some Victoria branches of the federal government were able to hire more students.

Defence Work

The defence research establishment at CFB Esquimalt has seven more students this year, bringing their student employment to 16.

Fort Rodd Hill has a total of nine students, up five from last year.

John Atcheson said Canada Manpower has increased student hiring by six, bringing the total to nine.

Most of these students are working in the temporary work office on Humboldt, placing other students in jobs and doing very well considering the current labor conditions, he said.

The Canadian Hydrographic Service, with the aid of the extra funds was able to hire an extra six students this week, making their total about 15.

The agricultural department hired four University of Victoria students this spring but said it never hired any more because the funds came through too late for them.

No Postal Jobs

The post office has hired no students this summer and it is unlikely it will.

The federal fisheries was the only department reporting decreased student hiring this year. Last year it had three students but this year the total went down to two.

A spokesman said the extra job was chopped, but he noted one of the other positions had to be created.

Most provincial government departments contacted did not have records of students hired for the summer as they were grouped in with all other new employees.

Welfare Payments Must Be Picked Up

Victoria and Saanich welfare departments have asked recipients to pick up their cheques at the offices because they will not be mailed this month.

Spokesmen for the two departments blame uncertain postal service because of strikes for the move.

Union officials say, however, that the precaution was unnecessary, and had the cheques been mailed in the normal manner they would have been delivered on time.

"That mail normally comes in bundled, and there would be no difficulty about sorting and delivering it," said C. A. Spencer, secretary of the Victoria Letter Carrier's Union.

Alex Davidson, city welfare administrator, said women can get their cheques at 1947 Cook Street and men at 613 Pandora between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday only. People whose last name begins with the letters A to L should call before noon, while the rest should call after 1 p.m., he said.

No new welfare applications will be processed in the city Tuesday.

In Saanich, the cheques can be picked up at the welfare office at 780 Vernon.

Nabbed in Empress Stakeout

FBI Escorts Suspects

The two Americans arrested June 18 after a 15-hour stakeout at the Empress Hotel returned Friday to the U.S. — with an escort of four FBI men.

Kenneth James Bramwell, 24, of Portland, and Jesse Rutherford, 21, of Seattle, left Victoria with their escort aboard the 3:30 p.m. sailing of the Port Angeles ferry.

They were to be returned to Seattle to face charges in connection with bank robberies.

★ ★ ★

Earlier in the day, the prosecution in Victoria Provincial Court entered stays of proceedings against Bramwell on a charge of having a prohibited weapon in a motor vehicle and against Rutherford on a charge of possession of marijuana.

As soon as Judge William Ostler recorded the stays, the two were taken before Victoria County Court Judge Montague Drake, where they signed voluntary waivers of extradition.

★ ★ ★

Rutherford and Bramwell were arrested at 3:30 p.m. June 18 in a car in the Empress Hotel's rear parking lot after a stakeout that began early that morning. There was no resistance and police found a .22-calibre revolver and a small amount of marijuana in the car or the two men's rooms.

★ ★ ★

Rutherford was wanted by the FBI after three bank holdups in Seattle and Portland while Bramwell was sought in one of the two Portland robberies.

It was understood their lengthy pre-extradition stay of eight days was due to legal complications and paper work.

Motorist Hurt, Passenger Fine

The driver of a sports car was seriously injured and his passenger escaped with minor injuries after the car flipped over on 1500-block Esquimalt Road about 7:10 p.m. Friday.

Stephen John Warren, 19, of 1257 Hampshire, Oak Bay, is in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital with multiple injuries.

The passenger, Guy Gatm Jeffery, 22, of CFB Esquimalt, was taken to hospital, treated for minor injuries to his left arm and later released.

Esquimalt police are still investigating.

In an earlier accident Friday, Gordon A. Johnston, 29, of 2185 Amity Drive, Saanichton, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with injuries he suffered after the large semi-trailer flat-deck truck he was driving careened down a steep 100-foot embankment 11 miles north of Sooke about 11 a.m., Sooke RCMP said.

Johnston remains in satisfactory condition with an injured knee.

RCMP said the truck was proceeding down a steep, winding hill leading to Kirby Creek and the brakes apparently overheated, causing the truck to lose control and leave the road.

★ ★ ★

The cab of the truck, which was hauling a load of bags of cement, was totally wrecked but the trailer suffered only minor damage, police said. Johnston was alone in the truck.

It took wreckers about seven hours to get the truck from the bottom of the embankment back to the highway.

Blood Clinic Tops Quota

A Red Cross blood donor clinic Friday at CFB Esquimalt, Naden, collected 124 pints of blood, bringing the total for a five-day drive to 955 — five pints more than the week's goal. Red Cross spokesman Maj. C. E. C. MacNeill said he was "very pleased with the results." The next blood drive begins July 20 at Red Cross House.

Despite Building Woes

Senior Citizens' Home Ready Before Christmas

A $2,000,000 luxury senior citizens' home on Simcoe Street will be ready for 167 occupants before Christmas.

The project was approved by Victoria city council more than a year ago, but excavation didn't start until March of this year.

Built by Imperial Construction Ltd., a Winnipeg-based firm, the home will be called Beacon Hill Lodge.

Winnipeg architect James Libling of Libling and Michener, preparers of the plans for the project, told the Colonist from Winnipeg Friday he hoped the building would be completed early in December.

★ ★ ★

"We were somewhat slowed down by your construction lockout, but the basement is all finished and we hope to have the lodge ready for occupancy before Christmas," Libling said.

Victoria assistant city planner Peter Crisp said the project was "very carefully conceived" and incorporated the latest features to be found in senior citizens homes.

"Just to give you an example, each floor is painted in a different color. That way an older person who might be a bit forgetful may not remember the number of his floor, but the color."

★ ★ ★

Crisp said this project was another good example of how long it can take from conception of a plan to the actual start of construction.

The home, he said, would have nursing facilities for elderly persons who didn't require full hospital treatment. Imperial Construction was one of the best-known firms in the field of senior citizens' housing.

"They have built similar projects in Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver," Crisp said.

New Water Saves Day

Dead Driver Negligent

A verdict of negligence was issued Friday after an inquiry into a fatal traffic accident June 11 was held by Greater Victoria Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre.

He ruled that John George Gosling, 16, of 2606 Bowker in Oak Bay, "died as a result of driving a car at excessive speed and of allowing it to get out of control."

Gosling died late June 11 when the station wagon he was driving crashed into a power pole in the 3000-block McAnally Road on Ten Mile Point. His only passenger, Frederick Grimm, 17, of 3145 Exeter in Oak Bay, is recovering from fractures of facial bones.
